Headmaster's Message

Our guest speaker at this year's Football luncheon, Mr. Norman May, displayed a photo of one of the teams in which he played some years ago. He recounted the later performances of its members — in grade play, in representative football, some for New South Wales, some for Australia. In all it was a remarkable record. Then, whimsically, but pointedly, he suggested that the 1964 boys look at their present team-mates and think of them in terms of the future. Who would go on to wear the Blue of the State and even the Green and Gold of Australia?

Let us take this thought a step further, but let us make it more personal, very personal.

You, not the boy in the next desk, but you, yourself: what will you be in, say, 1974 - ten years from now?

What will you be doing? What will be your place in life? Will you have reached the position that you hope for?

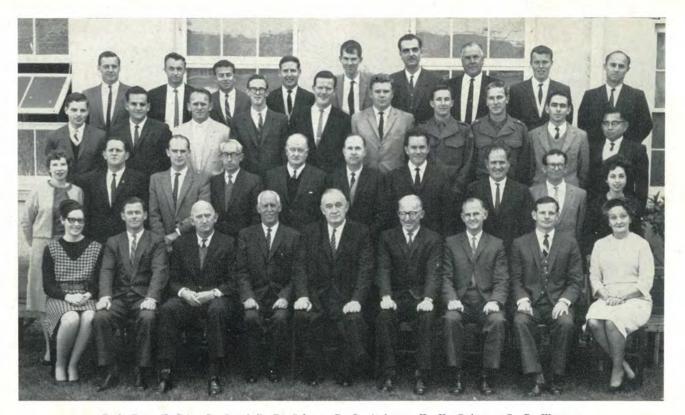

Above all, what sort of person will you be?

The question then follows: are you preparing now to become that person you want to be in 1974?

Are you on the right track?

M. R. CALLAGHAN,

Headmaster.

Mr. M. R. CALLAGHAN

In the eighty years' history of Sydney High School, nine Headmasters have been entrusted with the building-up, and the maintaining of, a great tradition and an impressive record.

At the beginning of this year (1964) came the need to appoint the tenth Headmaster of this great school. The honour was bestowed on Mr. M. R. Callaghan, foundation Headmaster of Cootamundra High School. This choice carries on a Callaghan tradition of almost one hundred years' unbroken teaching service in the Education Department of N. S. Wales. Mr. Callaghan's grandfather and father were famous headmasters of their day. It is difficult to imagine anyone better fitted for, and more worthy of, the very exacting and highly responsible task of controlling the destiny of Sydney High School. Mr. Callaghan brings to the post of headmaster, not only the necesary qualities of experienced leadership and academic ability, but also sporting qualifications of a high order. Sydney High, by virtue of its unique status and dual function of G.P.S. and C.H.S. entity, demands that the Headmaster be interested in, and well acquainted with, many sports which play an outstanding part in the life of the school. Mr. Callaghan fulfills these sporting requirements most adequately, because he has participated in most of the major sports, in which the school has to take part under competitive conditions.

The new Headmaster has had an unusually wide and diverse experience of secondary school work. Educated at Newcastle High School, Sydney University and Sydney Teachers' College, he was first appointed to Maitland Boys' High School (1931), as a teacher of Modern Languages. Before returning to Maitland to take charge of the Modern Languages Department (1944), he taught at Leeton, Petersham, North Newtown, Taree and Sydney Boys' High School (1942-3). From Maitland he went to Newcastle Tech. High School for a short period, prior to becoming Deputy Headmaster at Wyong. In 1955 he received his appointment to Cootamundra.

Mr. Callaghan could be excused for feeling that he was destined to return to Sydney High School as Headmaster; for his former Headmasters at Newcastle High School were Mr. G. C. Saxby and Mr. L. McMullen, both of whom, in their final terms of service, controlled Sydney High. In addition, Mr. Callaghan taught here under Mr. J. H. Killip and had as one of his colleagues on the staff, Mr. K. J. Andrews, also destined for Headmastership of this school.

Already Mr. Callaghan, though in office only a few months, has succeeded in making a striking impact on the school. He has demonstrated that he is a man of strong personality, and a disciplinarian of no mean degree. These qualities are accentuated by a splendid physique and dignified deportment. He has already won the admiration of the boys. His warm humanity, and sterling character have made him highly favoured by the Parents & Citizens' Association, Old Boys' Union, Ladies' Auxiliary, and indeed all connected with the school. In this sphere of human relationships, he is ably assisted by his charming and capable wife.

Sydney High School has acquired another distinguished Headmaster, and can look forward to the future with the greatest of confidence. F. O'R.

STAFF CHANGES

The School experienced an unprecedented number of changes in Staff at the end of last year—changes that were prolonged into the current year. In all, thirteen changes were effected. The Headmaster, Mr. Andrews, decided to retire after distinguished service to the school during a period of marked success and troublesome transition. The retirement of the English and History Master, Mr. Allsopp, after nineteen years of conscientious labour for the school, was a serious blow not only from a scholastic viewpoint, but also a personal one. Mr. Mitchell, too, retired after a twenty-year sojourn. To these three senior members of Staff the "Record" extends its very best wishes for a long and pleasant retirement.

The school bade farewell to other Staff personnel:--Mr. Ball, promoted to Master of Mathematics at Fairfield Girls' High; Mr. McGrath, promoted to Master of Mathematics at Asquith Girls' High; transfers accounted for Mr. Kable and Mr. Rushall; Mr. Bowen returned to England; Miss Cox married and Mrs. Challis returned to domestic duties; Mr. Jones is enjoying long-service leave and may be rejoining the Staff towards the close of the year.

Perhaps special mention should be made of Mr. Ball who played so fine a part in restoring the prestige of the First XV which succeeded in winning the G.P.S. Rugby Competition outright for the first time in the history of the school. Mr. Ball will be somewhat restricted in football activities at Fairfield Girls' High School.

To all these people who have just left the Staff the "Record" extends every hope for their success in the future and a wish that they return to S.H.S. from time to time,

During the year Mr. Veitch and Mr. Morphew found it necessary to leave the school, Mr. Veitch returned to England for private reasons; Mr. Morphew sailed for America and Great Britain — a young musician seeking greater knowledge and wider experience; Mr. Cullen was with the school for one term only when he was asked to fill a promotional position elsewhere.

This unprecedented efflux was counteracted by an influx of Staff members outstanding, perhaps, in many ways, but especially conspicuous for their youth.

Mr. Little from Kurri High School, is the new Master of History and English. Other arrivals are made up of Messrs. Davis, Lucan-Roberts, Ross, Campbell, Higham, Goodacre, Richardson, Ryan, Palmer; Mrs. Zemen, Miss Morris and Mrs. Ajala.

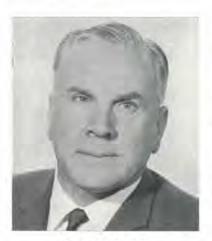

Mention of Mr. Parker brings to mind the fact that Art and Craft constitutes a new subject for Sydney High and foreshadows the full implementation of the Wyndham Scheme.

The "Record" offers the warmest of welcomes to new members of Staff confident in the knowledge that their stay at Sydney High School will be fruitful and pleasant.

Mr. FRANK O'ROURKE LEAVES HIGH

The news that Mr. Frank O'Rourke is to end his career as a member of the School's teaching staff at the end of this year comes as a shock to teachers and students alike. He has been so long at Sydney High and so prominent in all its activities that it is difficult to imagine the School without his manly presence. In the class-room, on the sports-field and in the staff-room, he will be sorely missed.

Mr. F. O'ROURKE.

Mr. O'Rourke came to High at he beginning of 1942. In sporting and scholastic attainwas admirably ments. he equipped for service in a school distinguished for its achievements in both spheres. As a footballer Frank had reached the greatest heights: first gaining prominence as a brilliant "centre" in the Sydney University League team, he represented New South Wales while he was still in his teens: then when selection in the Australian team was in the offing he took the opportunity to travel overseas by accepting an invitation to join the famous Leeds team. He played for that club for seven seasons, winning every possible distinction including representation in the "Other Nationalities Team" v. England and in the Northern Union Team v. Australia. In a recently published history of the Leeds Club it is recorded that "O'Rourke's is a name to conjure with whenever the teams of the past are discussed."

But, much as he loved the game, Frank had too strong a sense of values to make football his whole life. During his stay at Leeds he showed that it was possible to combine successfully sport and study and to prepare himself for a teaching career he gained an English Trained Teacher's Certificate a Physical Education Diploma and a degree in Arts at Leeds University.

On returning to Australia Frank spent some years on the staff of Canberra High School where, after helping to establish Rugby Union in the A.C.T., he made his name as a coach in the Amateur Code. With such a record it is not surprising that Frank was appointed coach of the 1st XV on his appointment to High in 1942. In this capacity, apart from his profound knowledge of football, he had the ability to transmit to his players some of his own courage and determination, qualities sorely needed in the days when High's football morale had been undermined by continued lack of success. The effect of his coaching was soon apparent: in 1943 the 1st XV won 6 of its 7 G.P.S. games and made history by finishing at the head of the "unofficial competition" fable bracketed with King's School; two years later (1945) the School Team made history by defeating St. Joseph's for the first time; in 1946 it achieved distinction by sharing the G.P.S. Competition with St. Joseph's. In all Frank coached the School team with one short break, from 1942-57 and established a football tradition that was to bear fruit in future years.

It was in the class-room, however, that Frank's greatest work was done. A member of the English/History Department, he taught both subjects with equal skill, energy and enthusiasm, and in the course of his career at Sydney High he had the rare distinction of seeing his students gain first place in the Honours list in each of these subjects in the Leaving Certificate Examinations. Moreover, in the less tangible but more important part of a teacher's work, character formation, he exercised on his students a constant and powerful influence for good.

A previous headmaster of the School once referred to Frank O'Rourke as "part of the tradition of Sydney High". Whether or not, he will be long remembered by countless students as a great teacher and by numerous colleagues, past and present, as a true friend. They feel that he will not be lost to the school for he is an honorary life member of the Old Boys' Union — a distinction conferred upon him several years ago for his outstanding efforts on behalf of the School. All will wish him well in his future work.

I feel honoured that I have been permitted by your editor to pay this small tribute to and old and esteemed associate.

FRANK ALLSOPP.

something to keep in mind

When schooling is finished a range of interesting problems have to be tackled, e.g. which party should I vote for? How can I be an intelligent member of my trade union? How does the economic system work? And many others. These problems can be intriguing: they are important. The W.E.A. and the University of Sydney's Department of Tutorial Classes work together to help people deal with these and other problems through their adult educational programme. They offer courses in politics, philosophy, psychology, economics, the arts, history, and many other fields. Full details are available from the W.E.A., 29-2222. It's worth keeping in mind.

Learn to play an instrument

Acquire musical knowledge while learning comes easily. With the ability to play music you will never lack entertainment. It will win you friends where ever you go. Music is a universal language, At Palings there are professional musicians who'll gladly advise you on your choice of an instrument, so call in some time and talk it over.

SPEECH NIGHT, 1963

The 80th Annual Speech Night of the School was held on 10th December, 1963. On this occasion Mr. C. E. Ferrier, B.A., B.Sc., Inspector of Schools, was in the chair. In the address, Mr. Stephens, Director of Secondary Education, outlined and explained the aims of the Wyndham plan and pointed out some of the difficulties being experienced in the course of its implementation. He also paid great tribute to Mr. Andrews, both as a teacher and as a headmaster.

The Headmaster, in his Annual Report, drew attention to the School's achievements both in sport and in the academic sphere. He then outlined the greatly improved facilities, which the School had obtained with the completion of the Killip Wing and renovations to the old buildings during the year. Mr. Andrews went on to urge the co-operation of the parents in pupils' work through supervision designed to help their sons establish good study habits. He concluded with an outline of the tremendous financial burden shouldered by the P. & C., the Ladies' Auxiliary and the School Union each year. Mr. Andrews thanked the staff and the office bearers and members of the various associations connected with the School for their cooperation.

Mr. Levi, the President of the P. & C., then gave a short outline of Mr. Andrews' carrer at S.H.S. and said he regretted that S.H.S. was losing such a fine headmaster and supporter. He then announced that permission had been granted by the Education Department to name the new library "The K. J. Andrews Library". This was a unique distinction as Mr. Andrews was still serving in the Department.

The choir and orchestra, under the batons of Mr. Morphew and Miss Cox respectively, and the Brass Ensemble, under the direction of Mr. Goodchild, contributed a very pleasant programme of choral and musical works to the evening.

SCHOOL CAPTAIN

The honour of the most coveted, but most demanding position in the school this year fell to Nicholas Stamell. The son of an Old Boy, Nick has won the respect, support and admiration of the prefects and boys alike by his organising ability and his unfailing support of the school.

A formidable tackler, Nick has completed his second season as breakaway of the First XV; his selection, as reserve, for the combined G.P.S. team was a fitting climax to a fine career in school football. A good all-rounder, he is a member of the First Grade Basketball team and a first-class hurdler.

As always, Nick has led by example; for over five years he has maintained a high academic standard, illustrated by his taking honours in two subjects this year for the Leaving Certificate.

Nick has shouldered his responsibilities calmly and efficiently, fulfilling the finest traditions of the school. Younger boys could find no better example of maturity, loyalty and manliness than Nick Stamell, School Captain, 1964.

PREFECTS, 1964

ANZAC DAY COMMEMORATION

The annual Anzac Day Commemoration service was held on Tuesday, 28th April. The Guest of Honour for this occasion was Major W. F. Robeson, M.B.E.

Before the commencement of the ceremony Major Robeson inspected the Guard of Honour, commanded by C.U.O. Dalziel and consisting of members of Sydney High Cadet Unit.

The Headmaster welcomed Major Robeson and other distinguished visitors and then invited the Guest of Honour to address the school. The Major said that the only way we can appreciate Anzac is to know some of its history and what it means to us. He outlined the events at the landing at Galipoli and explained that the reason for commemorating this event was not that it was a great victory or that it was a tactically brilliant operation. The reason was rather that it was the first time Australians had fought together as a nation. With this event Australia had finally matured into nationhood. The Major then told the boys always to bear in mind the sacrifice made by all those who had laid down their lives that democracy and freedom might prevail.

At the conclusion of Major Robeson's address, the School Captain, accompanied by the Vice-Captain and the C.U.O. commanding the Guard, laid a wreath on the Honour Roll. The school then stood in silence as the "Last Post" and "Reveille" were sounded.

FOOTBALL LUNCHEON

On the last Wednesday of second term nearly 400 boys and teachers, comprising footballers, coaches, referees, linesmen and ambulancemen, gathered to "demolish" the annual Football Luncheon. An impressive and fitting culmination to the 1964 season.

In opening the proceedings Mr. Callaghan congratulated everyone connected with the sport on the enthusiasm displayed. The Headmaster held up, as an example to all, the fighting qualities of the First XV. He hoped that all future High teams would play with the same determination and spirit.

The guest speaker, Mr. Norman May, an Old Boy, stressed the need for young boys to participate as actively as possible in a wide variety of sports. Particularly valuable among school sports was Rugby because of its excellent character-building qualities.

Representatives of the teams thanked their coaches for their keenness and valuable assistance in making football possible right through the season.

"THE RECORD"

The willing and efficient work of a large staff of boys has made this issue of "The Record" possible. The Editor takes this opportunity to thank them as well as others who have been associated with its production. In particular, thanks are due to those members of the teaching staff, too numerous to mention individually, who responded readily to every request for assistance.

Of the Student Editors, Des Freeman deserves special mention. His reliability and devotion have been exemplary, and various suggestions in regard to the contents of this issue have emanated from him. Other boys who have identified themselves closely with the work are: T. Ash, R. Dalziel, S. Wood, I. Walsh, N. Morgan and A. Gumpert. Their conscientious response to any call for assistance was indeed significant. The work of S. Symonds was many-sided, but outstanding is his contributions as our photographer. It is to his determination, and to the co-operation of L. Luxford, that we owe the variety of the photographs in this issue, often taken, developed and printed at very short notice.

If you are a young man of Leaving Certificate standard, find out about career positions with The M.L.C. An appointment to the staff of The M.L.C. — one of the largest assurance organisations in Australia — offers not only a rewarding and satisfying career, but excellent salaries with merit increases, generous fringe benefits and valuable scholarships for tertiary education. Young men with high mathematical ability have special opportunities in the select actuarial field.

Even though you may not be leaving school until the year's end, it is advisable to have an interview now.

LIBRARY

Towards the end of 1963, the Parents and Citizens' Association applied to the Department of Education for permission to re-name the Sydney Boys' High School Library the K. J. Andrews' Library, in recognition of the wonderful work done by Mr. Andrews' Library, in recognition of the wonderful work done by Mr. Andrews for the school as a whole and particularly for the library. Consent has been granted and the K. J. Andrews' Library now has the honour of housing the Judy Cassab portrait of Mr. Andrews as well as the Ethel Killip Collection of original Australian paintings. The Parents and Citizens are having a set of doors made for the library, displaying its name and the School Crest. Mr. McMurray of the Old Boys' Union has submitted most attractive designs for these doors and we hope to have them installed early in 1965.

Good things come in glass Good Careers are offered by ACI who make glass in many forms — and operate plastics, packaging, engineering factories, plus other industrial activities.

ACI offers the following opportunities for an interesting, rewarding career:

TECHNICAL CADET PROGRAMME

To equip young scientists and engineers for responsible engineering, technical management, or supervisory positions. ACI provides training and experience in manufacturing techniques and production.

ACI will sponsor studies at the Universities of Sydney and New South Wales.

Qualifications: Matriculation or Leaving certificate with mathematics and the sciences will admit applicants to one of the following courses: Chemical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Applied Chemistry, Industrial Chemistry, Geology or Metallurgy.

PRODUCTION TRAINEE PROGRAMME

For young men aged 18 or 19. Production trainees will receive training in all aspects of glass container manufacture . . . a solid foundation towards being a supervisor. For this programme training is sponsored at Sydney Technical College.

Qualifications: The Leaving certificate is preferred, but a good Intermediate certificate with an aptitude for Engineering may qualify the applicant.

AUSTRALIAN CONSOLIDATED INDUSTRIES LIMITED

In 1964, over 1,000 books were added to the library at the cost of over £1,100. 1964 saw an added systemisation in the hierarchy of student librarians. This new system paid dividends on the last nine weeks of the second term, when Mrs. Hornibrook, the teacher librarian, was absent. With permission from the Deputy Headmaster, the library was opened at lunch times for limited returning and borrowing of books. The librarians of all years were able to handle the situation fairly well, with a teacher coming up only once in a while to make sure everything was working as it should.

Also in 1964, the teacher librarians of the Sydney Metropolitan Area held their conference at the library. Both the student librarians and Mrs. Hornibrook were glad at this meeting to hear of new ideas in management.

THE SCHOOL ARCHIVES

What lies behind the door marked "ARCHIVES" in the library? This question has been asked by many students during the past two years, and here is the answer, which they have a right to know. Contained in that small room is a large part of the School's history — on paper, in photographs, and even on tape. Many old and rare books are also kept in there.

The archives did not really begin until early 1963, when the library was moving from its old position to its new premises in the Killip Wing. Three old presses outside the old library had, until that time, held many books whose size, value, or lack of usefulness had rendered them unsuitable for circulation in the library. Following upon the move into the new library, some were discarded, some were restored to the shelves for general use, while the remainder formed the nucleus of the present collection of rare and unusual books.

At this time also a collection of past copies of "The Record" was sent to be bound into volumes. The archives now contains nearly every copy of "The Record" since 1921, and a second set from 1932 onwards has also been added. A great deal of other material in the form of books, letters, and photographs was brought from the headmaster's office to the archives since Mr. Andrews, in looking through his shelves, decided that the archives was a better place to store these documents. Most of the material comprising the archives is stored in labelled boxes for easy access. Among the objects to come from the headmaster's office were: several volumes of "The History of S.H.S." which was published in 1933, the school's Jubilee Year; the school's first admission register: programmes for the first, third and fourth athletic carnivals; a bound collection of several early issues of "The Chronicle", the first magazine of S.H.S. (unfortunately Vol I, No. 1 is missing); and, most surprisingly, an English Bible published in 1606.

