SYDNEY HIGH SCHOOL, 1891-1928. Mary Ann Street, Ultimo, Sydney.

The Leaving

The last Leaving Certificate — an easy phrase to say, but rather difficult to realise in full! Yet as the 1965 "Record" goes to press, our last full Leaving class is sitting for this examination that has become a byword in the schools of this State. True, there will be a repeat examination next year, but the 1965 class is the last full Fifth Year and with it the Leaving passes into history.

From 1884 to 1912 the terminal secondary examination was the University Senior and the familiar Leaving Certificate began in 1913. From then to the end of last year no fewer than 5,041 candidates gained their Leaving from Sydney High.

The American people speak of students "graduating" from High School: we reserve this term for University life. But in the literal sense it is true that 5,041 have "graduated" from this School: they have completed an important step or grade and have qualified to take another.

Who could reckon the debt owed by these 5,041 to S.H.S.? Academic success, vocational and professional opportunity, a share of their character formation, sport, social life, attitudes, lessons direct and indirect. Since coming back as Headmaster I have had the pleasure, the privilege, the honour of meeting hundreds of Old Boys, hundreds among the 5,041 and I have heard of others, men of distinction in all walks of life, at home and abroad. For them the Leaving Centificate was a meaningful stage — the transition from school to the career which has brought them such distinction. But the thing that impresses and delights me above all else is the gratitude expressed by Old Boy after Old Boy to the School, to the teachers of their day, their pride in the School and their interest in its continuing success.

The last Leaving Certificate marks the end of an era. The Higher School Certificate, from 1967 onward, will be different in academic content and standard but it will always be a leaving or graduating point. Its true significance however will still be the same — its real worth will stem from what the student has put into his years at school.

something to keep mind

When schooling is finished a range of interesting problems have to be tackled, e.g. which party should I vote for? How can I be an intelligent member of my trade union? How does the economic system work? And many others. These problems can be intriguing: they are important. The W.E.A. and the University of Sydney's Department of Adult Education work together to help people deal with these and other problems through their adult educational programme. They offer courses in politics, philosophy, psychology, economics, the arts, history, and many other fields. Full details are available from the W.E.A., 29-2222. It's worth keeping in mind.

Learn to play an instrument

Acquire musical knowledge while learning comes easily. With the ability to play music you will never lack entertainment. It will win you friends where eyer you go. Music is a universal language. At Palings there are professional musicians who'll gladly advise you on your choice of an instrument, so call in some time and talk it over.

MATHEMATICS CAN BE FUN

Congratulations must go to Geoffrey Lewis for gaining the year's most coveted award in school mathematics: first prize in the

GEOFFREY LEWIS.

Mathematics Competition organised by the University of New South Wales.

More than 500 secondary school pupils from 99 public and private schools throughout the State entered the competition, which is designed to discover mathematical insight and ingenuity rather than efficiency in solving routine problems. An idea of the difficulty of the questions may be gauged from the fact that ten per cent. of the candidates failed to score at all.

For the first time in the history of the competition, a candidate was able to solve all problems. The examiners were so impressed by Geoff's work that he was awarded 150 marks (from a possible 120), the extra 30 marks being given for his methods of solution.

Geoff's success in this most exacting of all academic competitions deserves the highest of praise.

One of the simpler problems for the reader to ponder over is this: "Three points A. B. C lie within a circle with unit radius. Show that $AB^2 + BC^2 + CA^2$ is less than or equal to 9 square inches".

Congratulations must also go to Stephen Symonds and Warren Pakchung who gained Certificates of Merit in this competition.

IAN DAWES - RHODES SCHOLAR

The N.S.W. Rhodes Scholar for 1966 is Ian Dawes of Oatley, an Old Boy of S.H.S. and the seventh Rhodes Scholar the school has produced. The scholarship will enable Ian to study for a Doctorate of Philosophy at Oxford University from next October. Ian, who is one of the youngest students to win the award, obtained a pass in the Leaving Certificate in 1961 and has since been studying food technology at the University of N.S.W. and will graduate this year as a Bachelor of Science with honours.

The award of the Rhodes Scholarship to Ian caps an outstanding academic and sporting career. Ian was the school's Under 14 and Under 16 champion in athletics and represented the school in C.H.S. and G.P.S. carnivals. He joined the University of N.S.W. Athletics Club in 1962 and was appointed its captain this year He is also Honorary Secretary of the University's Sports Association, a delegate to the Students' Union Council and Sports Editor of the student paper "Tharunka". In university examinations he has gained high distinctions in applied organic chemistry, food technology, theory of statistics and botany.

Ian intends to do his Oxford doctorate in biochemistry and spend the early part of next year doing postgraduate research work at the University of N.S.W. After getting his doctorate Ian hopes to become an academic at a research institute such as the C.S.I.R.O. or a university.

REUNION OF THE CLASS OF '64

For most students the attainment of the Leaving Certificate is the culmination of their schooling, both primary and secondary. Those who neither excel at sport, nor are scholastically minded, receive neither trophies nor books for their efforts — and this holds true for the majority of pupils. Their only tangible reward for constant but unspectacular work is the Leaving Certificate. For this reason, if for none other, a suitable presentation is desirable.

On his arrival at High, the Headmaster, Mr. Callaghan, resolved to institute such a presentation. However owing to his protracted illness it was not possible for this scheme to be initiated in 1964, and thus the first of such night took place on 2nd July this year.

Our previous Headmaster, Mr. K. J. Andrews, and Mr. C. E. Rubie, President of the O.B.U. were the guest speakers on this occasion. Both congratulated the boys on their success and Mr. Andrews expressed his pleasure in seeing them assembled once again, having known many personally for at least four years. Mr. Andrews' words were endorsed by Mr. Rubie, who drew our attention to the school's achievements both in sport and in the academic sphere. He emphasised the very great need at the present time to support the school through the O.B.U. to ensure the maintenance of these high standards. Mr. Andrews then presented the certificates. At the conclusion of the evening, all had an opportunity to intermingle, renew acquaintances, re-live experiences and exchange news of present occupations in an informal manner.

The attendance of virtually all successful candidates at this function is eloquent proof of its success, needing no elaboration beyond one striking feature which I feel was perhaps most important and very commendable — a feeling of equality. On this one night all were equal, regardless of achievements in sports or studies — all were successful students proud to receive a common prize. Those with maximum passes and those with a vital four "Bs" mounted the stage without distinction, some for the first time, others for the last.

SPEECH NIGHT, 1964

The 81st Annual Speech Night of the School was held on 15th December, 1964. On this occasion Mr. J. H. Levi, President of the P. & C. Association was in the chair. A very interesting and informative address was delivered by Rev. W. J. Edwards, B.A., Ph.D., a former headmaster of Canberra Grammar School, later chief of U.N.I.C.E.F. Missions to Greece, Italy and Malta. Rev. Edwards later presented the academic prizes and sports trophies.

The Headmaster, in his annual report, drew attention to the achievements of the school both in the sporting and academic spheres. He went on to record his appreciation for the work done by the teaching staff, and paid tribute to the devoted efforts of the P. & C., the Ladies' Auxiliary and the O.B.U., who set themselves each year to raise increasing sums of money to provide suitable facilities for the school. He announced that the relevant authorities had agreed that the school buildings should be renovated and repainted.

While the attention paid to academic qualifications was exceedingly important, the Headmaster thought that every schoolboy should aim at a well rounded personality and take advantage of a variety of activities in the school. The example set to the younger generation in everyday life was of the utmost significance; yet Mr. Callaghan deplored the cynical, selfish and uninspiring attitude of the adult community as a whole.

The choir and orchestra under the respective batons of Mrs. J. Ajala and Miss R. Morris and the Brass Ensemble under the baton of Mr. C. D. Goodchild contributed a very delightful and entertaing programme of musical and choral works to the evening.

SCHOOL CAPTAIN

School Captain, Captain of Boats, Captain of the First XV and athlete, Neville Morgan has brought a tremendous amount of credit to his school. Over this year, Neville has certainly shown himself to have the sense of leadership and the organising ability required of him.

The "mighty atom" has been active in many sports since he first came to the school in 1961. He is a well conditioned athlete, a powerful rower and a fine footballer.

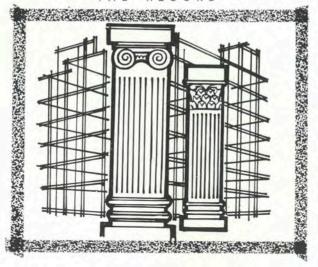

Off the sporting field, Nev shown scholastic ability. In the Leaving Certificate this year he has worked at a creditable level in all his subjects while he is also taking the Honours course in Physics.

As a sportsman and scholar, as well as by virtue of his popularity, Nev Morgan well deserves to leave his name inscribed on the Honour Board of School Captains in the Great Hall.