More material was discovered around the old building and added to the archives, including several photographs from the Holtermann collection. These photographs were taken in the 1880's at Hill End and are quite informative of the mode of living at that time.

The most important source of material has been the generous people who have donated to the school many objects of great value, both to themselves and to the school. It is impossible to thank these people sufficiently. Mr. P. Hallett and Miss J. Cameron presented many important mementos of their association with Sydney High; generous parents, besides several additions to the archives, also donated an old set of Shakespeare's works published in Germany, a set of Scott's works, and a near-complete set of 45 volumes of the 1803 republication of the early English periodicals, starting with the "Tatler".

The archives' greatest day arrived with the official opening of the Killip Wing last year. The ceremony was recorded both on tape and in still photographs to be preserved in the archives. A souvenir programme, signed by the visiting dignitaries, is also kept with the tape and photographs. A special display of the contents of the archives was organized for all to see. Each Open Day, during Education Week, a similar display is presented for the visiting parents and friends. Any pupil with a genuine interest may use the archives, but only with the permission of the Librarian.

It would not have been possible for me to have built the archives into its present state without the help of David Foster, into whose hands its care falls next year, nor without the assistance of the other senior librarians and the patience of Mrs. Hornibrook, who has had to put up with me for the past five years.

BRIAN DAVIES, Archivist.

(The Library cannot allow Brian Davies to leave Sydney High School without expressing our appreciation for the work he has done as Archivist during the last five years. His was the task of collecting all the records of the school from offices, presses and eyries above the stage and assembling them in the archives and then cataloguing and organizing them. Mr. Perce Hallett told us where to look for the old records and helped us to trace the history of the endowed prizes and Brian organized the heterogeneous information into a systematic arrangement of school papers and rare books. While he was doing this, he had to train his successor and keep collecting current material for preservation for future years. For all this, we are very grateful — this indeed has been service to the school.

THE SCHOOL ORCHESTRA

The orchestra has made pleasing progress this year.

Junior boys have filled out the string and woodwind sections, whilst the addition of a number of new instruments has made available more opportunities for boys wishing to become members.

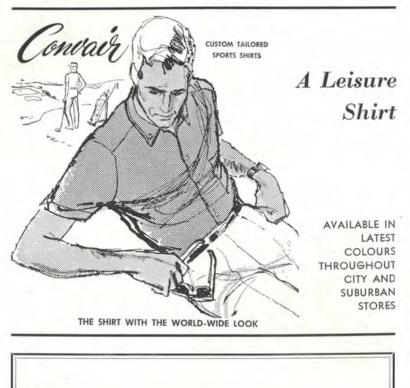

The July concert proved to be a great success for the orchestra. First Form pupils, although suffering somewhat from stage-fright, played creditably, while senior members added polish to the performance. The items presented were excerpts from Sullivan's "Yeomen of the Guard", and "Norwegian Suite" by Hansen.

Special mention should be made of Miss Morris, whose enthusiasm was evident in the time she devoted to orchestral rehearsals during and after school hours. String classes were conducted before school, enabling First Form boys to learn either the violin or viola.

THE CHOIR

Throughout this year, both Senior and Junior Choirs have been working hard for their comparatively few engagements, with the result that they have improved on the standards of previous years.

The various sections of the choir worked hard for the Evening of Music and Drama held in the Great Hall on Friday, 31st July. The boys of the Senior Choir were selected to sing at the Combined Secondary Schools' Choral Concert held in the Sydney Town Hall. The School Choir participated in the Old Boys' service held at St. James' Church of England on Sunday, 20th September, and will sing at the Annual Speech Night.

It came as a surprise to learn that Mr. Morphew was leaving to further his studies overseas. We are deeply indebted to him, and sorry to see him leave, as it was thanks to his patient and devoted work, that the Choir owes much of its achievement. However, to fill his position, we welcome Mrs. Ajala, and wish her the greatest success as she continues the work.

THE BAND

The year 1964 has been a most successful and busy one for the S.B.H.S. Band.

The first function for the Band was the "Festival of School Instrumental Music", held at the Sydney Town Hall on Wednesday, 1st July. We feel that the Department of Education paid us a great tribute when the Band was selected to render two items at this Concert. Our performance was very well received by the large and enthusiastic audience.

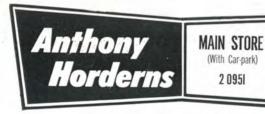

The Band took a very big step forward when it registered with the Band Association of New South Wales. As a result of this affiliation, we were able to compete in the New South Wales Band Championships held at Waverley on Sunday, 19th July. The Band gained the highest number of points throughout the contest for deportment (which included punctuality, dress, and general behaviour during the contest).

On the musical side, the Band gained second place in the Hymn and second place in the Selection. In the Hymn playing, the Band was only one point behind the winners, Waverley College, and in the Selection, six points behind the winners (again Waverley College).

We also played successfully for the Cadet Ceremonial Parade on Tuesday, 22nd September.

Ten new instruments were received from the Department during second term, and all are now being put to good use by First Form boys. All we ask is that the parents see that the boys attend the weekly practices and, where possible, encourage them to do a little home practice. Our Instructor, Mr. Goodchild, has had many disappointments with boys who have come along to join the Band, and after a few months have given it up completely; the number of boys in this category far exceeds the number actually playing in the Band at present.

We would like to record our appreciation to the Waverley Municipal Band, for their continued interest in the S.B.H.S. Band. It goes without saying, that if it were not for their assistance, our group would just not exist.

We say farewell this year to two of our original members, David MacDonald and Peter Anderson; these boys have been a very good example to our younger players. It is interesting to note that this Band originally started as a Trombone Quartet, and these two players were members of that party. Allan Isaacs, one of our 2nd Cornets, also leaves us this year.

The Band finally takes this opportunity to thank Mr. Goodchild for his painstaking and devoted work in developing the Band since its inception.

EVENING OF MUSIC AND DRAMA. Top: Miss Morris and the Orchestra acknowledges applause. Bottom: Mr. Goodchild conducts the Band.

AN EVENING OF MUSIC AND DRAMA

On Friday, 31st July, a music and drama evening was attended by a large audience.

A short welcoming speech was made by Mr. Oslington in the Headmaster's absence. Mr. Oslington explained the purpose of the evening — to give an opportunity to boys to show the quality of their work in the cultural field.

The School Band, conducted by Mr. Goodchild, opened the programme with some stirring playing, followed by lively music for two pianos, played by David O'Neill and Mr. Morphew. Next on the first half were colourful pieces by the School Orchestra and the Chamber Group, conducted by Miss Morris. Ian Falson, accompanied by his father, an Old Boy of the school, played three very attractive violin duets. We were delighted to welcome Mrs. D. Arnold and a Choral Group from Sydney Girls' High School, who sang beautifully. The Drama Club closed the first half with The Bet, a thoughtful play by Miles Malleson, based on a story by Chekhov. The players managed well the characterization and pace of the play.

After an interval in which the Ladies' Committee made tea available, the School Choir combined with the Girls' High Choral Group to sing three fine Brahms waltzes. Malcolm Cook then played a very attractive flute solo. The Drama Club closed the evening with a burlseque melodrama, Passion, Poison and Petrification, by Shaw, which was played with enormous vigour, and, judging by audience response, was much appreciated both as wit and sheer high spirits.

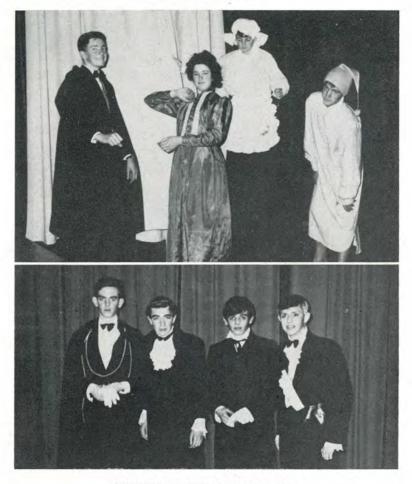

It is hoped than an evening of this kind will become a tradition in the school, and we are sure that with more experience, the success of this year's effort will be not only repeated but excelled.

DRAMA CLUB

This year has seen the successful beginnings of a new Drama Club under the supervision of Mr. Little. The Club was formed to foster interest in the drama, and to provide opportunity for boys who wish to act or work on the technical side of production.

The climax of the Club's activities was the Evening of Music and Drama, on which two plays were presented — The Bet by Chekhov, and Passion, Poison and Petrification by Bernard Shaw.

Both plays required hard work by the actors and the technicians in spare time — mostly lunchtime — over a number of months. As most boys were inexperienced in this work, there was a great deal of doubt—even panic—as the time of performance approached, but on the whole the performances worked smoothly, and audiencereaction showed that the effort was thoroughly worth-while. We have learnt a lot from Mr. Little's expert coaching, but there are things one only learns by experience — such as how very clearly one must speak to make a play fully audible to a large audience in our Hall, and how to pause for laughter.

EVENING OF MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Top: G. Jones, J. Lewis, D. Blomberg and T. Fitzgerald in Passion, Poison and Petrification.

Bottom: P. Hawker, T. Haynes, J. Glass and S. Becker in The Bet.

Members of the Ladies' Committee helped us greatly with costuming, and the pieces made and donated now form the basis of a Drama Club wardrobe. We are also grateful to the Supervisor of Speech and Drama for the loan of lighting equipment. We must specially thank Mr. Little for giving up many leisure hours to coaching in acting-technique and production.

CHESS CLUB

This year, because of the rise in membership, the Chess Club has moved from Room 9, to the bigger Art Room. Also because of the membership increase, the joining fee has been lowered to 1/6 a year. Well over a hundred boys now belong to the Chess Club, while approximately fifty play during the lunchtime.

The Club has once again enjoyed a successful year, having done well in the Inter-School Chess Competition. The "A" Grade came fourth in its division. Serge Rubinraut in particular was outstanding in winning all his games on Board 1, while Joe Mock was as steady as ever on Board 3. In the junior grades, "B" Grade gave a good account of itself, finishing third. A. Parker played extremely well for a Second Form boy, seeing that he was against Fourth and Fifth Year boys from other schools. The "C" and "D" Grades were made up mainly of First Form boys, who showed great keenness in their first taste of competitive Chess at High School. It was a pity, however, that there were not more Fifth Year students playing in the Inter-School Competition, although the experience gained by the "new recruits" was invaluable. At the time of writing a competition is being held to find the champions of the different grades, "C" and "D" Grades being combined.

The Chess Club would like to thank its patron, Mr. Wegener, for all the enthusiasm and vigour he put in during lunchtimes and after school hours, arranging games for us against other schools.

J.M.I.

GYMNASTIC CLUB

The club meets every Thursday afternoon at the school gymnasium. The apparatus used is generally: the vaulting-horse, parallel bars, high bar, ropes and tumbling mats. The latter are used for balancing and tumbling as well as for safety precautions.

The club has been in existence for two years and the membership now stands at about twenty. Any boys who wish to join the club will be welcome.

The club would like to thank Mr. Hodge for his time and valuable assistance through which many boys have had the chance to become fine gymnasts. We would also like to thank Mr. Fielding for the use of the gymnasium and equipment.

JUNIOR DEBATING. R. Warfield, M. Neustein, S. Symonds, C. Welch. Mr. M. Jenkin, SENIOR DEBATING. D. Davenport, P. Kampfner, J. Clark, D. Barnes.

DEBATING

The season began well this year for the senior team with a series of victories in the C.H.S. zone. The team then struck a number of defeats, so that the number of wins balanced the losses. In the G.P.S. zone, the team had some very close debates; the one against the competition winners, Riverview, was notable because it was lost by only one point. The team, comprising P. Kampfner, D. Barnes, D. Davenport and G. Clark, would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who helped to make our debates possible.

The junior team started off the season well with a convincing win in a pre-season debate over Vaucluse, the ultimate Cramp Shield winners. In our annual pre-season debate against Sydney Girls' High we again lost to a superior Girls' team. Although the C.H.S. zone competition was marked by many very close debates the team finished equal first but Drummoyne won on a countback. The team commenced the G.P.S. competition with a runaway 43 pt. win over Newington, but the highly-practised St. Joseph and Riverview teams proved too good for us. Several members of the team, comprising M. Neustein, S. Symonds, R. Warfield and C. Welch, just failed to reach the finals in the Eisteddfod.

Both teams would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the invaluable assistance given by the debating master Mr. Jenkin.

CAMERA CLUB

As in previous years, the Camera Club's activities have mainly centred around the lectures presented by our visiting Kodak lecturers, Mr. G. Richardson, Mr. K. Chapman and Mr. A. W. Martin. These lectures are aimed at creating interest among the junior members and at stimulating their efforts in experimenting with various techniques. The success of the lectures is evident from the large numbers of First, Second and Third Form boys attending.

The School's Swimming and Athletic Carnivals, and the G.P.S. football matches provided occasions which tested members' abilities to provide a coverage of these events for "The Record". The results of their efforts can be seen elsewhere.

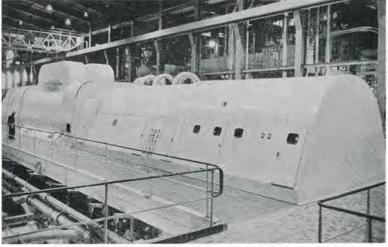

Several members entered their "masterpieces" in the F.C.C.'s State-wide Inter-School Competition, and to our list of awards, we now add Les Luxford's. Les won a section of the competition with his fine shot of Circular Quay at dusk.

INTER-SCHOOL CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

I.S.C.F. is a Christian movement which exists in over 200 schools in our State. It is a subsidiary movement of Scripture Union. Our branch of the fellowship has had, this year, a year that has been rich in both fellowship and in spiritual growth.

The group consists of boys from all denominations and meets at lunch-time every Friday in the Music Room and on Wednesday mornings before school, for prayer, in Room 6. The group tries to cater for the spiritual needs of its members, and any boys who like to come. The programme includes Bible studies, panel discussions, quizzes and talks. The junior members of the fellowship supported the question-times very keenly.

Another aspect of the I.S.C.F. is that of Inter-School Camps, which are held during the vacations. These camps provide contacts for the boys with the members of other groups. The group has also held combined meetings with the Girls' school and with the other schools in the City of Sydney region. These have proved times of valuable fellowship.

The committee would like to extend their heartfelt thanks to those visiting speakers who have given up their time to address the group, to the Headmaster for his invaluable co-operation and advice, to Messrs. Di Salvia and Morphew for their help in giving talks, and to Mr. Cooney who has so ably taken over the job of Counsellor, following the transfer of Mr. Kable to Chatswood High.

We pray that in future years, through the I.S.C.F., the name of Jesus Christ will continue to be uplifted in the school.

I.T.

SCIENCE CLUB

At the commencement of this year, the Science Club was started under the direction of Mr. Cooney who devoted considerable time to its organisation. Our first experiment, a survey of the effect of traffic on the road foundations by measuring vehicle vibrations, proved unsuccessful because the vibration analyser seemed to possess a mind of its own and proved extremely unco-operative. The device was loaned to us by Prof. Morgan of the University of N.S.W.

Simultaneously a series of lectures on a wide range of scientific topics was given by visitors, staff and boys and these proved very popular.

Our second major experiment proceeded well until, at the end of Second Term, Mr. Cooney was forced to withdraw because of Fifth Year exam pressure and the Club went into recess. Now, because of the proximity of exams, we have not been able to resume, but it is hoped that the Club will restart next year with an even greater attendance.

O.C.'s REPORT

My introduction to this review of Cadet activities will be brief since I feel that the spirit which activates the unit will be reflected by the individual reports of the lads themselves more faithfully than I can hope to do. I should like to say however how pleasing it has been not only to see a growth in the numerical strength of the unit but also to witness the enthusiasm and pride which have been the moving force of every phase of Cadet activity.

In particular I should like to give a word of praise and congratulations to two lads. First to C.U.O. Robert Dalziel who won for himself the most enviable distinction of top C.U.O. in N.S.W. for 1964. Second to C.U.O. Max Surplice whose selfless consideration for the safety of his fellow cadets during the 1963 annual camp won him the warm regard and respect of the whole unit. There are many other lads worthy of particular praise but it is not possible to give all of them individual credit in the scope of this report.

Finally, I thank all the cadets for their gift on the occasion of my resignation. It is not easy to relinquish the honour of commanding this unit but because of other commitments I can no longer give to the command the time it requires. The unit passes into capable hands: Lt. B. Davis has a military background which fits him well for command and the unit has already sampled the benefits of his quiet ability, while the enthusiasm and efficiency of his 2 I.C., Lt. Sims, have been a sustaining force in the unit for two years. With these officers commanding and a fine crop of leaders coming up among the cadets, the unit can look forward to a period of growth and development.

G. HANNAN, (former Capt., O.C., S.H.S.C.U.).

CAPT. HANNAN RETIRES FROM COMMAND

Over the past 12 months the S.H.S.C.U. has regained some of the prestige and full-blooded enthusiasm which it once enjoyed and which belongs by right to the Cadet Unit of the State's leading high school.

Much of the credit and thanks for this revival of interest and participation in our unit undoubtedly goes to Capt. Hannan, the O.C. who in his all too brief stay in the Cadet movement has aroused in all cadets a new-found pride in being a part of S.H.S.C.U. and what it stands for.

STUDENTS GAINING Ist CLASS HONOURS IN MATHEMATICS

are advised to consider a career in the

ACTUARIAL PROFESSION

We believe the rewards, both financially and in "job interest," are greater in the Actuarial Profession than in any other career open to the mathematician. Moreover, these rewards come at a much earlier age.

We shall make two appointments this year of junior clerks who wish to study to be actuaries.

The Friends' Provident & Century Life Office is one of the strongest MUTUAL offices in the British Commonwealth. In 1960 it commenced operations in Australia, and, with the present rapid expansion, it is very evident great opportunities will arise for those joining the staff now. It is likely that qualified or nearly qualified actuaries will be given the opportunity to consolidate their experience by visits or appointments overseas.

It is suggested that you telephone Mr. P. A. Burns (2-0345) for an appointment to discuss your future in this profession or write to Box 26, G.P.O., Sydney.

Join the FRIENDS' PROVIDENT & CENTURY LIFE OFFICE

Hence the news of Capt. Hannan's resignation, made necessary by the pressure of advanced University studies and the demands of his very busy schedule, represents a serious loss to the entire unit. A little of his sincere and down-to-earth enthusiasm seems to have "rubbed off" onto all of us. On behalf of the C.U.O.'s, cadets and myself, may I wish Capt. Hannan good luck in his University work and every success for the future. May I also thank him for initiating me into the trials and tribulations of being an officer of cadets.

To our new O.C. Lt. Davis, who will bring into the unit with him the invaluable experience of his Duntroon training, may I extend a warm welcome on behalf of the unit, and assure him of our cooperation and support.

ONE PLATOON

As a platoon incorporating only senior cadets, One Platoon is expected to attain and maintain the highest standard of drill and fieldcraft of the company.

The main sphere of advanced infantry training has been this year based upon minor tactics and section control. An attempt has been made to exploit the full potential of all the individual members of the platoon so that, as well as preparing all cadets for the acceptance of rank and the responsibilities and requirements which go with it, they might function more efficiently as a unit.

The routine of the platoon was upset during the year because the junior N.C.O.'s were not selected until after the end of first term. This meant that the platoon's strength was radically cut in order to furnish capable N.C.O.'s for the other platoons.

On the whole the platoon functioned quite well and this was especially so on "Raiding Party" (part of Exercise Holdjast at the Annual Camp). Here the patrol, made up of the majority of the senior cadets in the unit, acquitted itself creditably.

The platoon would like to take this opportunity to thank the officers of the cadet unit, Lts. Davis and Sims, as well as Capt. Hannan, for their assistance and enthusiasm, as regards cadet activities and the successful functioning of the unit.