ANZAC DAY COMMEMORATION

The 50th annual Anzac Day Commemoration service was held in the Great Hall on Friday, 23rd April, 1965. The Guest of Honour was Squadron-Leader B. C. Daymond, D.S.O., D.F.C.

Twenty cadets lined the entrance to form a Guard of Honour for the guests, including Mrs. Williams, President of the Ladies' Auxiliary; Colonel Duffy, representing the S.H.S. ex-servicemen; Mr. Rubie, President of the Old Boys' Union, and Mr. Halliday, President of the Parents and Citizens' Association. The Headmaster, in welcoming the guests, told the school of the achievements of the guest speaker. The theme of Squadron-Leader Daymond's address concerned the bonds of mateship that existed among the Australians and the traits brought out in a man when fighting for his life and country. He illustrated these points in the narrative of Group-Captain Middleton's heroic flight in World War II, for which he won the V.C.

At the end of Squadron-Leader Daymond's address, the School Captain, Neville Morgan, the Vice-Captain, John Murray, and the senior Cadet Under Officer, Stephen Symonds, laid a wreath on the Honour Roll and, after the utterance of the words "Lest We Forget", a minute's silence was observed. The Last Post and Reveille were then sounded, and the service concluded with the singing of the hymn, "O Valiant Hearts", and the National Anthem.

FOOTBALL LUNCHEON

On Tuesday, 24th August, all boys who represented the school in football during the season attended the annual football luncheon in the Great Hall. The Headmaster welcomed the guests and boys, and, in particular, Mr. Ray Smee, the guest speaker. Mr. Smee is a distinguished Old Boy, who captained the School Football and Swimming Teams, and played in the First XI. He captained the Australian water-polo team at the Olympics in 1952 and 1956, and was chosen to represent N.S.W. in Rugby Union. He gave an interesting talk on the values of amateur sport, which was of great benefit to all the boys. Vice-Captain John Murray thanked Mr. Smee on behalf of the school.

Mr. Fielding gave a record of teams during the season, mentioning that Sydney High fielded 23 teams. He also congratulated the 2nd XV on their G.P.S. and C.H.S. premierships, and the 14D XV, who went through the season undefeated. The School Captain, Neville Morgan, thanked the coaches of the various teams for their experienced guidance which helped to make the 1965 season a success. Steven Fortey then thanked the referees, the McKay Committee, and all who assisted in the 1965 season. Following this, Alex Johnston thanked the Ladies' Auxiliary for the very well prepared lunch, which was enjoyed by all.

THE MUSIC AND DRAMA EVENING

Variety was the keynote of the musical proceedings this year. The scope of the works performed was wider than has been usual at such functions in the past. This might be well illustrated by examining the music performed under two headings: (1) vocal music, (2) instrumental music.

Vocal Music

Solos in the form of folk music (excellently performed by John Sackar and Gary Travers), classical music (Morley's It Was a Lover and His Lass, from Geoff Dunn) and choral music from two first year groups, which was under-rehearsed and might have been better.

Instrumental Music

If the scope of vocal music was wide, including as it did solo and ensemble work in both folk and classical styles, the evening's contribution on the instrumental side went even further; it included music of a popular nature from the brass band, classical music (Haydn suite, played by the orchestra; Concerts for Two Violins, played by Ian Falson and his father, and Canzonas for Brass by Gabriel). In conclusion, two jazz groups (aided more by enthusiasm than by good technique) performed pieces in a Latin American and Dixieland vein, respectively.

EVENING OF MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The climax of the evening (from a purely musical point of view) was reached with the performance of selections from the Gloria of Vivaldi, and though the orchestration of the item was not as authentic as might be desired and the performance somewhat limited in technique, the fact that it was performed speaks highly of the enterprise of the teachers and pupils involved in its performance. F.M.

DRAMA CLUB

The Drama Club again operated this year under the guidance of Mr. G. Little. It presented the English adaptation of Moliere's Le Malade Imaginaire at the Evening of Music and Drama. The play was a short skit on the ails and wails of a hypochondriac named Crank, excellently portrayed by R. Perram.

The performance ran smoothly, except for the squeaks of the curtain—certainly the club's reputation of good performances was enhanced. The costuming, handled by Mrs. F. Stone and members of the Ladies' Committee, was outstanding in its splendour, while the scenery and back-drop painted by Mr. J. Parker of the Art Department was excellent.

A mention must be made of the stage managers—M. Hing, L. Fabre and R. Beran—who not only set the scenery for the play but also for all the other items of the Evening of Music and Drama.

The club wishes to extend its thanks to Mr. Little for giving so much of his time up at rehearsals, patching up flaws in the acting and delivery of lines.

THE CHOIR

The choir has been in a state of flux because of changes in the staff of the Music Department. The tenors and basses performed Vivaldi's Gloria and Borodin's Polovtsian Dances at the Combined Secondary Schools' Concert in the Town Hall (20th and 26th July). The choir performed at the annual anniversary service at St. James'. King Street, City, on Sunday, 19th September. To those boys who gave their services for both the combined choral concert and the church service special thanks must be given and to those whose attendance at rehearsals left something to be desired, an encouragement to support their fellows in what should become a very successful group in 1966.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

THE BRASS BAND

Our School Band has been very active this year. For the first time in the school's history, we accompanied the hymns in the Anzac Day ceremony. Robert Evans sounded "The Last Post" and "Reveille". The Band was conducted by our Music Master, Mr. Allan Dunn, who has since gone overseas.

On 18th July, we again competed in the Fourth Annual N.S.W. School Band Contest promoted by Waverley Municipal Band. Four primary schools and fifteen secondary schools were represented. Our Bandmaster, Mr. Goodchild, was again most successful with his entries—Waverley College gaining first place and S.H.S. third. We carried home three trophies: third prize in each section—Hymn, Selection and March.

At the Evening of Music and Drama, the Band's performance was very well received. Some of our members also played with the School Orchestra, the Wind Groups and the Jazz Groups. John Gilbert, one of our leading trombone players, entertained us with a solo.

During this year we have received a number of new instruments from the Department of Education. Many of these have been distributed to new players; however, learning takes some time, and as the Fifth Year boys of last year, who were among the original members have left, our standard of playing has dropped slightly. However, the keen interest of the remaining players must result in improvement.

Again we must thank Waverley Municipal Band for its continued interest. There are still many openings for interested boys who wish to join our Band and learn a brass instrument. First and Second Formers are mostly needed. Mr. Goodchild teaches at the school every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings before school, and it is his untiring effort that has brought the Band up to the standard it has now attained.

THE ORCHESTRA

This year the orchestra made good progress, and our first public performance was at the Evening of Music and Drama in July. A suite by Haydn was the orchestra's main effort, and we also accompanied the combined boys' and girls' choirs in three excerpts from Gloria by Vivaldi.

During the year, the orchestra has studied such popular pieces as The King and I and the Elizabethan Serenade, as well as more conventional music, such as Bizet's Carmen, and short works by Bach and Purcell. A selection from these works will be presented on Speech Night at the end of the year.

The number of instrumentalists in the school has grown considerably since last year: there are numerous brass players, who have been taught by Mr. Goodchild; the woodwinds have increased to six clarinetists, three flautists and one oboist. An oboe and bassoon have recently been received from the Department of Education, and these will complete our wind section of the orchestra. Unfortunately, the number of string players cannot balance the other sections of the orchestra, which are really of symphonic proportions. We are doing our best to remedy this situation in the beginner string classes held before school and at lunch-hour. As well as these lessons for violinists and viola players, four boys are taking lessons on our school cellos and double basses. All these beginners are either first or second year boys and by next year, we hope, will be playing in the orchestra.

I wish to take this opportunity, on behalf of the members of the orchestra, to thank Miss Morris for her devoted work during the year. Miss Morris gives many hours of her spare time to training the orchestra and taking string classes four mornings each week.

CHAMBER MUSIC

During this year, many members of the orchestra formed small groups, practising at lunch-time or after school. These ensembles include a brass quartet, a wind trio of second year players, a trombone quartet, and a mixed group of woodwind and brass players. As well as these ensembles, several jazz groups have been formed since Mr. Murphy came to Sydney High at the beginning of the second term. Some of the instrumental groups were featured at the concert in July, but others were unable to play because of the limited space on the programme. We feel that chamber music is an important experience for a musician-in-training, and we hope that these various ensembles do well.

INTER-SCHOOL CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

I.S.C.F. is a Christian movement existing in over 200 schools throughout the State which is affiliated with Scripture Union. Our branch consists of boys from all denominations and holds weekly meetings in Room 6.

The group tries to cater for the spiritual needs of its members, and any boy who may come, by Bible Studies, panel discussions, quizzes, talks and films. Combined meetings and outings have been held with the Girls' school and South Sydney High. These have been times of valuable fellowship.