TWO PLATOON

Two Platoon this year faced a major reorganization. The M.M.G. and Mortar Sections were disbanded at the beginning of the year. With these two sections disbanded, the platoon was able to concentrate on signals alone. Unfortunately we have no radios of our own and the ones we use have to come from Battalion. Overcoming this difficulty the platoon operated efficiently as shown in the signals work done at the Annual Camp. Although the platoon is only small, it showed a high standard of marching and drill whilst in camp and attended several days of practice and lectures on the work of the Signals Section. Some of the cadets showed so much enthusiasm that two days of revision and practice were held during the holidays previous to the camp. This gave those who attended some valuable practice which showed up in the camp work.

THREE PLATOON

With the arrival of our N.C.O.'s after the May training course, Three Platoon eventually swung into full-scale training. In general, training proceeded during the year, and consisted of drill, with and without arms, use and care of the rifle, Bren and grenade .

Our annual camp was attended by all but four cadets, who really missed an enjoyable time. It was during this camp that the Recruit Examination was held for all first year cadets. Out of the first three places Cdts. Gilbert and Thurbank gained 1st and 2nd places respectively. Most cadets did well in this test, showing that they had reached a high standard. Three Platoon only had one casualty at camp. A certain cadet, who had tonsillitis, told everyone he had throat cancer, and wanted a donation for his wreath. Pretty shrewd!

Next year seems a promising one for the platoon especially with the new crop of potential N.C.O.'s coming on. These N.C.O.'s will be selected at the end of the year on merit and behaviour.

C.U.O. HAMILTON.

FOUR PLATOON

Four Platoon was this year composed of recruits to the unit. Without the aid of junior N.C.O.'s during first term, the platoon was given instruction in rifle and close order drill, mapwork, the prismatic compass, and the L.M.G. as well as introductory work on the hand grenade and the 2" mortar.

Two range practices were conducted, one at Long Bay Range where the rifle and L.M.G. were used and the other on the school's "mini-range". Although high scores were uncommon, much experience was gained by all.

Much advanced instruction was accomplished at the August camp as more time could be devoted to lessons than on a normal Tuesday afternoon.

It is hoped that all the recruits will continue their Cadet training next year and strive for promotion.

BUSHWALK

The past cadet year has been an interesting and varied one apart from our annual camp at Singleton, we have had a Bushwalk, a visit to the Commando School, our Range Day and a display and demonstration of the new Howitzer Field Artillery.

About twenty cadets were prepared to give up a Saturday during the May holidays to attend a bushwalk (which turned out to be a mountaineering expedition) from Waterfall to Audley and then to Loftus. The chief highlight of the day came unintentionally when the omniscient guides, Messrs. Hannan and Sims, became lost and we had to make like an Everest expedition to get back to the beaten track. Except for this minor incident the bushwalk proved very enjoyable.

VISIT TO GEORGE'S HEIGHTS

On Tuesday, 16th June, the Cadet Unit was picked up by buses and transported to the commando base at George's Heights. After a short lecture by the Base Commanding Officer, the Unit was split into three groups and each driven to different locations for the "County Fair" type demonstrations.

The first demonstration was of water craft and skin diving, and showed the lightweight collapsible canoe, the inflatable "Zodiac" assault craft and the skin diver in action.

After this we moved to the edge of a 70-foot cliif where we were shown the implements of the cliff scalers. This display was climaxed by a demonstration of various ways of ascending and descending sheer cliffs.

The final, and most exciting display was that of the "courage booster" course. This was the use of ropes for bridges, slides and swings. The course is designed to build up the new member's self confidence: he is first swung and dropped into a cargo net followed by the "Death Slide". This is a slide about one hundred yards long down which the commandos descend using a rope over the silde, dropping into a cargo net at the bottom at about 20 m.p.h.

This display was found most enjoyable by all who attended and has helped to throw some light on the rigid commando training which builds our country's defenders. C.U.O. BELL.

ANNUAL CAMP

On 27th August 80 officers and cadets of S.H.S.C.U. arrived at Singleton to take part in what is perhaps the most unique and testing activity that S.H.S. has to offer its pupils. Here for ten days these boys have to work and live together; for it is on their initiative and ability to adapt themselves and to live in harmony that the success of the camp depends.

After the traditional first night route march, camp swung into action at 6 o'clock the following morning. The general "home" life includes kit, personal dress and weapon inspection each morning plus numerous hands, face, and feet inspections for health reasons: the emphasis is always on cleanliness and tidiness.

The unit consists of two main groups: senior cadets and junior recruits.

Following the withdrawal of the 3" mortar and M.M.G. earlier this year the seniors have concentrated mainly on advanced infantry tactics, such as patrolling, ambush drill, scouting and field communications. From the outset all training was aimed at bringing the cadets to a high standard of efficiency to enable them to take part in Exercise Holdfast.

Interspersed with this intensified training were drill, map and compass exercises. On Monday morning the seniors marched magnificently, at an estimated speed of 5 m.p.h. to the field firing range — an activity designed to test a cadet's ability to react to a fire control order under simulated battle conditions. Determined to defend our reputation (having been champion school at this particular activity last year), our boys shot well and gained the highest aggregate that morning. Figures, however, were not available for comparison with other schools.

On Tuesday morning after hurried and frantic final preparations the seniors left for the new, untried Exercise Holdfast. This exercise, devised by the Army, was intended to show the cadet not only the glamour of actual combat and patrolling, but also the hard work and routine that make up the life of an infantryman. "Stand too", that is prepare for enemy action, was at 9.30 a.m. and for the next twelve hours the cadets were out patrolling, watching for the enemy or improving their defensive positions. Our boys responded extremely well and much valuable experience was gained; the boys learnt particularly well that it doesn't pay to have your Company Commander "shot" at 10 o'clock in the morning. The night passed quietly!

Meanwhile, back at camp, the junior cadets were training hard, having been taught the fundamentals of drill, rifle and Bren gun at school. While increased proficiency was aimed at in these sessions, the main curriculum consisted of field work, which can only be learnt by experience in the bush. Field training comprises patrolling, scouting, section formations for battle and procedure when fired upon by the enemy. The junior cadets also shot at the mini-range and marked improvement was shown on the results of the earlier shoot at Long Bay Rifle Range in June. Having been welded into an efficient force, it only remained to test them in an actual exercise.

This was done in co-operation with senior cadets on their return from Holdjast. In this exercise the C.U.O.'s and Sgts. acted as opposition. The idea was to give the junior N.C.O.'s a taste of leadership in the field and of realising the burdens and problems of issuing tactical orders while at the same time demonstrating to the junior cadets the principles which had been drummed into them in training.

Because of the complexity of preparation for Holdjast, night training took place only on a limited scale. However a lantern stalk was held which illustrated the difficulties of moving by night; there was also a lesson on identification of sounds by night.

The annual recruit examination also took place at camp. The results were of a generally high standard with Cdt. G. Gilbert taking the honours as top junior cadet. There is good officer and N.C.O. potential among these junior boys and we hope they will remain in the Unit.

We were very fortunate while at camp to see a Regular Army Platoon in action. They gave tactical demonstrations as well as a show of force with their new weapons and equipment. Their proficiency and bearing set a high standard for all to aim at, and by which to judge our own efforts. Indeed the comparison was quite favourable.

The last two days were occupied with breaking camp and at 10.30 on the Saturday morning Singleton (may it rest in peace), was left behind for another year.

It is hoped all enjoyed and benefited both in body and in mind. At this point the other Fifth Year cadets join with me in wishing the unit every success in the years to come.

A THOUGHT

Our cadet service is voluntary. We have attained one of the highest reputations among cadet units both in parade and in field training. This, we feel, is due in no small part to voluntary service. Because of this we are often struggling to maintain satisfactory numbers and thus compete with other schools on an equal footing. Accordingly, I appeal to all boys in Second and Third Forms: if you want to join in the rugged, independent life we have in Cadets; if you wish to be a part of something really worthwhile for yourselves, for your school and for your country — join the Unit. You will not regret it, for here is one activity that brings out the best in personality, discipline, leadership and friendship. Join next year and help to keep alive one of the proudest traditions of Sydney High School.

WHAT'S THE SECRET?

When you see someone enjoying things you'd like—such as new clothes, sporting equipment, hobbies and other things—you ask—"What's the secret? Where does the money come from?"

The secret-saving.

Anything you want to buy, you can have if you save for it. So save something every week in the Commonwealth Savings Bank. It does not matter how small the amount you save, as long as you save regularly.

That's the secret.

FOOTBALL

Although unable to emulate the feats of the premiership-winning combination of 1963, this year's First XV did strive to play the same "open" brand of Rugby.

This willingness to attack at all times often led to costly mistakes, especially when the side was still in the formative stage. However, when the team was intact and in full cry no G.P.S. team proved superior.

Playing its best football in the last four matches, the High XV displayed a form which was not comparable with its early efforts. Perhaps it was more than a coincidence that Phil Smith, the captain, shook off a persistent injury at this time to lead the team and restore its confidence.

It was most gratifying to witness the spirit of the High team in the second half comeback against Grammar — play that was remarkable for its concerted team effort. The plucky fourteen-man battle against the heavier King's team was another stirring sight. The most noteworthy of all the season's efforts was perhaps the final game against Scots; with the pressures of the season virtually over and considering its poor start, who would have been surprised to see the team play a more relaxed type of game. But no; with the thought of redeeming themselves the High team resolved to defeat Scots, and so deprive them of third place in the competition. It was this comeback to finish joint fourth that constituted for High the climax of the season.

High's contribution to the combined G.P.S. teams was Phil Smith, Alan Gaffney and Van Cooney (First XV) and Nick Stamell (reserve). To these players we extend our congratulations; and the team would agree most readily with the selectors' choice.

To those who assisted during the season the team extends appreciation. Worthy of special mention in this regard was Mr. R. Outterside and Mr. W. Hatfield, for their coaching service, the McKay Grounds Committee and Groundsman, Mr. Alf Brown, and last but not least, the providers of the after-match refreshments, the mothers.

And so to next season, with many resolves and High hopes.

S.H.S. v. St. Joseph's College, 6/6/64,

In the first match of the 1964 G.P.S. competition High went down to Joey's in a thrilling match played at a furious pace at Hunter's Hill.

During the opening stages both sides engaged in very fierce rucking. After 5 minutes Riley, the St. Joseph's full-back gathered Phil Smith's clearing kick and bewildered High's defence in a strong run to the corner. Score 0-3. In the 9th minute Riley kicked ahead, beating High's defenders to score next to the posts. Carpenter converted. Score 0-8. At this stage winger, Ken Grover had to retire and was replaced by W. Long. Just before half-time breakaway Miskell eluded the High forwards to score in the corner. Score 0-11.

In the second half the High forwards overcame their apparent "stage-fright" but still could not match the pace of the Joey's pack in open play. Gaffney kicked a penalty goal in the 20th minute but St. Joseph's replied with a try by Malvney. Score was now 3-14. With 5 minutes remaining, Gaffney goaled again. Score 6-14. In the last moments of the game the High backline tried frantically to break through but the St. Joseph's defenders were more than adequate.

St. Joseph's 14; Sydney High 6.

S.H.S. v. S.C.E.G.S. 13/6/64.

Sydney High suffered its second defeat of the competition, when Shore won 9-3 in a drab match at McKay Ground.

High kicked off and pressed the Shore line, but the backline, weakened by the absence of Smith, was unable to penetrate the defence. Seven minutes from the start Gaffney goaled for High to lead 3-0. In the space of 10 minutes, Grover and Gaffney failed with three shots at goal. A fine backline movement initiated by fiveeight, Hoiles, culminated in a long run by Cooney, but the latter was forced into touch when 5 yards short of the line.

Minutes after the break. Shore's Gaden missed an attempted penalty goal, but was successful with two difficult kicks within the next 10 minutes. The visitors now led 6-3. Shortly afterwards Shore's five-eight. Bassingthwaighte, kicked a field goal. Score 3-9. High poured everything into a final effort but the team was unable to finish off several promising movements. Both teams were cautioned for being over-robust in their play and soon after the full-time bell rang.

S.C.E.G.S. 9: Sudney High 3.

S.H.S. v. Newington College, 20/6/64,

Newington surged into High's half from the kick-off and were rewarded for their early vigour with a penalty with which Heath was successful. Score 0-3. Shortly after Smith made a good break but support was lacking. Minutes later Smith sustained a severe head injury and left the field. Several moves by both teams were spoilt by bad handling. The score remained 0-3 at half-time.

High started brightly in the second half. Winger, Cooney scored after Gaffney and Clark had broken through. Score 3-3. In the 20th minute Heath kicked a penalty goal but 5 minutes later Gaffney replied with a penalty from in front. Score 6-6. Play see-sawed during the closing stages and both sides looked dangerous at times but the score remained unchanged.

Newington College 6; Sydney High 6.

S.H.S. v. St. Ignatius College. 4/7/64.

High were quickly in trouble, after the kick-off, as Riverview full-back Shelton took 3 points for a penalty. In the 11th minute Gaffney equalised at 3-3 with a fine penalty kick. Dare, for High, and Riverview's Shelton both got their sides out of trouble with long line kicks. Neither side looked dangerous until just on half-time when Gaffney prevented a certain try but conceded a penalty. Shelton put it over for Riverview to lead 6-3 at the break.

Shelton kicked his third penalty in the opening minutes and Riverview led 9-3. Five-eight McCormack scored and High trailed 3-12. High then pressed the blue and white line, but the attack was halted by a knock-on. Dare took Shelton's kick from the ensuing scrum and booted a sparkling 40-yard field goal. Score 6-12.

S.H.S. v. The Armidale School. 11/7/64.

The teams took several minutes to settle down and passes were dropped by both backlines. After 15 minutes Gaffney goaled for High to lead 3-0. Wu's kick levelled the scores but High regained the lead when Gaffney broke through to score an unconverted try, 6-3. Cooney scored High's second try after good backing-up had resulted in an over-lap. Score now 11-3 as Gaffney was successful.

Misfortune struck High after the resumption as Levi left the field with a head injury. Dare, Cooney and Gaffney scored tries after some smart backline play. Gaffney converted two of these to make the score 22-6. Armidale rallied and a temporary lapse in High's defence allowed Lativaer to score the visitors' only try and Wu's kick raised the flags as the bell rang.

S.H.S. v. Sydney Grammar School. 18/7/64.

Play fluctuated during the first 20 minutes but Grammar, favoured by the wind, gained the upper hand and looked like scoring on several occasions. 8 minutes before half-time, Grammar's breakaway, Malone, scored from a scrum on High's line; Ross converted and the visitors went to a 5-0 lead.

Minutes after the break, Smith gathered Morgan's kick, to score near the posts. Gaffney's kick levelled the score at 5-all. Taylor left the field with a dislocated shoulder and the visitors were forced to play a man short. Gaffney then scored under the posts after Smith and Cooney had handled. Score 10-5. Smith side-stepped his opposite number and passed to Cooney who outpaced the opposition to score wide out. High went over again in the 28th minute when Stamell broke through a line-out and passed to Murray who scored in the corner. Gaffney converted. Score 18-5. Kenny then goaled for Grammar 18-8 with 2 minutes remaining.

Grammar 8; Sydney High 18.

S.H.S. v. The King's School. 25/7/64.

Very fiery play marked the opening stages and the High forwards were hard pressed to hold their heavier opponents. In the 15th minute Grover was tackled into touch just short of the line. Gaffney's attempted field goal from the line-out slid under the bar. Second-rower Dawson scored for King's after scrappy play on the High's try-line. 0-3.

High equalised in the 2nd minute of the second half, when Grover gathered a kick to score wide out. 3-3. Van Cooney was injured after 10 minutes and left the field. The visitors made every effort during this period but smothering tackles by the High forwards rapidly halted the movements. Brazier took a penalty kick for King's. The referee overruled the linesmen's decision and ruled "no goal", the score remaining at 3-3.

The King's 3; Sydney High 3.

S.H.S. v. The Scots College, 1/8/64.

Continuing their good form High scored a convincing, if close, win against Scots.

Play opened with the High backs continually probing the tight Scots' defence. Many times they looked dangerous as man after man doubled around to make the break but the defence held.

However, with the concentration of play in Scots' half they infringed and Gaffney goaled. Score 3-0. Not long after, following yet another High sortie of backs and forwards, Gaffney kicked his second penalty goal. Score 6-0.

Up to this time High appeared superior in all departments. Scots then served the ball from loose play quickly out to their speedy winger Trengrove who skirted the side line and touched down near the posts. Bamback added the extras and at half-time the score-board read 6-5 in High's favour.

Although both sides scored nine points in the second half High was the more impressive, particularly as they played most of the second half without half Chris Levi, who was nursing a thick lip on the side-line, following a clash with a dark-headed High forward.

Lee and Morgan were the try-getters, both tries resulting from team efforts, with Eddie Lee showing fine determination and elusiveness in his weaving run to the corner. Alan Gaffney's penalty goal was a great effort, even though the cross bar did assist somewhat.

Scots' points came from a try by centre Lees, after a nice variation in the direction of play, plus two penalty goals by full-back Bamback, one via the cross bar.

Team: T. Ash (capt.), D. Morgan (vice-capt.), R. Bensley, R. Bush, G. Clark, J. Dunn, P. Gray, G. Hatfield, D. Hofbauer, A. Johnston, K. King, E. Lee, W. Long, C. Lyon, N. Morgan, W. Parsons, G. Quick, P. Snelling.

Coach: Mr. G. Cooney.

Seconds this year were a rare combination of experience, weight and youth but through injuries, constant changes in the backline and an uncanny unpredictability of performances they did not realise their early promise.

Before the commencement of the G.P.S. competition Seconds had drawn one and won four games in the C.H.S. zone matches and had lost one trial game against Waverley. In this game vice-captain Dennis Morgan broke his nose and missed the next three matches.

To open the competition the team functioned as a well-oiled machine to steamroll St. Joseph's so decisively that they were described as "potential premiers" and "unbeatable".

It was hard to recognise the same team the next week. At Mc-Kay in a dull, scrappy game Shore scored an uninspired 6-3 victory.

High commenced the Newington match by piling on 6 points in the first 10 minutes and seemed set for victory. However, in the second half Newington lifted their game and their Tongan full-back, Finau, scored 9 points from field and penalty goals to give his team victory.

The game against St. Ignatius was fought at a "killing" pace. St. Ignatius led 11-6 at the interval and in a scoreless second half some of the best football of the year was played. Featured was the intensity of the forward struggle and the tight defence of both backlines.

In an easily paced match at McKay, High comfortably defeated the young inexperienced Armidale side 18-6.

With the memory of a thrilling 3-3 draw against Grammar in a trial High were determined to win the return clash. In a hard, close struggle Grammar just staved off a determined High challenge. This game ended on a most unhappy note when Bill Long broke his leg in a heavy tackle.

Traditional rivalry was keen in the "clash of the giants" against King's. Here two heavy and tough packs of forwards fought a tight, fierce, and bitter struggle for supremacy. Playing far above their recent form the High forwards, revelling in the tight play, laid the foundation of a 14-3 win. This result gave Newington an unassailable lead in the competition. We extend our congratulations to them.

In the last match against Scots, High ran up an 8-points lead in the first half but due to a run of injuries the heavy Scots' forwards took control and ran away with a 24-8 victory.

Second grade returned to play the last game in C.H.S. in an effort to win the competition. In a scrappy uninspired game Randwick won 11-9. Congratulations to Randwick on winning the Premiership.

The team takes this opportunity to thank Mr. Cooney not only for his patient coaching but for his loyal and unfailing support despite fluctuating fortunes throughout the season.

Coach: Mr. J. J. Richardson.

This team, though young, succeeded in winning four and drawing one game in eight encounters with C.H.S. First Grade teams. Frequent positional changes in the backline prevented it from showing its true form. The pack excelled themselves throughout the season with the Dawson twins in particular standing out, while the two heavy forwards, Adrian Bolton and Peter Anderson were prominent with crashing runs. The captain, Chris Faulks scored 133 points. while the vice-captain Ian Ford won the "best and fairest" competition.

Our thanks to Mr. Richardson without whose time and efforts we would not have been able to have such an enjoyable season.

Coaches: Mr. Clark, G. Clark.

This year's Fourth XV fared well as 2nd Grade in the C.H.S. competition and finished as runners-up. In G.P.S. however they were not quite so fortunate. With one win, a draw and the rest losses they could not quite live up to last year's Fourth Grade reputation, but they played as a team and were tough opposition to the other schools.

The team's only win was against St. Ignatius where, thanks to Rus Wilson's accurate kicking and to good play by both backs and forwards, we finished 23 points in front.

The team was very grateful to Mr. Clark and his son Geoff.

THE GENTLEMEN'S XV

Coach: Mr. L. Norton.

Senior students formed the core of an extremely versatile Gentlemen's combination this year. Team members took part in conscientious and constructive training both before and immediately after each match, and aided by this the side met with a great measure of success. The Gentlemen played in C.H.S. Third Grade for the greater part of the season in the absence of the regular team and proved more than a capable contender for the opposing sides. The players hope that the fighting spirit displayed this year will be carried on in future Gentlemen's Fifteens.

The team this year could not live up to the winning reputation of last year's 15A's. Early in the season they lost the services of their full-back and, on account of various injuries, did not strike top form until late in the season. In the G.P.S. competition the team recorded a win and a draw against the previously undefeated Grammar and King's teams respectively. In the C.H.S. competition a defeat by Cleveland Street in the third round cost them the Premiership and they were only able to finish runners-up. Half-way through this competition a Zone team was selected in which five members of the 15A's won places.

The team members would like to thank Mr. Salmon who proved to be a most able and popular coach.

Coach: Mr. J. Hardy.

The 15B's were reasonably successful during the season being co-premiers in the C.H.S. competition, with only one loss to Ibrox Park (10-11).

In the G.P.S. competition the team improved steadily and this was borne out by a 6-6 draw with Grammar after a 25-8 loss in the

The team this season met with varied success. It consisted of many fine, promising players, showing their ability in various positions. The team finished runners-up in the C.H.S. competition and fourth in G.P.S. All players showed that they would improve to become a fast and tough 15A's next year. The team is thankful to Mr. Fielding for his fine coaching.

Coach: A. Docker.

The 14B team enjoyed mixed success this year. Of the 23 matches played, 11 were won, 11 lost and 1 drawn. The C.H.S. Zone Premiership was won, the team suffering only two defeats, but no G.P.S. wins were registered although close matches were played against King's, Shore and Scots.

The coach Alan Docker of 5th Year, did an excellent job in teaching the team the elements of Rugby and training the players. The team is indeed grateful to him.

By defeating Randwick High in the last match of the season, the 14C's became the C.H.S. competition premiers. However the team was at a disadvantage in some of the G.P.S. games because of the light pack of forwards and did not fare as well.

Our sincere thanks to Jack Mock and Laurie Eizenberg for their patient coaching and support throughout the season.

(C.H.S. ZONE RUNNERS-UP)

Team: P. Bentivoglio (capt.), J. McIntosh (vice-capt.), R. Smith, G. Burns, M. Middleton, R. Piggot, C. Spencer, R. Hicks, L. Dunn, S. Hamilton, S. Prodes, E. Morgan, P. Lewis, C. Whelan, D. White, G. Clark, B. Denning.

Coach: Mr. J. Parker.

Captained by P. Bentivoglio and coached by Mr. Parker the 13A's were runners-up in the C.H.S. and were unlucky in losing many G.P.S. games. During the latter part of the season the 13A's showed their true form winning against King's and were unlucky against the undefeated Scots, losing only by a small margin.

The team would like to thank Mr. Parker for spending so much time and energy as coach.

Coaches: P. Du Rhone, T. Laverack.

The team finished a successful season as C.H.S. premiers. In G.P.S. they were credited with four wins and a draw with Scots. All games were close and, with experience and teamwork developing and with the same spirit as they showed this year, they should be an even greater force in next year's matches.

Thanks go to coaches P. Du Rhone and T. Laverack on behalf of the whole team.

The team enjoyed a very successful season having won the C.H.S. competition and having lost only one game in the G.P.S. matches. The boys' spirit throughout the season was a big factor of our success.

Our sincere thanks go to our coaches Alan Lee and Ross Hayes who devoted a lot of their time coaching us.

CRICKET

PILA CLAVAQUE

I feel that it is appropriate in this preface to issue a caveat to all those who have a deep affection for what the late Colonel Rait-Kerr referred to as the "noble and manly game — Cricket". The boy, or man, who regards Cricket as no more than a game has failed to appreciate some of the more recondite qualities that are its especial province. As Neville Cardus so pointedly said, "The fact is, Cricket is more than a game — the leisureliness of Cricket, the room in it for graces and amenities deliciously irrelevant! — all these make for the poetry of Cricket . . . Whether the average boy can comprehend this is a moot point — but they are there, nonetheless.

Many of us in looking upon Cricket as an institution, enduring and indispensable, may fail to appreciate that much is fundamentally amiss with the game. By its very nature Cricket seldom seeks artificial stimuli; and seldom receives them. But if the game does become relegated to an obscure position it will suffer. What then is wrong with Cricket within the school?

The cessation of the G.P.S. Competition, to my mind, has done considerable harm to Cricket, and no appreciable good for anything. It has destroyed that keen edge of enthusiasm for the game which challenge alone can arouse. The fact is that, unlike cherished football, there are a number of alternative summer sports which compete for the available talent.

Cricket is a team-game. It requires experienced and competent players; but these must realize that only by constant and diligent practice as a team at the nets can they hope to develop that spirit of cohesion so vital to success. Incidentally the lack of suitable practice pitches and nets is a distinct disadvantage whose correction would be most helpful.

The lack of incentives is no doubt commensurate with the failure of the boys to address themselves to solid and systematic practice as a team. Reference to the Results Summary cannot be explained away save in terms which I have mentioned. We are faced in the near future with a dearth of really first-rate players so that our prospects depend very largely on a realistic approach to Cricket by its players. They must practice.

A poor attitude on the part of the players in 14B's, led to that team's disbanding. There are now no 15B's. Neither the Third nor Fourth XI's have coaches: this means that they cease be be practical recruiting grounds for the higher grades. Yet, it is from these that the players of the future must ultimately derive. The problems are manifold. We must acknowledge the gravity of the position by all players, coaches and friends of the game insisting by word and action that proper status be accorded that glory which is Cricket.

W. C. LUCAN-ROBERTS.

FIRST XI

Team: P. Smith (capt.), T. Ash, A. Gaffney, P. Godfrey, M. Jones, K. King, C. Levi, R. McKay, J. Mock, T. Osborne, R. Wilson.

Coaches: Mr. J. Rigby and Mr. G. Hannan.

With the resumption of the second half of the 1963 season the team was running second in the G.P.S. competition and was confident of winning the premiership. The three matches played proved to be very tough and full of interest.

The opening match was against Grammar, and High was sent into bat on a good wicket. We began brightly and were three for 109 at lunch. However, after lunch High surprisingly collapsed and were all out for 136. Grammar scored the necessary runs for a first innings lead with a total of 176. High scored a mediocre 135 in their second innings which allowed Grammar plenty of time to secure an outright win. In this match R. Wilson (43), P. Rufford (32), and C. Sinclair (28) batted well with Jack Mock 7-70 and Rufford 2-17; 2-12, shining with some fine bowling.

The match against Shore resulted in an outright loss for High. Chris Levi (58) was the only batsman able to handle the hostile Shore attack.

High ended a disappointing season with a first innings win against St. Joseph's. P. Rufford (31), C. Levi (27), P. Smith (48) and Russ Wilson (32 n.o.) batted well, while Colin Sinclair took a "hat trick" in achieving 3-14.

(Congratulations to Peter Rufford and Jack Mock on their selection in the G.P.S. first and second teams respectively.)

High commenced the 1964 season with six players from last year. The opening G.P.S. match was very interesting. The opponents were our old rivals St. Joseph's who took first use of the pitch and scored 154. High just failed to reach their score, being dismissed for 148. St. Joseph's attacked the bowling in their second innings and scored 170, leaving High 177 runs to score for an outright win. However High could only manage 113, with a powerful display from Captain Phil Smith (42). Bob McKay (36) and Russ Wilson (28) also batted well, with Alan Gaffney (4-52 and 4-41) being the most successful bowler. M. Jones (2-15) and P. Godfrey (2-20) ably supported A. Gaffney.

High were again beaten in their next match against Scots who scored 124 in their first innings. High had to struggle to make 77 and lost on the first innings. Opener Tim Ash scored 28.

The second day of this match was lost through rain.

The following game against King's proved an exciting one, although marred by showers. High scored 66 on a treacherous pitch and King's were lucky to scrape to a one run lead on the first innings. High scored a disappointing 67 in their second innings and King's were able to make the necessary runs with five wickets in hand. In this match the younger members of the team shone, Trev Osborne taking 4-20 and 2-10 with some spirited bowling and Kevin King scoring 28 in fine style.

High excelled in their final game against Newington. Phil Smith gave a brilliant batting display scoring 86 with Bob McKay (38), Kevin King (28) and Tim Ash (22) supporting him well. Al Gaffney (6-29), Jack Mock (5-54) and Max Jones (5-20) bowled spiritedly.

In the C.H.S. Competition, four matches were played of which two were won and two lost.

In the first match against Randwick, High had first use of the wicket and the batsmen flayed the bowling, openers C. Levi and T. Ash setting the mood of the innings with a partnership of 47 in 30 minutes. The young Randwick side were unable to handle the pace and experience of the High attack and were dismissed easily. The game resulted in a first innings win for High.

The second game, against Enmore, was a lesson for High. The over confident batsmen, inclined to take the game lightly, were routed by a fine piece of slow swing bowling by the Enmore captain. Continuing the "drub" Enmore's batsmen took 200 runs of the highlyrated High bowlers, thus winning the match easily.

Against Fort Street, our opponents opened solidly and, after dismissing High cheaply, went to a first innings lead. In Fort Street's second innings, Jack Mock tied the opposition in knots with a masterly display of spin bowling. This however was not enough and Fort Street ran out victors.

High returned to form with a win over Ibrox Park. Again High's batsmen thrashed the bowling. Openers C. Levi and T. Ash, together with R. Wilson, scored freely. Ibrox Park collapsed under a withering display of pace bowling from Max Jones, who at one stage had taken 5-1. Sent in again, Ibrox Park fought hard but were no match for Jones, Gaffney and Godfrey. High won the match outright.

The team would like to thank their coaches, Messrs. Rigby and Hannen for giving their time and effort in moulding the boys into a team.

SECOND XI

Team: G. Hatfield (capt.), A. Hoiles (vice-capt.), A. Betts (vicecapt., practice), J. Anderson, P. Barclay, J. Brand, D. Brandon, G. Clark, P. Ferguson, R. Gould, K. Grover, A. Hely, C. Chapman (scorer).

Coach: Mr. W. Lucan-Roberts.

The early matches against Randwick and Fort Street XI's began uncertainly, both games ending in a draw. However, High's performance against Enmore was competent, if not brilliant, with Hely providing the finest knock in the C.H.S. round. His 55 included five boundaries and a six. Top bowling honours here were taken by Hatfield (6-21). Ibrox Park XI was defeated outright when High (with one wicket down!) declared with 103 runs on the board, including a partnership of 96 between Brand (52 n.o.) and Hatfield (35 n.o.).

As we expected G.P.S. provided stiffer opposition. St. Joseph's proved a test against a team still lacking in cohesion. The really dominating player in the first innings was Osborne with figures of 38 runs and 6-42. Anderson (33) and Grover (7-14) shared the limelight in the second innings. At Bellevue Hill Barclay set the "tone" of play by pulling a six off the first ball. At close of the first day's play we seemed assured of a sound victory against Scots, with the scorebook reading 9 for 197 (decl.). An opening partnership by Brand and Barclay of 76 runs (51 and 35 respectively) was supported by Hoiles' polished stroking (45 n.o.). Inclement weather cheated us of success. Again, at Parramatta, High was unfortunate not to gain an outright win, for only 8 runs were required when the bails were lifted. Hatfield was sighting the ball (35, 30; and 3-14) while Clark (4-9) provided an exciting over and Brand (32) helped his average along. Special mention should be made of Gould who won a trophy for fine bowling (4-4) in which was a hat-trick.

"It couldn't be creamier"

It was the last match of the season which brought about a humiliation at Newington, a defeat which can only be attributed to a fall in teamwork "discipline". The only bright patches in play were in the knocks by Clark (32), Barclay (28) and Hely (22). Gould's analysis was respectable with 5-51. Some lessons should have been learnt to apply in the second half of the season. Chris Chapman competently scored and furnished some illuminating analysis.

THIRD XI

Team: E. Smith (capt.), R. Beattie, M. Berger, K. Bushby, K. Chippendale, I. Ford, S. Gerovich, D. Goldrick, P. Gray, M. Jackson, A. Johnston, R. Rohr, M. Werry.

Owing to the lack of depth in our batting and bowling the team did not experience much success. This fact, however, was in no way a deterrent to the boys' enjoyment of the game.

Unfortunately the team did not play C.H.S. matches.

In G.P.S. the first match was a closely fought contest. St. Joseph's, batting first, were dismissed cheaply thanks to the fine bowling of E. Smith and P. Gray. High batted and gained a first innings lead. In the second innings St. Joseph's scored a combined total of 200 leaving High 119 to get in 105 minutes. With half an hour remaining High were dismissed 25 runs short.

In the next match against Scots rain limited play to one day. Scots batted first and scored over 200. In reply four High batsmen were dismissed quite cheaply. The result was a draw.

Against King's we played a varied game. Batting first, we scored 92 on a soft pitch. In reply they scored 232 before being dismissed. In our second innings we scored 142, leaving us 2 runs in front, but lost the game by 10 wickets.

Playing Newington, in a match characterised by fours, we were defeated by an innings and 9 runs. They batted first and scored 214 runs. In reply we could only manage 74 but in the second innings we struck out and put together 131. The innings included 20 fours and 2 sixes.

FOURTH XI

Team: M. Reid (capt.), G. Herbert (vice-capt.), R. Bryant, A. Dale, G. Deutsch, A. Johnson, K. Green, M. Lennox, G. Moore, P. Spira, C. Trist, A. Wilson.

The Fourth XI consisted mainly of Fourth Year boys who wanted to play cricket without the seriousness of the higher grades. Although badly beaten by Scots in the first match, the team rallied, to defeat the previously unbeaten King's team in the next match.

In the King's match K. Green with 31, stood out with his solid defence. Others worthy of mention are G. Deutsch with his 27 and A. Dale. The find of the season, G. Moore, was mainly responsible for the victory against King's, taking 6-36. He was ably supported during the season by M. Lennox and K. Green.

The team had mixed success throughout the season. In C.H.S. we drew the first game with Randwick, had a narrow loss to Fort Street, just failed to defeat Enmore outright and lost to Ibrox Park. In G.P.S. the team lost two matches and narrowly missed first innings points in two others. The bowling was handled by Betts. White, Meech, Wilmot and Tyson. The best batsmen were Sharp, Symonds, Isaacs and White.

The captain and members of the team would like to thank Mr. Morphew for devoting his time to coaching us.

The team played consistently throughout the season, losing only one game to King's. The outstanding batsmen of the season were R. Hick, W. Evans, W. Selby and R. Walker. The two best individual scores were 56 by W. Evans against Ibrox Park and 58 n.o. by R. Hick against Ibrox Park. The bowling was capably handled by C. McMurray, W. Evans, D. Lyons, R. Hicks, assisted by S. Marks.

We are all grateful for the way in which our coach Mr. Sims supervised and helped us throughout the season.

The team had mixed success in the C.H.S. competition but has not fared well in G.P.S. so far. We scored an outright win against Ibrox Park and a first innings win against Enmore. All but one G.P.S. match has been lost, the last being drawn. However, the team's morale is high and we look ahead full of confidence for the remaining matches.

Our thanks to Mr. Higham for the time he spent with us throughout the season.

Coach: Mr. B. Di Salvia.

Although the team did not meet with much success in the C.H.S. competition, we managed to remain undefeated throughout the G.P.S. games. We gained outright wins over Enmore and St. Joseph's College and had first innings wins over Scots College, Newington College and King's. The match against Randwick was drawn, owing to the bus strike, with High in a good position. The most successful batsmen were L. Dunn and E. Morgan, while the bowling was well handled by W. Steele, L. Dunn, R. Sleeman and E. Morgan, with help from D. Hinds and R. Juchau.

We wish to thank Mr. Di Salvia for his patient coaching and helpful advice during the season.

ROWING

At the beginning of the school year the Penrith crews moved into camp at Abbotsford for the development of that combination of team work and stamina which is so necessary in this sport. A most successful camp was enjoyed by these oarsmen, the culmination of which was the move to Penrith for the G.P.S. Regatta.

An addition to the school's clubhouse this season has been the installation of a hot water system with a bank of four showers. The system, though added late in the camp, is a valuable acquisition, as the rowers coming off the water in the morning's early hours will verify.

Open Day this year was most successful with a fine attendance from parents and friends. The occasion provided Mr. Callaghan with the opportunity of meeting these many supporters of our Boat Club, whilst Mrs. Callaghan christened two "pair oars" boats "Veritate" and "Virtute", and a tub four, "80th Anniversary". These boats should help greatly in the club's training programme for the coming seasons.

The season was enjoyed by both junior and senior crews and the club was able to boat ten crews at many of the regattas, which, for the G.P.S. schools, lead up to the Head of the River. Although the school was not placed in any of the five Nepean races, this must not be judged alone, as the measure of success or failure of a season. There are many other vital factors, including the development of sportsmanship, physical fitness, and team spirit among members. There is the overall goal of a happy season of co-operation and progress between crews and coaches. Finally there is that continued advancement by the club in the form of fleet additions, shed amenities and a vigorous and ever helpful parent body.

The club completed the season with a full measure of success in all these fields and now looks forward to the 1964-65 season with the hope that they may add fresh Nepean victories to their list of achievements.

The club was happy to welcome as coach of the First and Second IV's Mr. W. Stevenson; of the Third IV Mr. P. Wagner, and of the Fourth IV Mr. R. Montgomery. These three gentlemen, all experienced rowers and Old Boys, made a valuable contribution to the success of this season and gave of their time and effort in the manner which is so typical of rowing coaches, but so astonishing in its magnitude to those unfamiliar with rowing. Colonel Duffy was once again on the scene, and as senior coach took over many of the cares of administration as well as coaching. Thanks to his constant efforts the camp functioned smoothly and efficiently with the maximum of time being able to be devoted to time on the water.

Congratulations are extended to Col Wolf and Col Allsop who shared the trophies as "most improved rowers" of the season, and to Col Randall who was awarded the prize for the "best club member" during the season 1963-64.

SYDNEY HIGH'S OLYMPIC ROWERS

Sydney High School can be proud of two of its Old Boys who this year represented Australia in the Tokyo Olympic Games. These are Alan Grover and John Campbell.

John Campbell, who rowed No. 3 in the Coxed IV's, was a member of High's 1958 winning First IV. He rowed for two years in the VIII, which won in 1959 and was placed 3rd in 1960. After leaving Sydney High, John joined Sydney Rowing Club and has won numerous State Championships and represented N.S.W. in the King's Cup.

Alan Grover, who was cox of the same IV at Tokyo, filled that position in High's winning First IV in 1960, and in 1961 coxed the school's VIII which finished 4th. Alan also played in the Third XV that year. Since he has left school Alan has coxed for both Sydney and Colleagues' Rowing Clubs. He represented N.S.W. at Melbourne in the Lightweight IV's, when his boat finished second.

The season began fairly late this year for the VIII, the crew not being finally selected until early February. There was an immediate setback, however, when Tony Morgan, the 2 man withdrew. Luckily, however, Tim Sanford, who had no intention of rowing, came to the rescue and training again commenced after the loss of two valuable weeks. By this time the crew were combining very well to produce some fine training rows.