A house-party was held in March at the "Pines" at Mt. Victoria with South Sydney and Cleveland Street High Schools. The studies were most profitable, and the physical and social activities very enjoyable.

This year has been a year of fellowship, and the committee's thanks must go to the Headmaster for his co-operation and advice, and to Messrs. Disalvia, Cooney and Proctor for their support. We trust that in the coming year the I.S.C.F. will continue to be a witness to Jesus Christ in this school.

INTERACT, CLUB

The beginning of the year saw the formation of a new club within the school—the Interact Club of Sydney High School. Interact, sponsored by Rotary International, is a world-wide organisation consisting of many schoolboy clubs in countries such as U.S.A. (the headquarters of Interact), the Argentine, Chile, Kenya and Japan.

It is basically a service club, offering to help the community and the school in any way it can. One of its major aims is to strengthen international understanding by communicating with overseas clubs. Sydney High is one of the few schools in Australia which has an Interact Club and only the fourth in the metropolitan area.

The club began its activities after its inaugural meeting in March this year. Capably led by president Jon Isaacs, the club is now firmly established with twenty-eight members. During the year, a number of projects have been completed: the walls of the Killip Wing were cleaned and the staff's cars were also cleaned to raise money for the Freedom From Hunger Campaign. Every year the Interact Club has to perform a community service and this year the club helped out the Civilian Maimed and Limbless Association at their new premises.

During the September holidays, the club made an inspection of Austral Bronze, the largest non-ferrous metal works in Australia, as guests of the Rotary Club of South Sydney.

Interact meets fortnightly, on Fridays, at 3.30 p.m. in Room 8 and any boy wishing to find out more about the club is invited to attend these meetings.

Finally, the club would like to thank Mr. J. Murphy for his help and advice, particularly in getting the club off the ground.

DEBATING

Senior Team: In the Hume-Barbour (C.H.S.) Competition, the team defeated J. J. Cahill, Cleveland Street, and Ibrox Park High Schools. This put High into the quarter-finals where the team lost against last year's finalists, North Sydney High.

In the G.P.S., the team beat Scots on a forfeit, and then lost to Shore and Riverview; the latter was perhaps the team's best debate of the season, with the results being fairly close. R. Warfield distinguished himself by finishing third in the Lawrence Campbell Trophy for Oratory, a very fine effort.

Junior Team: In the Cramp (C.H.S.) Competition, the Juniors won against J. J. Cahill and Ibrox Park and lost against Cleveland Street, and just missed out on reaching the quarter-finals. In the unofficial G.P.S. competition, the Juniors beat Scots on a forfeit, and lost to Shore and Riverview.

A few ideas come to mind after this fairly successful season. The quality of the debating teams could probably be raised by encouraging more boys to join the debating teams. Thus, with more than the two competition teams, practice debating among the teams would improve the general standard.

Both teams at the end of the season were much more polished than at the beginning, thanks to the interest and energy of the Master. Mr. Jenkins.

GYMNASTIC CLUB

The club has been in existence for about three years, and our membership is twelve. The club consists of pupils from first to third forms.

The first year lads are very enthusiastic, and it would be pleasing to see more of the older boys with the same enthusiasm.

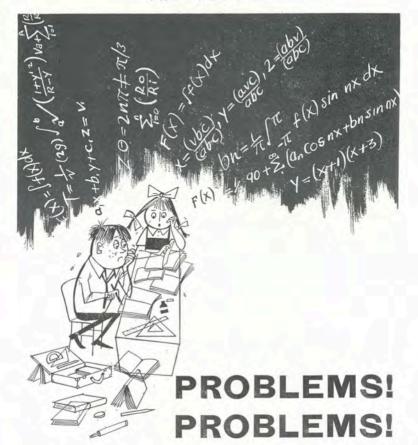

The club now meets on Tuesday afternoons in the school gymnasium.

If you are keen to join, please contact Mr. Hodge—any new boys are welcome.

The apparatus used is mainly the vaulting box, parallel bars, springboard and tumbling mats.

The club would like to express its thanks to Mr. Hodge, who gives up quite a lot of time to work with these boys. The club would also like to thank Mr. Fielding for allowing us the use of the gymnasium and apparatus.

CRAFT CLUB

The Craft Club continues to meet each Monday and Thursday at the Craft rooms under the guidance of Mr. Booth and Mr. Dyball. Membership has been steady throughout the year and a lengthy waiting list of prospective members still remains.