As a result mainly of this setback, the VIII only competed in three regattas before the Head of the River. This in itself was a severe setback as various members of the crew were quite inexperienced, having only rowed in Junior crews the previous year, while Col Wolf was a complete newcomer to rowing. However, this did not deter the crewmembers as they always approached the starting line with the utmost determination and confidence and were unlucky not to gain a place in two of their starts. The crew moved to Penrith on the Wednesday and had their first row on the Thursday morning. The rowing was by far the best by the VIII and the crew was full of confidence following some heartening newspaper reports.

On the Saturday, the VIII approached the starting line full of enthusiasm and confidence, aware of the firm basis given to their rowing by coach Des Duffy. Although the result was disappointing the VIII had a very enjoyable season and, with several of the crew back next year, they can certainly look forward to a much more successful season.

The VIII would like to thank Col. D. T. Duffy for the time and effort he devoted to the crew throughout the season. Also, thanks go to Eric (Doc) Longley for his invaluable assistance.

The VIII take this opportunity to congratulate the victorious Riverview combination on the very creditable performance. FIRST IV. Bow I. Cullen, 2 J. Dwyer, 3 C. Allsop, Stroke R. Stevenson, Cox R. FIRST IV

I. D. Cullen (Bow), J. G. S. Dwyer (2), C. P. Allsop (3), R. J. Stevenson (Stroke), R. F. Little (Cox).

Coach: Mr. W. R. J. Stevenson.

The First IV was formed in mid-February and enthusiastically settled down to two months of hard training. Their coach, Bill Stevenson, laid a foundation of rugged conditioning rows and built upon this with a style specially designed for the exacting dead water conditions at Penrith.

As the season continued, training progressed satisfactorily although they had no outstanding success in races. The crew gradually built up a combination until, at Leichhardt, they achieved their first success of the season. In this regatta, using their racing equipment for the first time, they gave a glimpse of their true form by rowing into a well-earned 2nd place. At the St. Ignatius Regatta the First IV just missed out on the final in a heat in which half a length separated the first and third crews.

The weekend before the G.P.S. regatta the First IV, together with the Second IV, made a trip to Grafton to compete in the Head of the Northern Rivers Regatta. In this race they rowed home in 3rd place.

During the final two days training at Penrith the First IV showed they would be hard to beat, turning in some fast times in the dead conditions. However, on the day, they were not able to match the pace set by the early leaders and despite a brilliant finishing burst were not able to make a place.

Racing Record of the First IV:

Leichhardt Regatta: Maiden Fours, 2nd in heat.

St. Ignatius Regatta: First Fours, 3rd in heat.

Head of the Northern Rivers: 3rd.

G.P.S. Regatta: St. Ignatius, 1st; St. Joseph's, 2nd; Grammar, 3rd; High, 4th.

SECOND IV

C. Randall (Bow), R. Palmisano (2), G. Nicholson (3), R. W. Henderson (Stroke), C. Little (Cox).

Coach: Mr. W. J. R. Stevenson.

When the crew was selected in mid-February with one new rower, they began training with enthusiasm under the expert guidance of their coach, Bill Stevenson himself an experienced rower. The boys worked earnestly and soon moulded themselves into a good crew, performing well during the season in club regattas and training races with the Firsts, clocking some good times in both. At Penrith, however, other crews proved too good for them.

For the Second IV a highlight of the season was a trip to Grafton with the First IV to represent the school. In that regatta they finished third in their race. The trip, in fact the entire season, was considered satisfyingly successful and was enjoyed by all.

THIRD IV

P. J. Prentice (Bow), D. J. McGill (2), A. J. Nicolas (3), N. J. Morgan (Stroke), C. J. Wood (Cox).

Coach: Mr. P. D. Wagner.

The Third IV, composed of members from the last year's Junior crews, began the season showing promise of success. Although not winning any major races they were always well to the fore and were placed in two club regattas. After some heartening training rows at Penrith the crew entered the big race full of confidence and finished a close fifth.

The crew trained hard and enthusiastically throughout the season under the guidance of coach Peter Wagner. All members wish to thank Peter for his part in making it an enjoyable season.

Racing Record of the Third IV:

Balmain Regatta: 3rd.

Glebe Regatta: 3rd.

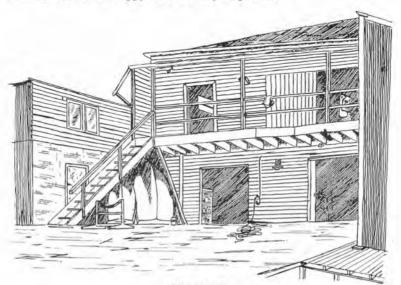

FOURTH IV

Gary McIvor (Bow), Ross Whittle (2), Bruce O'Meagher (3), Rick Stevenson (Stroke), Doug Blomberg (Cox).

Coach: Mr. R. B. Montgomery.

This year we boated another very light Fourth IV. Although not an outstandingly successful crew, it was a happy one and there was always the right spirit in the work. The crew was coached by an old boy Bob Montgomery, who himself rowed in the 1960 VIII. Monty's humour and energy kept the crew going in the difficult spells and taught us all something in sportsmanship.

Three members of the crew, two of whom are at present in Third Form and one in Second Form will probably represent the school on the VIII in future years. We hope that their future seasons will be as happy as the one just passed.

This year the junior crews could not be selected until rather late owing to delays in selecting higher crews. Despite this handicap the crews trained conscientiously, overcoming setbacks resulting from lack of equipment. Results were promising if not particularly impressive.

The Junior VIII, although outclassed on account of a lack of early training improved considerably towards the end of the season thanks to the patient coaching of Mr. Gordon Cheers.

The Fifth IV trained hard under the guidance of Mr. Tom Gervay and Mr. Cam Lyon and met with moderate success, gaining places in most of their races.

The Sixth IV, although light, achieved good results against other Sixth IV's finishing third in the Riverview Regatta. This was the result of the excellent grounding they received from their coach Mr. Roger Grant.

The Seventh IV trained assiduously and were rewarded in their final regatta where they performed well, to the credit of Mr. Geoff Andrews their coach.

The Eighth IV, in spite of being rather young and light, displayed great enthusiasm in their limited training period and performed creditably in their race. Their spirit justified the efforts of Mr. Cam Lyon their coach.

The results, though not impressive in racing, lay mainly in the fact that most of these boys will return next year, having received a solid grounding for senior rowing.

First and Second Grades have both enjoyed a most interesting and successful year in the C.H.S. Zone Competition. Though the "home" courts are at Coogee Bay, regular Monday afternoon practise on the school courts, under the supervision of Mr. Cooper, has been an impetus to all players.

First Grade finished third in the competition, being beaten only by Randwick, the eventual winners, and Cleveland Street. Out of twelve matches played, eight were won and four lost. Had it not been for some inconsistency in crucial matches, the team would have fared even better.

Second Grade had a more successful season, finishing co-premiers with Randwick, after a hard fought last round match. Second Grade was unlucky to lose one of their players after the first round. The final result however was ten wins, one loss and a draw.

Most of the First and Second Grade this year are composed of Fourth Year students and this augurs well for Open Grade sides next year.

Both teams wish to thank Mr. Cooper for his assistance and valuable advice during the season.

Third Grade has had a most successful season finishing copremiers in the competition with Ibrox Park. This was a most pleasing result as the team has played consistently throughout the season and with great enthusiasm. The second match against Ibrox Park was the only one lost. Most of the team has also had considerable experience in the Saturday G.P.S. competition and this has probably helped our result in the C.H.S. competition.

Fourth Grade finished second in the competition after many hard fought and very close matches. The team, composed of First and Second Year boys played consistently throughout the season gaining much valuable experience. During the three rounds the only matches lost were to Randwick and Fort Street, these being closely contested on each occasion. The team shows much promise of developing into a very effective group for future competitions.

Both teams are grateful to Mr. Cooper for his help during the season.

Balance your diet for good health

Many doctors believe that cholesterol is one of several factors having a strong connection with serious ailments. The more cholesterol in the blood, the greater the apparent risk. The amount of cholesterol in the blood depends on not only the amount but also the type of fat in the daily diet.

Saturated fats (the kinds found in dripping and butter) raise the level of cholesterol.

Poly-unsaturated fats can reduce the level.

What are poly-unsaturated fats? These fats are most commonly derived from vegetable sources, particularly Safflower Oil, yielding a very high content of poly-unsaturates, a most important one being linoleic.

What is "Miracle"? A new table margarine made from Safflower Oil, rich in polyunsaturates. "Miracle" contains cholesterolreducing linoleic to help you balance the fats in your diet. "Miracle" has a natural flavour that all the family likes!

ATHLETICS

It is customary in making an Annual Report on a sporting activity to measure success or failure by pointing to a placing in a point-score table. However, in a sport which relies so heavily on individual performances this is neither a reliable nor a satisfactory guide. In the C.H.S. Competition no less than thirteen distinct events. competed for in six age gradings, are included, while in the G.P.S. Competition ten distinct events in six age gradings are decided. Moreover, the age gradings are different for each Competition. The conclusions are obvious: and, while Athletics continues to be an in-between-seasons sport, an overall depth in an Athletics Representation (one prefers not to call it a Team) is almost completely fortuitous. In the C.H.S. Zone Competition, Sydney High achieved First Placing by an overwhelming margin - well over 100 points: but in the G.P.S. Competition High was placed 7th and 8th in the Senior and Junior Championships respectively. Success or failure is, therefore, largely a question of emphasis.

In the G.P.S. Championships excellent performances were recorded by Michael Brown, 1st in 100 Yards and 2nd in 220 Yards (Under 17 Years), and Tony Morgan, 1st in 1 Mile (Under 17 Years). These won us valuable points, but despite plucky efforts, for which they deserve full credit, our other competitors were generally outclassed. High's Under 16 Years group performed really well and, had this effort been sustained throughout the lower grades, our placing in the Junior Championship must have been higher. A 1st by Trevor Allen in the 220 Yards, 2nds by John Sackar and Denis White in the 100 Yards Championship and Second Division, and a 3rd by Jeffery Williams in the Long Jump revealed Competitionwinning class. Ian Coyle's 2nd (Under 15 Years 100 Yards) and young Lee Forrest's 3rd (Under 14 Years 60 Yards Hurdles), despite injury, were also pleasing.

One feels that the difference in age-gradings in the two Competitions, previously referred to, seriously interferes with our boys' preparation. This is felt during the vital period between our own Athletics Carnival and the G.P.S. Carnival when the C.H.S. Zone virtually takes over from the School.

In conclusion, we again record our appreciation of the work done by our coaches, particularly Messrs. B. Webb and C. Williams, and offer our heartiest congratulations to St. Ignatius' College on their outstanding success in G.P.S. Competition this year.

WATER POLO FIRST GRADE

Team, J. McLachlan (capt.), P. Anderson, R. Bell, R. Bensley, J. DeLeon, J. Giles, C. Joyce, D. Morgan, H. Merkur, J. Murray, W. Parsons

Coach: Mr. C. R. Wegener.

This year's side combined quite well, to make a good team. The team started off the season by losing a close game to Randwick, our old rivals, and due, to a bus strike, the game on the following week was cancelled. The games against Ibrox Park and Enmore resulted in very easy wins and we defeated Fort Street soundly.

Bob Bensley showed out as a very good player, scoring the majority of the team's goals, with his powerful shooting. Bill Parsons

FIRST GRADE.

Back Row: D. Morgan, R. Bell, P. Anderson, W. Parsons, J. Giles, R. Bensley, C. Joyce. Front Row: H. Merkur, J. McLachlan (capt.), Mr. C. Wegener, J. De Leon, J. Murray.

SECOND GRADE. Back Row: F. Barbuto, S. Kritzler, M. Price, P. Bell, M. Brown, D. Hofbauer, Front Row: C. Bird, W. Widin, Mr. C. Wegener, I. Frith, T. Coleman. THIRD GRADE. Back Row: G. Dunn, J. Turtle, P. Jacobs, P. Quittner, C. Whelan, R. Buchan. Front Row: P. Bentivoglio, M. Smith, Mr. C. Wegener, D. Oxborrow, B. O'Hara.

and John DeLeon shaped up well and combined well with the other forwards — D. Morgan and C. Joyce.

The backs led by Jeff McLachlan gave the forwards a feast of the ball — the backs were Pete Anderson, John Giles, Harry Merkur and John Murray.

The team played in the C.H.S. Knock-out competition, but was unluckily defeated in the fourth game. Four of the team were picked in the City of Sydney Zone team, but none could make the C.H.S. side — they were Bob Bensley, John DeLeon, Bill Parsons and Jeff McLachlan.

On the whole the team had a good season and would like to thank Mr. Wegener for giving up his time to benefit the team.

SECOND GRADE

Team: W. Widin (capt.), F. Barbuto, P. Bell, C. Bird, M. Brown, D. Coleman, I. Frith, D. Hofbauer, S. Kritzler, M. Price, S. Skipper.
 Coach: Mr. C. R. Wegener.

The team started the season badly, losing the first three matches, however their play improved and with good teamwork proved to be a tough opposition to opposing schools. The team was ably led by W. Widin, playing centre back, while Steve Skipper and Ian Frith played well in the backs. A new goalie, M. Price, helped us considerably.

The team has a good chance of Runners-Up in the Zone competition, owing to Mr. Wegener's keen interest and training.

THIRD GRADE

Team: M. Smith (capt.), P. Bentivoglio, R. Buchanan, A. Cahill, G. Dunn, B. Jakeman, I. Morris, P. O'Hara, D. Oxborrow, P. Quittner, J. Turtle, C. Wheelan.

Coaches: Mr. C. R. Wegener, Robert Vadas.

WATER POLO RESULTS

The return matches with Randwick were cancelled.

Through the course of the season this team has suffered only one defeat and seems likely to be "runners-up" in the Zone Championships.

The backline of O'Hara, Wheelan, Smith and Turtle formed a solid defence, while the forwards — Buchanan, Dunn and Bentivoglio — combined intelligently to score the winning points.

Dunn's fast swimming gained speedy possession of the ball, while accurate passes from the centre back, Smith, to the everattacking Bentivoglio and Buchanan, showed quick results.

Turtle, Wheelan and O'Hara also played well in defence, with the latter making quick breaks up the pool. Quittner and Jakeman, both newcomers to the sport did exceptionally well; Quittner in the goal and Jakeman on the field where his normal hard shooting and long passing made itself felt.

Cahill, Morris and Oxborrow, also newcomers, showed up well, while Oxborrow, slightly faster than the other two, has already shown success in ball handling and shooting.

Much of the success of the Third Grade is due to regular training on Saturday mornings, to which members of the team have given up a good deal of time. Special credit is due to Michael Smith and to Peter Bentivoglio, both of whom have given the team a lead in training and in games. The team owes a great debt also to "Bob" Vadas, an ex-captain of Sydney High 1st Grade Water Polo, who now plays for Bronte. He has given up a great deal of his time to coaching the team and his teaching has been invaluable.

BASKETBALL FIRST GRADE

Team: V. Cooney (capt.), E. Lee, N. Stamell, R. Dalziel, P. Snelling, J. Williams, R. Furness.

Coach: Mr. C. M. Palaje.

When the basketball competition commenced, the first grade set out to try for a win no matter what the risks. Their attitude was highlighted by a surprising tone of optimism, considering that they seemed less promising than the team that failed the previous year. The main assets of the team were Ron Furness, lanky but inexperienced Bob Dalziel, and dynamic Van Cooney. The team drew first blood by beating Randwick High and then proceeded in unbelievably bold fashion to defeat team after team. With only a few matches left to play, our first graders have lost only one—to the superbly coached Fort Street High team. Their morale has reached a new peak and in their present form they could conceivably win the first grade pennant.

FIRST GRADE. Back Row: N. Stamell, R. Dalziel, P. Snelling, J. Williams. Front Row: E. Lee, V. Cooney, R. Furness.

SECOND GRADE. Back Row: P. Dawson, D. Byrd, M. Ritchie, M. Morozov, C. Dawson, L. Rivkin. Front Row: J. Leung, P. Gillies, Mr. C. Palaje, S. Woods, P. Lum. 138

Team: C. Dawson, P. Dawson (co-captains), D. Byrd, P. Lum, M. Morozov, M. Ritchie, L. Rivkin, S. Woods.

Coach: Mr. C. M. Palaje.

The second grade, which was the same team as won last year's third grade competition, had their confidence shaken somewhat when they went down in their first match against Randwick High. They came back with vengeance, however, and, under inspired coaching by Ron Furness, won all their subsequent matches convincingly. It would seem even at this stage that they have the second grade pennant practically in their keeping. They are an impressive team, well balanced in ability and splendidly co-ordinated. The Dawson twins, Paul and Chris, form the spearhead of the team, while Woods, Lum and Rivkin provide steady and often brilliant support.

C. M. PALAJE.

THIRD GRADE

Team: G. Theodore (capt.), J. Adrian, P. Bowman, I. Law, C. Lewis, N. Lum, G. McKenna, J. Mock, H. Sacks.

FOURTH GRADE

Team: R. Furness (capt.), D. Cooney (vice-capt.), W. Evans, M. Georgorus, I. Hamblen, D. Joffe, C. Karaizis, W. Nathan, S. Reid.

Coaches: A. Dale and I. Ford.

The Third and Fourth Grade teams had mixed fortunes throughout the competition. At one stage they seemed to have a good chance of coming near the top, thanks mainly to sheer courage and aided by the fact that their fist few matches were against weaker teams. The Third Grade team had two tall players in Theodore and Lewis but often displayed poor team work. The Fourth Grade team was a dynamic group of shorter boys who all seemed a lot bigger than they were; for, when they played, the dedication and heart they put into their games stamped them as the better team no matter what the result might be. Although they did not win the pennant, their performance did not go unnoticed, for Cooney, Furness, Hamblen, Karaizis and Evans gained selection into the Sydney Zone team. Evans was particularly brilliant and seems capable of further improvement.

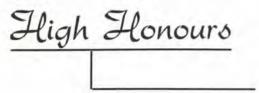

A lot of the achievement of the Junior teams should be credited to Andrew Dale and Ian Ford for their unstinting efforts in coaching and inspiring the teams. A few parents too, like Mr. and Mrs. Furness and Mrs. Hamblen, often accompanied the teams to lend moral support.

On the whole, the boys are looking forward to greater success in Basketball during the next school year.

- SIR HOWARD BEALE

Sir Howard Beale, one of the School's most prominent Old Boys, has had an outstanding career in his chosen vocation of politics and international affairs. Working his way through Parliament and Federal Cabinet to a position as Australia's Ambassador to the U.S.A., our most important overseas post, Sir Howard has demonstrated how hard work can reap rewards. Indeed, he has succeeded to a degree few men can claim to have done.

Sir Howard was born in 1898, son of a Methodist minister, and came to S.H.S. where his brother had been before him. In those days education was not as easily attainable as it is today — indeed, parents had to make many sacrifices to send their children to a high school. Nowadays, Sir Howard thinks, people do not value their education to such an extent because they do not have to work so hard to get it.

Dominating all his memories of the School at its Mary Anne St. site was the Headmaster, Mr. John Waterhouse. "With his white flowing moustache," says Sir Howard, "he had an unmistakable air of authority.

SIR HOWARD BEALE.

Although he did not even raise his voice, when he spoke one knew immediately who was the Headmaster."

His school career (1914-18) was quite successful. Although unhappy at the start of his schooling, due to the strangeness of his surroundings, he soon settled in and began posing the same disciplinary problems to his masters as schoolboys do today. Eventually he became a prefect and editor of "The Record". Towards the end

THE "RECORD" hopes in the next few issues to strengthen the links with the past by giving present students glimpses of what has been achieved by those who sat at the same desks a few years ago. Wherever possible, outstanding Old Boys will be interviewed by members of the Editorial Staff and a survey of their careers together with some of their views and their recollections of their old school will be brought to the readers of this journal. of his course he had a literary bent; "Writing", as ne puts it, "bad poetry of the School Journal". Even now he derives pleasure from looking back on his schooldays.

In sport he participated in a great deal of swimming, cricket, and tennis ("I was too light and skinny for football"), before suffering an attack of rheumatic fever half-way through his schooling. He regards sport as being a necessity for a schoolboy, teaching as it does the ability to live with one's fellow beings, to take knocks and setbacks, and to give and take. Debating and the ability to express oneself he regards as being of supreme importance. He is depressed by the inarticulateness of the average Australian schoolboy. This is a situation which he feels should be remedied.

He does not really know what made him take up law and politics. After gaining a B.A. degree he decided to become an advocate, and therefore took his LL.B. course. Years later his imagination was caught by the political philosophy of the Liberal Party, at that stage being formed from the United Australia Party by Mr. Menzies. He was elected to Parliament for the seat of Parramatta, becoming eventually a senior minister after a varied and successful Cabinet career. He is justly proud of these latter two phases of his career, deriving enjoyment, excitement and a great satisfaction, firstly from having represented his clients in the courts and later from having fought for the rights of the people in Parliament.

He has spent the last six years as our Ambassador in the U.S., amongst other things, developing and improving the Australian image there. "In the U.S.A.," Sir Howard states, "Australians are regarded as a self-reliant people who are shouldering their responsibilities. They are fresh, young, and although perhaps a little casual in manners and oversensitive to criticism, these are the marks of a young country and will be worked out."

Of the School and schooling system in general as it is today, Sir Howard feels too much emphasis is placed on the technical aspects of life. The idea of education is to turn one into a thoughtful human being, not only a storehouse of technical knowledge. He hopes that there will not be an abandonment of literature and the classics for science, pointing out that a knowledge of the history of one's fellowman, and a wide humanist approach to life are more important in the school than what science has to offer at this stage of a boy's life.

Sydney High gave him a great deal, as it can give all its students. It has a wonderful tradition, and the best of facilities. However, if any boy really wishes to make a niche for himself in life, Sir Howard feels that he must have the capacity for really hard work and thoroughness and must be willing to persevere the slow and hard way. "Genius is no substitute for it", he says, "as genius is after all only the capacity for infinite pains. Really to succeed, a boy must be known for his dependability, for it is this which is the foundation of genuine character, and therefore the key to greatness."

High Honours

____ SIR JOHN GRENFELL CRAWFORD, C.B.E.

It is appropriate that Sir John Crawford should be chosen as one of the first in this series on notable Old Boys of Sydney High. Not only has his academic record been outstanding; but in his public service career he has displayed the qualities and abilities which have helped to set the standard the community has come to expect from a Sydney High School boy.

He is a Master of Economics of Sydney University and has had a distinguished career as lecturer, economic adviser, author and top ranking public servant. At present Sir John is Director of the Research School of Pacific Studies at the Australian National University.

SIR J. CRAWFORD.

Born in 1910 at Hurstville in Sydney, he was enrolled at the then Mary Anne Street premises of the school in 1923. Needing to find work he left school at the end of his fourth vear to work in a city bank. However, in June of the following year 1927 he returned to 'High and sat for the Leaving Certificate. On the result of this examination, having gained "Honours" in History, he won a coveted University Exhibition and a State Bursary, which enabled him to attend night classes at Sydney University.

One of the most vivid memories Sir John has of his high school days is of the wonderful location of the old Mary Anne Street school. "Part of my education and the education of many others was a walk through Paddy's Markets each morning," Sir John recalls. "We would meet people and see things we wouldn't otherwise see in the suburbs. We had a wonderful feeling of being very much together in a very small school, in a very small asphalt playground. It was so pokey, so small that we were forced to live together and get to know one another. This was really the only advantage the Mary Anne Street school had apart from the excellent teaching staff."

Sir John admits that his sporting life at school was not far above average, but he emphasises the fact that the school athlete or cricketer of his day, didn't take himself too seriously. Enjoyment rather than competition he feels encouraged a greater appreciation of sport then. "My training for the 'mile event', said Sir John, consisted of a run at Glebe Oval once a fortnight."

While at High, Sir John was an active member of the school debating team, which was G.P.S. runner-up in 1927 and was Editor of "The Record" in his final year.

In an interview he outlined the effect his life at 'High had on his career and showed how the principles and standards which have guided him, were in no small measure formed at the school. He remembers always wanting to do well like any other boy and being resolved to have a university training, an aim that required much greater determination in his day.

From Sydney University Sir John's career led him to a term of high school teaching (practice teaching at 'High) and then to a lectureship in Rural Economics at Sydney University from 1934 to 1941. From 1935 to 1946 he was Economic Adviser to the Rural Bank and in 1943 he was appointed Director of Research in the Commonwealth Ministry of Post War Reconstruction. In 1946 he assumed a similar position in the Commonwealth Bureau of Agricultural Economics. However, a pinnacle in Sir John's career was reached when he became Secretary of the Commonwealth Department of Trade in 1956. In this position he played a leading role in negotiations with member countries of G.A.T.T., helped to negotiate the agreement with the United Kingdom and the Trade Treaty with Japan. He was knighted by the Queen in 1959.

Sir John's interest in developing Australian relations with Asian countries led him back to university in 1960. In that year he took up an appointment as Director of the Research School of Pacific Studies at the National University. The various departments of the school such as anthropology, geography, economics, international relations and far eastern history deal with the growth problems past and present of primitive Asian economies. Understanding is further promoted by a post-graduate Scholarship Scheme by which the University is trying to develop the scope for advanced Asians to study here.

Sir John Crawford is a man who throughout his life has gone a long way in fulfilling his boyhood aims — to help his country and his people. Yet in no sense has his regard for or his pride in his school diminished. When asked if he had some message for the boys of the school, his first consideration was pride in the school. "Be proud of your school, because you have a school to be proud of. Take seriously the traditions you are building up because they are very important for the boys yet to come."

He went on to impress that as we prepare for our academic life we should not exclude everything else. "I think boys in the final year just have to work very hard, there's no alternative — but up to that point I hope that won't be discouraged from being reasonably good footballers or athletes, even if they're only playing in the class teams."

"As one of the Old Boys", said Sir John, "the older I get the more proud I become of my school — you just never forget your school."

(Sir John Crawford was interviewed by D. H. Freeman, 5A.)

JOHN THORNETT

John Thornett is one of the most distinguished sportsmen produced by Sydney High. John began playing First Grade Rugby Union in 1953 and took part in his first international match in 1955. Since then he has amassed a record number of nine overseas tours, captaining the team on three of these. John is also a highly successful engineer serving with the P.M.G.

John was born on the 30th March, 1935, at Sydney. He is the eldest of three brothers, all keen footballers, and comes from an outstanding sporting family. He came to S.H.S. in 1947 and capped a very successful scholastic and sporting career by being appointed School Captain in 1951. Up to this time he held the S.H.S. Under 13, 14, 15 and 16 Breaststroke records, and in football had played in the 1950 First XV (C.H.S. Premiers) as a breakaway. In 1951 he captained the First XV. In the same year he was selected for the G.P.S. First XV and rowed number 5 in the Eight.

High Honours

JOHN THORNETT.

One of John's most vivid memories of the school was of the Headmaster at the time, Mr. Killip, whom he described as: "A small, slight chap, who had a tremendously strong character and commanded respect and discipline, merely by his presence." He also commented that Mr. Killip was a keen follower of football and his presence at the football matches could always be detected by the smell of his cigar.

As School Captain he had to shoulder many responsibilities: one of the more onerous of these was the making of speeches, which, he says, he always dreaded. Looking back, he now considers training in public speaking a necessary part of education and he deplores the apathy towards debating shown by most boys; he would welcome greater opportunities for schoolboys to speak before an audience.

At school John was not only a good sportsman but also an excellent scholar, passing the Leaving Certificate with two first class honours and four "A"s. John is a very good example of how sport and studies can be balanced successfully. He emphasizes that this can be achieved and warns against allowing sport to become an excuse for not studying.

On leaving S.H.S. John attended Sydney University, studying Science and Engineering. He graduated with a B.Sc. and B.Eng. While at the University he played Union and was associated with three premiership sides, 1953-55. In 1954 he was selected in the Australian Universities side to play New Zealand. He also toured Japan with this side in 1956. In 1955 he made his first overseas tour with the Wallabies to New Zealand.

Upon leaving University he joined Northern Suburbs and since then has been associated with three of their premiership sides (1960, 1963 and 1964). John commenced his grade football as a breakaway, then moved to the second row and now plays front row. He is a powerful forward but not a fiery type. Thus it was sometime before he was recognised, although he was outstanding in lineouts and hard rucking forward play. He has appeared against the Springboks, the British Lions, the All Blacks, France and Fiji. He has been captain of three teams; 1962 and 1964 against New Zealand and 1963 against South Africa.

On the field, John is regarded as one of the greatest touring captains and is renowned for his fair and clean yet hard play. Off the field he is a quietly spoken and modest man, never offering excuses for defeat nor taking great credit for a win. In his own words: "You have to learn to take defeats gracefully and win properly." He added that every Australian sportsman who travels overseas should strive to be an ambassador for his country. He himself is regarded by the teams against whom he has played as one of the true gentlemen of football and a great representative for Australia. (Mr. John Thornett was interviewed by I. Walsh, 4A, and S. Wood, 4A.)

SUMMER HOLIDAYS. Painted by K. Berg, 3A.

MONDAYS

Monday is a cancerous growth.

Unlike cholera or malnutrition Monday is a democratic disease, striking all, irrespective of social position. The labourer shuffles to work, supported in his hour of need by the fraternity of the government bus, still damp from Friday, Saturday (and if he has access to a Labour Club) Sunday evening. His ears are still ringing with Saturday's tragic deficit, used skilfully by his spouse as the theme for Sunday's amiable conversation.

Gliding by, or very nearly over our friend, in his credit car, the executive, evil by-product of capitalism, is also reaping his harvest. Despite his outward polish he feels as though he is still leaning patiently at the vice-president's cabin party, quietly, obediently, turning the bottom of his stomach into a cocktail shaker. His early Sunday morning round of golf might have been gay and different at the time but the new costing clerk will share its gaiety this morning.

Even school boys, depending on their interests, may find that Monday is what Sunday might have been. Social pressure has brought upon them two, sometimes three, Saturday nights. Their effect varies with the mean distance between their own house, seldom frequented, and that of their prospective mothers-in-law.

If physical exertion is impossible then the patient must try to occupy his mind. This can be done in many elevating ways. Firstly one can think on the happier events of the past two days. If this runs to remorse, the coming weekend, though veiled by four days, can be carefully planned out. For this reason Monday can occasionally be lifted from its normal trough.

Though not a cure, the best prescription for relief can be found in most bathroom cupboards. Taken early and followed by several hours "in conference" behind a locked office door or resting behind a suitably large automatic machine, the individual may brace himself for the week of recovery.

The problem is universal, depending only on the form of calendar. There may only be one solution. Yet I feel that the creation of a public holiday on Monday would have little effect.

THE ONLY WAY

"De Communists come, quick, Master, quick!" said Ho-Jung, my little Chinese servant boy, jumping up and down excitedly.

He was right; from the bedroom window I could see a hill swarming with many little figures, like an ants' hill before rain. I had been running my one-man British Agency near the Communist border. I used to try to cater for the many and varied needs of the Chinese workers.

"We have no time to lose," I said anxiously. "We must be off at once! Quick Ho-Jung my papers!"

Poor Ho-Jung, frantic and scared, rushed to my desk on the other side of the room.

"Remember, the third drawer," I reminded him,

Ho-Jung's mind was confused and he dithered at the desk for a long time. I became very impatient and by the time Ho-Jung emerged from behind the desk with a bundle of papers I was thoroughly scared.

"Give them to me, quickly," I said as he ran towards me.

I looked out the window to see the filthy street crowded with Chinese of all sizes. Like a herd of animals they were rushing aimlessly through the streets. Already it was too late.

"This way Master, this way," should Ho-Jung, already half way down the stairs. I followed blindly, not knowing what I could possibly do. Ho-Jung led the way along a narrow alley and stopped beside a small iron grill. "Down here Master," he said, pointing to the hole.

"But that's the sewer!" I protested.

He shrugged his shoulders and looked despondently at me.

Reluctantly I gave in, for, although it was hardly in keeping with my dignity, I could see no other way to go. Ho-Jung pulled energetically at the iron grill but could only raise it a few inches; however, our combined efforts cleared the entrance. I took one look into the darkness of the repulsive hole and decided to take my chances up above.

Ho-Jung tapped my shoulder. Angrily I turned around and said: "What is it now?"

He indicated a bottle with a candle stuffed in it which some fleeing Chinaman had left behind.

"How do you light it?" I asked, as if in a trance.

He fumbled around in his clothes producing a small dirty box. "Machees." he said.

"Not 'machees', matches," I corrected.

Ho-Jung had always been fascinated by matches, he used to collect bundles of them and strike each one just to see the "magic fire". He watched me light the candle and was simply amazed, as usual, that the flame did not go out. Ho-Jung, proudly holding the candle, went down first. I followed rather shyly, and, with some difficulty we replaced the iron grill.

THE ACCIDENT

It dawned on him slowly that someone wasn't hitting him regularly on the head with a baseball bat but that it was only a dull painful throbbing. The mist before his eyes cleared gradually and he looked about him. Something about the outline of the car smouldering in the long grass at the bottom of the ditch seemed familiar.

Suddenly it struck him. It was his car; but where was the back of it? It was as if some giant hand had ripped the car in two and hurled the halves away in disgust. His mind became clearer as he recollected more. Those two beams of light; they had come straight at him. Instinctively he had swerved, and then had come the sickening crunch of steel and the searing flash of pain. Yes, he had actually screamed . . .

But what was he doing here, sitting on a bank some forty feet from the wreckage, thinking in a detached sort of way about what had happened? Why wasn't he still near the remains of the car or perhaps lying pinned inside?

Meanwhile a car had driven up and its occupants scrambled out to investigate the wreckage. Apparently just a passer-by. One of the men immediately returned to the car and tore off; he would be going for the police, of course, and an ambulance. He was glad the other three had remained. Surely they had noticed him by now. Why didn't they help him? He shouted out but the two men and a woman seemed to take no notice. Were they mad? Did they not see the pain he was in?

His amazement grew. What pain? He could feel no pain now. Nothing at all. He could feel nothing at all. Just then, with a scream of sirens, an ambulance arrived, followed closely by the police. Now he must be seen and rescued! With an effort he staggered to his feet but still they did not see him although he was sure one was looking directly at him. He stumbled and fell, right in the midst of the group who were now examining the wreckage.

He reached out his hand to grasp one of them when, to his horror and amazement, his hand went straight through a policeman's. A horrible thought came to him and slowly he realised what was wrong. They would never see him now, never again. They would find a body in the car and, in a way, it would be his, because, you see, he was dead.

WINTER

I sat in my shanty and looked with a sigh, Nothing was near but the grey of the sky. The mist on the mountains, the dew on the plain All I could hear was the torrential rain.

KIM HOWLAND, 1A.

TO SERVE, TO STRIVE and NOT TO YIELD!

In August, 1963, one of my friends and I received an offer by Randwick Lions Club to be sponsored on a course at the Australian Outward Bound School at Fisherman's Point on the Hawkesbury River. Consequently we attended the course which lasted from 26th November to 20th December. During the months after we were informed of our nomination, many questions and sometimes doubts came to our minds; however, many of these were answered upon our arrival, and the rest through the course.

We learnt that the Outward Bound Movement originated in England in 1941. A Sea School was established by Kurt Hahn, Headmaster of Gordenstoun, and Lawrence Holt of the Blue Funnel Line to equip boys between the ages of sixteen and nineteen to cope with the hazards of life and become active citizens. These courses, similar to the one which we attended, offered training in seamanship, athletics and cross-country expeditions, in which strict discipline prevailed. The accent was on living for a month with a community of boys from different walks of life.

The training was severe, but, I feel, not outside the capabilities of a normal, healthy boy. The discipline was strict, but we found that it was mainly self-discipline, aimed at making us overcome our weaknesses. To achieve these aims, the programme was arranged so that different problems and difficulties were faced by the group collectively, and by each one of us as individuals. According to the way we coped with those hazards and emergencies, a report was sent to our sponsors by the Warden of the school, Mr. David Floyd. To illustrate the means used, a brief summary of my month at "O.B." would perhaps be necessary.

On the first day we were divided into four patrols of eleven or twelve boys, under the guidance of a patrol instructor. The first two days were devoted to settling into the new environment and several introductory lectures. Each day we rose at 6 a.m., practised the 5 BX plan of exercises and had a half-mile run followed by a cold shower or swim. Each patrol had a series of jobs to do, according to which points were given according to a system so that team spirit would be stimulated. The day was then arranged in six periods. These periods dealt with all the skills which we would need on an expedition. The lectures were over a wide variety of subjects: first aid, fire-fighting, bush rescue (with practical experience), knotting and mapping. Outdoor activities included rock-climbing, seamanship, an obstacle course, and a ropes course.

All these activities built us up both physically and mentally so that we became proficient bushmen. The true tests came in the three expeditions which we undertook. The first was of short distance and introduced the bush to those who had had no previous experience in the open. The second expedition served a practical purpose for future "graduates". Different methods were tried and new rockclimbing and hiking areas were discovered and mapped. The one which I took consisted of a thirty-mile hike to Wiseman's Ferry and rowing back twenty-five miles to the school in ten-foot dinghies. The last expedition was a three-day self-reliance test called "Fair Dinkum". In addition we sat for a written examination paper.

Public service also formed part of the course. The patrols were sent to clear the historic cemetery on nearby Bar Island and our patrol had to look after a group of orphans who visited the school one Sunday.

At the end of the course we were invited to accept the "Blue Peter" badge of the Outward Bound Movement, provided that we thought we had lived up to the training conditions and ideals of the school during our twenty-six-day stay. This badge symbolises the fact that the graduate is now "outward bound" and prepared to face life, with all its difficulties in its true perspective.

The Outward Bound Movement brought out various qualities: the will to succeed; a sense of service and an understanding and tolerance of others; initiative, responsibility, self confidence and, above all, self discipline. This can be summarised in the school motto: "To serve, to strive, and not to yield."

DESTINY

Lashing foam whips the shore

And spews forth spray in savage life.

Snow-white sand, pure and clean, becomes a sharp stinging barrage which tears at

My eyes and burns the very flesh from my bones;

The wind-whipped sand claws at me,

And clutches

Yet I struggle on, dragged by a Force unknown.

The wind, with violent strength plucks at my clothes, and tries to halt me,

But in vain.

I fight against it, this hellish Force which drags me on -

To what?

My allies are too weak — natural powers are overwhelmed, Beaten.

And hopelessly the furious blast is allayed,

Calmness once more descends,

Yet still I stagger on, and stumble, shivering, in horror at my unknown Fate.

For ahead of me, the beach stretches into infinity, obscured Only by distance.

And I, like it, must move forward,

Ever forward,

Into oblivion.

WINTER

It envelops us with a mantle of cold and discomfort; with hues drab and drear. It is disliked by people and animals who cringe and shiver beneath its bleak cloak and long for the warmth of the golden summer.

Discomfort everywhere, and lifelessness. Sickness strikes far more than in summer; with it there comes a withdrawal of the natural urge to express and create. The sea acquires a dull greyness, the grass is no longer fresh and green and trees are stripped to bare branches and twigs.

But however dull these outward signs appear, they are only a mask covering the true role of winter: for it is giving the earth a chance to rest from long months of production and growth. Without this period of rest the earth would surely be drained of its natural resources and soon cease to produce. People, who still have to live, are affected by the briskness in the air that winter brings and react accordingly. They find that heavier foods are needed to thicken the blood and store up energy required when the season changes and the hot sun saps up that energy.

So we have winter, as it appears and as it really is — a most uninteresting, colourless period but still playing its inevitable part as together with its sister seasons it takes its rightful place in the year's cycle.

AWAKENING

The glowing red, heat-fired clay ball

Slowly lifts, and the pale dawn sky is washed with violent garish colours.

The sliver of light on the smooth clear sea-surface is gently spread As the vivid fire-ball climbs,

And pours forth its rays like a healing balm, an ointment On the wounds of dark and cold.

The sea is changed, its mirrored surface split into a million sparkling gems,

Diamonds flashing and gleaming and twisting and turning The land was still and peaceful.

But now rhythmic ripplings of the leafy fronds bring life Into what was dead.

A myriad lifeless things are reborn;

Birds fly again, marking the turquoise heavens

With dark unwanted streaks

Like footsteps in the virgin sand.

Life begins anew.

T. HUXLEY, 4A.

A DAY SUCH AS THIS

It was the type of morning that made you feel completely satisfied with life. The bluest of blue skies would not allow one single cloud to blur its perfection. The terrace houses, with their gay window boxes sunning themselves, warmed their yellow sandstone walls. Canaries and budgerigars sang in sheer delight. In fact, the sun and the breathless day seemed to create an atmosphere of peaceful contentment.

Micky was happy too. As he skipped down the street, his dark curly hair bobbed merrily about. The six-year-old boy, clad in shabby denim jeans and a gaily coloured shirt, was on his way to the corner shop to buy some milk for his mother.

It was only a short walk, but Micky liked to stop every now and then to watch the ever-changing scene. He came to Mr. Deacon at work; he found great delight in switching the electric cutter on and off. But remembering that he had a message to do, Micky, with a cheery goodbye, went on his way.

The busy intersection lay ahead. Before pushing the pedestrian button, the boy stood and watched the cars, trucks and buses whizz past. It was exciting to think that he, Micky, could stop all those huge motor vehicles just with his little finger.

In the corner shop Mrs. Manchaser served him and conveyed her regards to Micky's mother. The little boy left the shop gripping the milk bottle tightly with his grubby little hands. It felt so lovely and cold against his brown arms.

Walking homewards, Micky did not hurry as before: he knew what Mummy would say if the bottle broke.

Passing a little house, bedecked with pot plants, Micky saw a little white kitten emerge. She was beautiful in Micky's eyes as she sat in the sun washing herself with a little pink tongue. Calling to her softly, the child approached. Perhaps because of the milk, or perhaps because the kitten saw Micky's kind face, she came to him. Oh my, how soft she was! Her rough tongue began to work rhythmically on his arm. But just then the kitten turned away. Micky's angelic little face was concerned. He had not hurt her. Why would she want to go away?

Suddenly the kitten stepped out onto the road. Micky called and called her — in vain. She went walking on.

At that moment the intersection lights changed and vehicles roared off. Frightened, the kitten ran, but the driver saw the kitten too late. Micky heard brakes screech to a stop. A man swore. An old lady gave a cry. Then for a moment there was silence. But only for a moment — enough time for the cars to start up again. Engines roared as they leapt to life once more. Micky was penic stricken and dropped the bottle.

Soon the few witnesses of the accident dispersed and only Micky was left.

He knelt over her and lovingly patted her snowy white head. He could see the tip of her tiny pink tongue and remembered: only a few minutes previously she had been alive; now there was only a matted, discarded piece of fur. Tears came into his eyes as he knelt beside the dear little kitten. Then Micky sobbed bitterly.

The milk swirled around in the gutter, making patterns with the blood. The cars roared by. The walls of the tenement buildings and the pavements grew warmer. The potted flowers lapped up more sunshine. And the birds whistled in delight at being alive on such a day as this.

CULTURE FOR THE PEASANTS

You've got to have culture, you people down under, That's what they told us a decade ago, We'll see you have culture, you peasants, they thunder, The Tiv. and the Stadium aren't smart you know.

We'll give you Aida, not Beatles nor Garland, Away with the telly and all things bourgeois, It's Wagner... the classics... a must for our land, And so for good voters... a Palace of Opera.

The design was most pleasing — white sails as a landmark, The cost of this project will not be too great, So said Joern Utzon the designer from Denmark, Dig deep in your wallets as you rise to the bait.

They set the first brick to the seat of our culture, We watched and we listened to planners galore, Our money was gobbled as by a great vulture, And they told us to fork out a few million more.

We paid up the money, cos we wanted that building, We must hear our Joan before she is infirm, But the hammer and sickle in strikes they kept wielding, And we still must make do with our records by Kern.

Time marches on and the cost still keeps rising, They alter the roof — is the stage right for ballet? The long hairs protest. Is it so surprising When some joker suggests: let's make it an Alley?

We are sad, we grow angry and write to our papers, Impatient for artists whom we can applaud, An end to this folly! An end to these capers! Or else t'will be cheaper to see opera abroad.

STUDENTS' PLIGHT

Maths is a problem - I'm slaving away. Waiting hours for the end of the day. Nine wrong out of ten, such a miserable feat: In the last sum I copied, I just had to cheat. If this goes much longer I'll feel I'm in hell. At last! Relief! Saved by the bell! "What's this period?" to a friend I was chattin'. "Oh horror," he said, "forty minutes of Latin." Latin I hated, got nought at my best. Disliking declensions, those verbs and the rest. A previous term test had driven me nuts, Because I had cheated and thus got the cuts. The teacher now entered with a large boom. And suddenly, dead silence fell over the room. He started to talk and we started to vap. And a few in the corner found time for a nap. As the minutes dragged on, the teacher made mention Of the endings of nouns in the second declension. At the end of the period pandemonium broke out, Everyone started to scream and to shout. We took all the words of the teacher in jest: "On Friday there will be another term test On the nouns and endings of the second declension. Meanwhile, tomorrow you're all on detention." But being last period and with a great shout. The class had ignored him - they'd all cleared out.

STORM

A serene moon shines Through sheets of fine clear rain But lonely eerie breezes Bring ominous clouds to reign.

A gale approaches hard and strong As rain belts fiercely down, And now as in a blizzard Snow flakes to the ground.

Wind whistles wildly, Hailstones hit the land, And now the river has broken its banks — 'Tis truly a flooded land.

THE ENTERTAINER

The audience applauded as Jason Lovelace stepped forward onto the stage and started to sing. It wasn't singing, it was yelling; but the audience loved it. Jason, dressed in a silver-coloured suit, strummed his guitar as he rocked and rolled from side to side. His hair was styled in "Beatle" fashion and his face showed signs of sweat. He started to sing and twist in pagan-like gyrations; the audience stamped and screamed in a barbaric frenzy. Jason, the greatest star since Elvis Presley, smiled wryly and continued with his song. He was used to this scene of idolism and then suddenly a tremendous roar arose from the audience, like the screams of men being mercilessly tortured. Jason had finished his song.

RON WISEMAN, 3A.

WHY NOT LEAVE THE MOON ALONE?

Man has always been fascinated by the moon.

Our nearest neighbour has captured man's imagination ever since he has been able to look up, or venture out of his cave at night. It has inspired worship of its varied shape that baffled the ancient astronomers, made possible an accurate calendar through its ceaseless regularity, and has been a boon to romantic poets, and a curse to thieves and, more laterly, prowlers. So even today, stripped of its divinity and deprived of its mental powers, it influences our daily life.

At a tender and impressionable age its importance is stressed by its presence in nursery rhymes (despite the objections of scientists) and, we are told, its composition is of a certain variety of cheese. Yet now children are denied even these pleasures since they cannot help but overhear on the way to kindergarten that America's latest "Ranger" probe has transmitted photographs confirming the presence of a layer of fine dust on the moon's surface. Our now dusty, pock-marked and, of late, much battered moon can hardly hope to retain its romantic image. Nor can it be expected to inspire young couples on a clear summer's night along some lonely lane.

This has all been sacrificed to what we are told is progress, resulting from man's insatiable curiosity to explore the unknown, reach the unreachable, and touch the forbidden. Having attempted to solve his domestic problems, man, apparently satisfied with his results had decided to allow the moon to benefit from his limitless potential. With atomic stockpiles (we are reassuringly told), now at a level to obliterate both the victor and the vanquished, taxation must be turned to another equally beneficial use. Our scientists are quick to find a solution and decide triumphantly that man should be landed on the moon before 1970 (or else another certain party may achieve this first). Thus billions of dollars and roubles are happily poured into parallel research programmes annually. Two vast scientific complexes are working against one another to achieve the same goal. Not to be outdone the European powers have buried their traditional grievances in order to join in this most costly of ventures, the returns from which will be negligible if not non-existent.

There are no means of extracting any possible mineral deposits and returning them to earth on a competitive basis. Therefore the sole previous gain thought to be possible is nullified. It will provide an excellent astronomical platform for observations but, unfortunately at tremendous cost. The moon's most probable use will be as a new and vastly improved invulnerable and wonderfully permanent platform from which to launch earth-bound missiles. The moon will cease to be a romantic object but will instead become source of fear and tension. Perhaps man in his wisdom would destroy the moon should it become a military weapon? He is certainly willing to destroy the earth.

Why not leave the moon alone?

TO KILL TAKES SKILL

From Harry Bronson's world-acclaimed murder advisory "Cut-throat".

"..., in plotting a murder, one must not overlook the weapon.

"As I have had past experience in this type of thing, I would like to give some useful advice on choosing a weapon. It must be chosen, so as to fully suit the job it is to do.

"Of course, the inexperienced choose a pistol at blank range, without thinking of the mess to be cleaned up afterwards. Then again, we find that those who think themselves extremely cunning and intelligent, choose poison. I personally, would never think of using poison, as it is too quiet and the delight of seeing the victim in agony is lost. A very impressive idea, cleverly thought up by my grandson, is to place a scorpion in one's bed beneath one's blankets ..., no doubt a most promising result. For untalented offenders, a knife is an extreme necessity when in a predicament. Remember always to plunge the knife into the victim's temple ..., so as to ensure a more precise kill.

"After much consideration, however, I decided that the weapon of my choice should be a piece of string. A very good choice, if I may say so, as it can be concealed so neatly and compactly. Once around the victim's throat, there is no escape . . . so during the operation it is quite safe to call the undertaker."

EXAMINATIONS

Over the microphone the order comes for the candidates to start their examination. The silence which had settled on the large hall is broken by the rustle of paper, the clicking of pens and pencils against rulers, and the movement of one hundred and fifty boys preparing to write. Once again the hall is quiet, but there is ever the underlying feeling of movement, of turning pages, speeding pens and flowing ink, and the occasional furtive glance at the clock which marks the passing minutes.

The words, letters, numbers, and thoughts which they hurriedly scrawl on their papers are soon to be examined by a distant critic to whom they are merely another number, an unknown, among the thousands of other candidates who simultaneously move their pens across the white sheets.

The results are arrived at, the candidate who has too often been right on "7" is judged by these machine-like examiners and found wanting. His more industrious colleagues have gained a measure of success. Some as much as they hoped for; others see their hopes disappear as two or three marks close the door to the path they wished to travel.

But not only will the lazy students fail; others will become so tense and nervous at the thought of the examinations and its subsequent bearing on their lives that they will be unable to do as well as they should. This examination system is hardly fair to the few highly-strung students who are not given the chance to prove themselves that the less fearful candidate has.

The result of the three, five or twelve random questions may not allow one student to give a true indication of his worth, while his fellow, who has trusted to luck, may see his predictions laid out on the paper before him, and will do well more from chance than knowledge.

A system of testing to do away with these problems is hard to find and would be very much harder to apply. Under the present system those few who are lucky or unfortunate make up only a very small number of the thousands who sit for the papers. So all must sit in the room, working on the paper which will show their knowledge, and will have a direct bearing on their future.

And so the red second hand sweeps round and round, and time slips away unnoticed. The last few minutes find the candidates scribbling hurriedly to finish their question, while others sit back, confident of the result. The examination is over. The students pour out into the sunshine, some elated, others depressed, all relieved that this test is over.

But what they have just written is more than a simple test; they have been writing their destinies.

LIBERTY

Liberty has come down the long ages of man's history like a blood-red banner. It has inspired the noblest actions of the noblest men. It has rung out like a trumpet in the oratory of democratic statesmen and religious reformers.

History shows that it has sent millions of men to their deaths in the struggle for freedom,

We think that men living in democratic countries are free; and so in many ways they are.

There is such a thing as tyranny, such a thing as oppression, such a thing as cruelty; but is there such a thing as liberty? This great globe on which we journey round the sun certainly knows nothing of liberty; it is a prisoner of natural law; its high mountains are slaves, its round ocean is a vassal, its trees, flowers, bushes and soil are so many menials bound to do what nature tells them. There is no liberty on the Earth, and none in the physical universe. How, then, is man a free agent?

Indeed, how, did the idea of liberty come to man? If there is no such thing, how did man imagine it? What a strange animal is man, if he can imagine a thing which has no existence, a thing utterly impossible, and therefore surely inconceivable; if he can not only conceive of it but can inscribe it on his banners, sing of it, fight for it, die for it, and insist that without liberty life is not worth living?

It is true that man, as an animal, can never be free. His body is as much a prisoner of natural law as the tides of the ocean or the phenomena called night and day. He cannot say, "I will live without breathing". He cannot say, "I will grow strong by sitting still", or "I will grow fat by eating snow". He must obey natural law or he may die. Man is mind, and it is in the mind that we must look for the meaning of liberty. Outside mind there is no such thing; but in mind liberty is the very breath of existence.

A vigorous thinker has said that the French notion of liberty is political equality, and the English notion is personal independence.

The Frenchman is content with a liberty which leaves him free to cast an equal vote with all his contemporaries at a General Election, and to live his life free from the interference of political supervisors.

But even the Englishman cannot be politically free, Every individual must submit himself to the ordinances of the community. He may dislike paying rates and taxes, but the demands for rates and taxes must be met. He cannot be politically free; all he can do in that respect is to persuade a majority of the nation to enact laws, which he himself wishes, to govern the national life.

There is only one region in which liberty can be enjoyed, and that is in the mind. Man's thoughts can be free, and with his thoughts he may live in noble independence.

TREASURE

I lifted my pick and swung again . . . and again. It was hot down there in Australia's deepest gold mine. I took out my grimy handkerchief and mopped my brow. After shovelling some more ore I sat down and "took five".

I began to think of the poor existence of a gold miner: hard work, little pay, poor conditions and no bonuses of gold nuggets. But still, I liked it — why, I don't know.

After pulling myself wearily to my feet, I began working again . . . Suddenly my pick was deflected. I struck another blow. There was a clash of metal. I dropped my pick, and with a spade, I began digging feverishly. After scraping away the outside rock, I saw a large gold nugget — pure, gleaming gold. The nugget weighed pounds and, as I hobbled along the shaft, I watched with pride the envious faces. Gasps and shouts of "Gold" rang out as heads turned to look.

WHY?

"Why do we go to school?" I asked, With homework all around. My father stopped and looked at me, and smiled — And then he frowned. "Why do we go to school?" he cried; "For knowledge that all have sought! To study, learn, absorb and last Not least — to play your sport."

"But Dad," I said, "we work so hard At school and then at home, We study, swot, revise and cram (As I'm doing with this poem.) I wish we had more sport to play, No lessons to be learnt, Just think of all the fun we'd have, And books that could be burnt."

"You talk of school that way," said he. Again that smile, then frown — "I thought you had more sense by now, To learn your verbs and nouns," He looked at me, and I at him, And understanding flowed, For in that glance I realized, All that the future composed.

MORTAL CONFLICT

The reel whirred! After letting his quarry run the excited fisherman lent his whole weight to raising his rod quickly and very firmly, embedding his hook in the huge marlin's jaw. The fight was on!

The fish ran furiously, speeding away, stripping line from the reel; then doubling back, making the angler reel in line at high speed to avoid giving the fish slack. Now the marlin sounded, seeking peace and relief from pain in the quiet of the icy depths. However, the depths failed to give relief from the pain caused by the cruel hook embedded in its jaw. Then as if it sensed where the source of all its pain and troubles lay, the marlin charged the boat. At the last possible moment the huge fish turned at breakneck speed, its fin leaving a foaming wake behind it in the places where it had broken the surface. Again and again, the long, sleek body could be seen turning and swerving, the fin and tail churning up the water, to leave it white and choppy. Just as the speeding marlin began to dive once more it appeared as a shadowy shape, silhouetted against the blue water.

The fight was fast and furious! Both hunter and hunted were beginning to tire. But both fought on: the hunter for a fine prize and in this case, possibly a record; the hunted for peace, relief from pain and above all, for life itself. To the marlin it was indeed mortal conflict.

Now the marlin, with renewed vigour, came arrowing up from the icy depths once more. This time, on reaching the surface, it leaped. The huge fish soared upwards, until it appeared to be dancing on its tail, and all the while shaking its head from side to side in a desperate attempt to throw that cursed hook. As suddenly as it had appeared, the fish plunged back into the water. Not once or twice, did the marlin repeat this spectacular motion, but in all six times and each time the leap was as spectacular as the first.

The fisherman gasped inwardly as he gazed at this spectacle. The beauty and pathos of this scene, the fish driven by desperation and pain to fling itself from its natural element, made him feel ruthless and cold hearted. But there was little time to think, for the tempo of the conflict did not slacken.

After the last supreme effort, the marlin seemed to lose some of its spirit and also appeared to be tiring. Although tired himself the angler was now gradually gaining the upper hand in the fight. Soon all appeared finished, the marlin being brought closer and closer to the boat, and death.

Suddenly, when all seemed lost, the marlin gained spirit once more. It ran, jumped and after a jack-knife turn, charged the boat. The line went dead.

The fisherman cushioned his head in his arms, breathing hard. His prize had been so near. What had gone wrong? There was nothing left but the glow of the battle, that would linger in his memory for many years to come.

THE CONFLICT

Before I knew it, I was out in the arena for the first fight of the season.

The crowd roared.

There was I — in my toreador's uniform, facing the crowd . . . and the gate that the bull comes through.

"I can't turn back now," I thought to myself.

I bowed. The crowd roared again. The minutes passed like seconds and now the bull was out of its cage, charging. I focussed my eyes on the bull's horns. It came closer, closer. I dodged the horns with only inches to spare.

I was out of form.

I turned to face the bull once more. As the bull turned I felt a shiver run down my back, and my body tighten. This was bad. A bull-fighter must always keep relaxed.

"I have to kill the bull with these three spears in my hand" I thought, "before he kills me!"

It charged for the second time, luckily I managed to dodge the horns and sink a spear deep in the bull's back — I sighed with relief.

"Now I am ahead."

The next minute the bull was coming at me again. He was hurt — and extremely angry. Again I concentrated on the horns and just as I thought I had dodged the horns I heard a thud and felt the spear in the bull's back hit me on the forehead . . . then a sharp pain in my leg. I had been horned. Blood was pouring out of my calf. The pain grew worse when I fell in the dirt. I could only see the bull as a dark blur on the other side of the arena now.

The crowd was cheering.

I tried to get myself onto my feet. I heard the bull coming closer, I was still on my back. The blur was growing larger, larger, larger....

THE STORM

The sky was dark and overcast, Black nimbus clouds hung low, And with a mighty moaning blast The rain came flooding down so fast, Drenching the land below.

The vivid sheen of the lightning slash Which seared the dismal sky, Lit up the hills with a blinding flash Where echoed the thunder's rumbling crash As the storm went growling by.

DAY'S END

A gentle breeze creeps o'er a hill, Stirs a solitary tree Which stands before the sun silhouetted in black. The sun creeps lower and lower — till One can almost see It sinking into the rocky Razorback. Darkness falls, like a silken curtain Over the misty countryside, Catching and overtaking the fleeing day, Bringing the starfilled universe to view. Fleeting droplets of rain Come unnoticed to the land so wide And the hour shows the welcome way To the morning dew. C. BIR

SUPPORT OUR ADVERTISERS

THE RECORD SYDNEY BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL Parents and Citizens' Association

OFFICE BEARERS, 1964

President: Mr. J. H. Levi. Vice-Presidents: Messrs. M. R. Wills and M. T. Wood. Hon. Secretary: Mr. R. B. Ford. Hon. Treasurer: Mr. A. J. Foster. Executive Committee:

Messrs. W. Halliday, R. Coleman, L. Ringham, F. Randall, H. Williams, H. Goodsell, B. Taylor, R. Bird, Prof. J. Morgan and

Mesdames H. Williams, M. R. Wills and W. Morgan.

School Councillors:

Messrs. M. R. Wills, W. Halliday, R. B. Ford and B. Wood. Meetings; Third Thursday in each month at 7.45 p.m.

The Annual General Meeting was held in the Great Hall on Thursday, 19th March, 1964.

This meeting saw the resignations of the previous Hon. Secretary, Mr. H. Tuite and the Hon. Treasurer, Mr. G. May. Both these gentlemen have served the school and this association well during their term of office. We were sorry to lose their services.

At a subsequent meeting, the members of the P. & C. Association were pleased to confer an Honorary Life Membership on Mr. Geoff May. Mr. May has been an active member of this association for 16 years, occupying the position of Hon. Treasurer for the past 4 years. His experience and knowledge of S.H.S. affairs will be missed, but we take this opportunity to extend to Mr. and Mrs. May our best wishes for the future.

Mr. J. H. Levi was re-elected unopposed as President, Mr. R. B. Ford was elected Hon. Secretary and Mr. A. J. Foster, Hon. Treasurer.

This meeting was also the first opportunity many of our members had of meeting our new Headmaster, Mr. M. Callaghan and his charming wife. Having had Mr. Callaghan with us since the beginning of the year, we realize how fortunate Sydney High School is to have obtained a man who measures up to the highest standards set by his predecessors. We have no doubt that Sydney High School has been placed in the best possible hands.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, once again, was responsible for an outstanding effort. This association is deeply indebted to the ladies for their untiring efforts in the raising of finance and in the organisation of many of our projects.

Finance:

A record for both income and expenditure was forecast in our budget and it appears certain that our target will be reached. The Headmaster's Appeal was not quite as successful as in previous years. It is disappointing to find that only approximately 30% of parents responded to this appeal.

Sydney Boys' High School Parents & Citizens' Association Invites you to attend its meetings, held on the third Thursday of each month 8 p.m.

McKay Sports Ground Committee:

The P. & C. Association representatives on this Committee, Messrs. R. Coleman, W. Halliday, R. Bird, G. Bell and D. Morozov were untiring in their efforts to maintain and improve our playing fields and deserve our congratulations in providing grounds of the highest standard.

An important addition to our equipment this year was the purchase of a motorised roller and it is anticipated that a fifth playing field will be added in the near future.

A special word of thanks is due to the fathers who attended the working bees held at the Grounds and to Reg Bird and his assistants for the organisation that is necessary on the Saturdays when S.H.S. are hosts to other G.P.S. schools. There is a tremendous amount of work to be done on these occasions and should any parent offer to assist, he would be warmly welcomed.

Rowing Committee:

Prof. J. Morgan, Messrs. W. Morgan, F. Randall, B. Taylor and T. Duckworth were the P. & C. representatives on this Committee and were very active in maintaining the facilities at Abbotsford and generally in assisting the Rowing Master and the School's rowers.

Open Day was held on 29th February, when we were honoured by having Mrs. Callaghan christen the new additions to the fleet.

It is the ever present aim of this committee to continue to add to and improve the amenities at the Boat Shed and all rowers appreciate their efforts in this direction.

Ways and Means Committee:

This committee comprises all members of the association and meets on the first Thursday in each month with the object of promoting many profitable social functions during the year. In particular, we had two Crazy Whist nights organised and conducted by Mr. Roy Coleman and Mr. Merv Wood, a Mystery Car Trip organised by Mr. Les Ringham and his assistants which culminated in an enjoyable picnic and sports and a most amusing Hypnotist night arranged by Mr. Allan Harper.

One highlight was a Wine Tasting held under the auspices of the Wine and Brandy Producers' Association in September. All these functions not only added to our funds but also served the important purpose of allowing our members to meet together in a social atmosphere.

Carnival Fete:

This function was once again our major money-making activity and we are pleased to report that it was very successful. This success was due to many people: in particular to the Fete Organiser, Mr. W. Halliday and his diligent Fete Committee. This committee commences to function shortly after the Annual Meeting in March and is not able to relax until the Fete is over. But this occasion would not be possible without the generosity of the companies and the people who contributed goods and money to this cause and of the pupils and the parents who support us on the big day.

FOR SUPPLIES IN THE METROPOLITAN AREA RING 40 1244

This year saw a change in the procedure when it was decided to ask a Radio or TV personality to open the Fete. Mr. Terry Dear from Radio Station 2GB consented to perform this function for us. We feel that this was well received.

Canteen Committee:

This Committee, under the Presidency of Mrs. Kath Cunningham, has had another very satisfactory year. Although some 30-40 ladies are active on this committee, any mother who could spare one day a month would be welcomed by Mrs. Cunningham and her helpers. The Canteen also offers a stationery supply service at competitive prices. It would be to the advantage of parents to remember this at the beginning of the school year.

School Grounds and Maintenance:

Mr. Les Ringham has headed this very active committee, which is concerned with keeping the school grounds and buildings in good condition. For this purpose, the Department of Education provides only £100 each year, leaving much voluntary labour to be carried out by this committee.

Dance Committee:

Under the able leadership of Mr. Tom Duckworth, this committee provided pupils of both the boys' and girls' school with some excellent nights. These dances are well conducted and strictly supervised and are very popular with the students. This year the dances are proving a big financial success for the association, but we also feel that we are providing an opportunity for students to enjoy themselves in congenial surroundings.

General:

For successful pursuit of our endeavours, we are indebted to Many people. To Mr. Callaghan and Mr. Oslington for their cooperation, patience and assistance which is so willingly given at all times. To our new Caretaker, Mr. Crocker for his assistance and consideration on the many nights the association held meetings and functions at the school and to the school secretaries, Mrs. Braithwaite and Mrs. Byrne who always cheerfully meet our every request.

Without the co-operation of these people and the work so freely given by all active members of the association, it would not be possible for our boys to enjoy the amenities and activities which this school provides. Our sincere thanks, therefore, go to everyone who has assisted the Association. The time and effort freely given by them has been well spent in promoting the welfare of the boys and the school.

MEDICAL BENEFITS FUND OF AUSTRALIA

HOSPITAL AND MEDICAL BENEFITS STUDENT DEPENDANTS

The rules of the Medical Benefits Fund of Australia provides a cover for unmarried Student Dependant children who have attained 17 years of age.

These days most parents have insured themselves and their children against the cost of hospital and medical care.

This cover for Student Dependant children will be of inestimable value to parents of school children when considering expenses associated with secondary and tertiary education.

It is noticed many parents hold the mistaken belief that Medical Benefits Fund does not cover school accidents. It is quite unnecessary for parents to incur additional expense for school accident insurance for hospital and medical care. Without extra payment the parents' family contributions cover not only school accidents but sickness and accidents at home.

Under the Rules all student children over the age of 17 years can be covered by the parents' family rate membership provided the student is not in receipt of income.

To include student children attaining 17 years of age it is necessary to make special application to the Fund Office or local Agent to obtain a Student Dependancy form.

The completed form and parents' membership book should be sent to:

LADIES' AUXILIARY

OFFICE BEARERS, 1964

President:		Treasurer:	Secretary:
Mrs.	H. Williams.	Mrs. W. Morgan.	Mrs. M. R. Wills.

The Ladies' Auxiliary has had another very happy and successful vear under the guidance of our new President, Mrs. H. Williams.

The year's activities commenced with a luncheon to welcome new mothers, followed by the Annual Reunion Night, at which all parents, both old and new, were welcomed.

Our main object, of course, is to raise money to augment the funds raised by the P. & C. Association; our target for each year is at least $\pm 1,500$. It is not difficult to realise how much we need the support of every mother, and we do urge each one to try and attend as many of our meetings and functions as possible.

Our activities have included luncheons, demonstrations and barbecues which have proved most successful both financially and socially.

The Third Annual Father and Son Dinner, held on the 24th June, was a great success. We were most fortunate to have as our Guest Speaker Mr. Mervyn T. Wood, M.B.E., former Olympic and World Champion Sculler, and, we are very proud to add, he has the extra distinction of being one of our own fathers.

One of our very important functions this year was a Wine and Dine Evening, sponsored by the Wine and Brandy Producers' Association, held on 11th September. The catering for the Dinner was carried out in the usual efficient manner by the ladies of the Auxiliary, and all present voted it a wonderful evening. It is always pleasing to see so many friends, both old and new, on occasions like this.

While the Football Luncheon has already taken place at the time of writing, there are still more functions to be held, including the Cadets' Passing Out Parade, the Annual Fete, and the Ladies' Auxiliary Ball. Also Fourth Year will give a farewell luncheon to Fifth Year, under the supervision of the ladies, and the P. & C. will arrange a Farewell Dance to Fifth Year at which the Girls' High School will join us.

The Canteen continues to prosper and progress, and reflects great credit on the Committee, which is headed by Mrs. K. Cunningham, President, Mrs. J. Dawson, Secretary, and Mrs. N. Woodhouse, Treasurer. We are most grateful to the mothers for the voluntary help they give under the guidance of our very capable supervisor, Mrs. E. Simpson.

We would like to take this opportunity of thanking all the mothers who help us in so many ways — at the McKay Sports Ground, the School Dances, the Debating fixtures — in fact on every occasion on which we call for their services.

Finally we thank Mr. M. R. Callaghan, the Headmaster, Mr. C. Oslington, the Deputy Headmaster, and the Staff for their willing help and advice at all times. Also our thanks to Mrs. Byrne and Mrs. Braithwaite, the School Secretaries, for their valued help and cheerful co-operation throughout the year.

P. WILLS, Hon. Secretary.

LODGE SYDNEY HIGH SCHOOL-No. 631

Wor. Bro. D. H. Dunn (1937), as W.M. of Lodge Sydney High School for the past year, afforded the members yet another instructive and enjoyable term in the history of the Lodge.

During this period Wor. Bro. Dunn initiated six new members, as well as affiliating two additional brethren into our ranks. The current strength of the Lodge now stands at 168 subscribing members.

The climax of the year was the Installation Meeting of August (2nd Friday) when Wor. Bro. Dunn, in the company of M. Wor. Bro. E. L. Beers, Grand Master, and an imposing Grand Lodge delegation, elevated Wor. Bro. R. L. Smee (1947) to the Chair of the Lodge.

Wor. Bro. Smee commenced his term as Master by receiving applications from further aspirants to membership, which seems to assure his enthusiastic officers of another active year.

Our Lodge continues its active support of the Association of School Lodges, which is formed from the affiliation of the fifteen School Lodges in N.S.W. jurisdiction. As Lodge Sydney High School was the first of the School Lodges to be consecrated (1929) our members are justly proud of the steady advancement of this Association.

The Grand Lodge advancement of our members Rt. Wor. Bro. G. L. McKay, Junior Grand Warden, and V. Wor. Bro. J. W. Campbell, Grand Inspector of Workings, once more brought honour to Lodge Sydney High School.

Contact with Lodge Sydney High School may be made through Wor. Bro. P. B. Gibb, 64 Catherine Street, St. Ives ('Phone 44-5002).

THE "RECORD" BACK NUMBERS

The following back numbers of "The Record" are required to complete a set of all previous issues of the journal in the Library. It will be greatly appreciated if any Old Boy who has one of the undermentioned issues would be so kind as to donate it to the school.

Membership

Membership continues its upward trend and now nears 1,200. Further improvement will be made, however, if we are able to reduce the number of those who, each year, fail to renew their subscription. The Committee appeals to all who have failed to renew, to do so without delay.

Many of our members have arranged a banker's order made payable to S.H.S. O.B.U. early in January as a convenient method of ensuring that the subscription is paid regularly without the necessity of reminder notices. The membership sub-committee recommends this mode of payment to you. The saving in administrative costs will further allow the Union to assist the school financially in carrying on its various activities not financed by the Department of Education.

Members of the S.H.S. O.B.U. receive the "High Bulletin" (usually published three times each year) as well as a copy of "The Record".

During the year, the membership sub-committee accepted with regret the resignation of Alan May. Much credit for the upsurge in membership over the past few years is directly due to the tremendous sacrifice of time and effort on Alan's part. We offer him our sincere thanks and wish him every success during his forthcoming world tour.

The High Ball

After many years at the Trocadero, the High Ball this year was held at the University of New South Wales (The "Roundhouse").

We were able to transfer from the traditional Thursday night to the much more popular Friday night, with the result that the attendance jumped to 770, an increase of nearly 200 over the 1963 attendance.

Our President (Bill McMurray), assisted by his wife and the President of the Old Girls' Union (Mrs. Thelma Parry), entertained a large official party, including the Guest of Honour, Old Boy, Mr. Justice Gordon Wallace, the Headmaster and Mrs. Callaghan, the Headmistress (Miss Wayne), representatives of Great Public Schools and High Schools, and representatives of the P. & C. Associations and the Ladies' Auxiliaries, including the Ladies' Auxiliary of our own Union.

The presentation by the Matron of Honour, Mrs. Parry, of eleven pretty debutantes to Mr. Justice Wallace was a feature of the night.

The Ball was a big success and we can look forward to even better things in 1965, because we are going to the "Roundhouse" on a Saturday night.

Saturday, 1st May, 1965, is the date; reserve it now.

O.B.U. Dinner

The annual Old Boys' dinner will be held on Thursday, 1st October, at the State Ballroom, 49 Market Street, Sydney.

The Guest of Honour will be a very well known Old Boy, The Honourable Sir Howard Beale, who recently returned to Australia after a lengthy term in Washington as Australian Ambassador.

As usual, an excellent menu has been arranged, and our Dinner Committee are forwarding a ticket in the form of a reminder to each member of the Union.

The Bulletin

This year the Bulletin Committee has suffered a major setback following the resignation of Alan May, who has been Convenor for the past six years. We thank Alan very much for his devotion and service to the Old Boys' Union. The first edition this year was brought out under the guidance of temporary editor. Ernie Tucker.

The Committee has once again settled down to the routine of bringing out three Bulletins annually under the leadership of Bob Adler, who was a student editor of the "Record" in his final year at school.

We hope the publication will continue to maintain the high standard set by Alan's committee and continue to play its part as the main organ of communication between Old Boys. The Bulletin attempts to keep Old Boys in touch with each other by personal paragraphs and with their old school by means of articles concerning the school's progress in all fields.

The editor hopes that many more of you, on leaving school, will join the committee and help maintain the standard of the publication. This is also a means whereby you can keep in touch with your old school friends. Articles of interest for the Bulletin are always accepted with thanks.

The Old Boys' Centenary Trust Fund

The Centenary Trust Fund was established several years ago with the object of building up a permanent capital, the income from which will be used to maintain the McKay Oval and the school boatshed. The Fund is now well under way. Cash donations either in lump sums or annual instalments, provisions in legacies and special life insurance policies are all ways in which Old Boys can contribute to the scheme.

The High Club

Sydney High School Old Boys' Union is the only O.B.U. organisation in Sydney which has successfully managed to finance and build its own club premises for the exclusive use of Old Boys, friends and supporters of the school. The club is located at 81 York Street, Sydney, and is managed by a full-time secretary, Fred Evans, who has been extremely successful in this capacity and very popular with the members.

Advantages are offered to Old Boys who join the O.B.U. on leaving school and are members continuously to the age of 21. In this case, the entrance fee of $\pm 5/5/$ - is waived and the only fee is an annual subscription of $\pm 5/5/$ - for metropolitan members.

O.B.U. Ladies' Auxiliary

The O.B.U. Ladies' Auxiliary is continuing its fine work in organising functions to assist the O.B.U. in its finances. Under the energetic guidance of the executive committee, comprising Mrs. R. Goldberg as President; Mrs. M. Mitchell, Secretary, and Mrs. V. Neller, Treasurer, the Ladies' Auxiliary organises regular monthly functions to raise money for the school.

Such functions include combination dinner-theatre parties, cooking demonstrations and a variety of other activities which, as well as providing pleasure for O.B.U. members bring in much needed funds for rowing and various aspects of school activity. The O.B.U. Ladies' Auxiliary meets at 1.30 p.m. on the first Wednesday of each month at the C.E.N.E.F. Building at the corner of Kent and Bathurst Streets, Sydney.

The O.B.U. Tie

Orders have been placed for the specially designed O.B.U. Tie, which will be available for sale at the High Club within the next few weeks.

For enquiries, please contact the Secretary of the High Club, Fred Evans; telephone BX 5987.

Personal

Newly apointed manager of the Rural Bank's Randwick Branch is Ted Vidal (1937). Ted was formerly manager of the Bank's Earlwood branch and represented Earlwood in Pennant Bowls.

Ben Selinger (1955) has just returned from Stuttgart, Germany, where he obtained his Ph.D. in Chemistry.

Off to New Guinea to teach the Papuans about savings is Dick Byres (1959), who will be in New Guinea for two years' service with the Reserve Bank of Australia.

Congratulations to Wayne Young (1959) on his appointment as a Trainee Trade Commissioner in Canberra.

Kerry Rubie (1958) is at present enjoying the luxuries of the Oriana, on his way to Canada, England, and the Continent, for a twelve months' working holiday.

Phillip Lambert (1955) returned last year from the Case Institute of Technology after gaining his M.Sc. in Chemical Engineering.

Congratulations to Mort Cohen (1931) on gaining the Liberal pre-selection for the electorate of Bligh.

Representing N.S.W. in interstate rowing this year were John Campbell (1960) and Lionel Robberts (1955) in the VIII and Alan Simons (1956), who stroked the Light-weight Four. Both crews rowed into second place behind Victoria.

Cadets David Henry (1960), Kev Baker and Arthur Blewitt (1962) are curently at R.M.C., Duntroon. They bring the total number of Old Boys to have entered the College to seventy.

Congratulations to Ted Sullivan (1941) on his appointment as a senior lecturer in spectroscopy at the Wellington University. Ted is at present lecturing Chemistry at the University of Sydney and will take up his new post early in the new year.

Graeme Pearce (1962) recently moved to Wollongong, where he is now studying Primary School Teaching at Wollongong Teachers' College. Zol Starr (1951) is now lecturing in Pure Mathematics at the University of New South Wales after having spent three years with I.B.M. in the data processing business.

After recently moving to New Zealand with I.B.M., Keith Sinderberry (1951) wrote to us, including a list of the large number of Old Boys at present working for I.B.M. In the Sydney Branch there are: Harry Wood (1939), Alf Maclaren (1948), Bill Vincent (1950), Ed Thurston (1950), Dick Webb (1955), Charlie Shuetrim (1957), Markus Barg (1958), and John Renshaw (1960). David Greatarex (1950) is in Melbourne and Alan Heatley (1959) is in Perth.

Congratulations to Robert Mellor who has been awarded a Cadetship with the Bureau of Census and Statistics in the Commonwealth Public Service. Robert gained his Leaving Certificate at Sydney High in 1960 with Second Class Honours in Mathematics I and completed his Third Year in the Faculty of Arts at the University of Sydney last year (1963) with Distinction in Mathematical Statistics and Credit in Pure Mathematics. He expects to graduate in Arts with Honours this year, his major being Mathematical Statistics. Robert will take up his duties in Canberra in 1965.

TO THE BOYS LEAVING SCHOOL

Boys, the world lies before you. Soon you will leave the sheltered bounds of the school and set out to reach your rightful place in that world.

We wish you the best of luck!

As you make your way forward, you should not forget the debt you owe to the past — and in particular your old school.

There are many worthwhile tasks which are more easily neglected than performed; keeping your associations with the school and your former schoolmates is one of them. Maintain these associations and as the years pass you will treasure them more and more. Now is the time to take positive steps towards keeping them.

Join the O.B.U. Attend the school sporting fixtures and social functions whenever you are able. In doing these things you are helping your school.

Subscription rates of the O.B.U. are normally £1 per annum, but a special 10/- rate is allowed for all Old Boys under twenty-one or all Old Boys who are attending any university, college or any other educational institution, including commercial and technical colleges and institutes. This special rate is to cater for Old Boys either still dependent on their parents or drawing only a low rate of pay. Should any Old Boy in this classification be in a position to pay the ordinary rate instead of the special rate, it will be most welcome. For those who desire and can afford it, life subscription is available at 20 guineas.

Payment of subscriptions may be made as follows:---

- (a) To Mr. A. R. Jessep, Honorary Secretary, Sydney High School Union, at the School.
- (b) Posted to the Honorary Treasurer, S.H.S. O.B.U., 81 York Street, Sydney.
- (c) Paid at The High Club, 4th Floor, 81 York Street, Sydney.