The Club is mainly for senior boys whose craft periods terminate at Third Form and enables them to carry on this work after school hours.

Boys are responsible for selection, design and construction of their projects and the high standards required of them have been maintained throughout the year.

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club again operated this year, meeting at lunch-times in the Art Room. A number of sets and clocks were purchased, including a large plastic set invaluable for teaching chess to a large number of people. During the course of the year, the cost of sending players to other schools and the purchasing of trophies were responsible for a fee of 1/6 being introduced.

This was a year of ups and downs for the club as far as competition was concerned. For the first time in a number of years, the club was unable to enter an "A" Grade in the Schools Competition. The junior grades did perform creditably, however, largely due to the efforts of Mr. Wegener, the Patron. The "D" Grade, in particular, stood out, coming second in its division—a very good performance by First and Second Formers. Thus, our strength seems to lie in our First-Third Formers. Indeed, all grades consisted of members of the junior school, bar one member in "B" Grade; this augurs well for the future.

The "B" Grade did not live up to expectations, but much experience was gained by some of the raw juniors. E. Stephan did particularly well, holding his own on the second board. The "C" Grade was also quite strong, but, again, inexperienced, and they, too, found the competition too strong. Experience of competition and tournaments is of vital importance in chess, and it is hoped that the juniors, in whose hands the fate of chess at S.H.S. rests, will take advantage of the N.S.W. state championships and tournaments run by the school during the latter half of the year.

Most conspicuous in the effort to raise the standard of chess in the junior ranks was Mr. Wegener. Proof of the energy he put into this sphere is the fine result of the "D" Grade in the competition. The club is truly grateful for the time and energy Mr. Wegener gave and for his active and dedicated participation in its activities.

Finally, let me say this. Chess is a game that pits the skills of one individual against those of another; it is a game to stimulate thought and imagination. Surely there are senior boys who have the "killer instinct", the will to win in yet another phase of competition? Chess is the game in which to display this characteristic. Participate in this sphere of school activity where brain and not brawn is the underlying principle, yet where sportsmanship is of utmost importance.

LAPIDARY CLUB

Tuesday, 8th June, 1965, was the date of the inaugural meeting of the Sydney High School Lapidary Club.

A short talk was given, outlining the club's policies and aims. These included the collection of rocks, minerals and gemstones from various areas, the study of them and the art of cutting, polishing and setting the gemstones in jewellery.

The office-bearers elected for 1965 were:

President: D. Foster.

Secretaries: P. Wills and I. Tait.

Treasurer: B. Conner.

Our first collecting trip was to North Wollongong beach, on Saturday, 10th July. Seventeen members and their parents took part. All members found many good specimens of petrified wood, whilst some lucky ones found small pieces of agate.

Our second field trip was to Prospect Quarry on Sunday, 22nd August, where some good samples of prehnite were obtained.

It is hoped that we will be able to set up a stall and display at the annual school fête.

the school as well as on those that could and will be of importance to the students in later life. It offers an opportunity for promising young writers and artists to use their talents.

The topics dealt with in the magazine are varied but worthwhile in themselves. They have included sporting articles (these have been reduced as they proved unpopular), articles on current affairs (e.g. Vietnam), competitions, football news and, of course, an editorial.

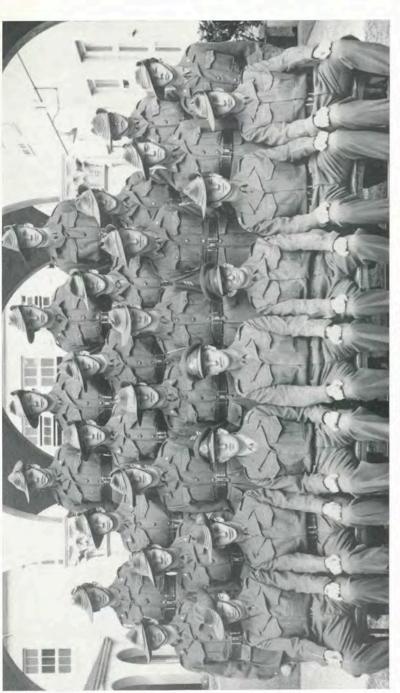

The main problem that the magazine has to contend with is apathy. It will welcome criticism and contributions from all sections of the school. Pila Clavaque is ably and efficiently staffed by members of different years: J. Isaacs, A. Gumpert, D. Gantman, B. O'Meagher, C. Welsh, B. Russo and R. Piggott — as well as the sellers and folders who assist the staff greatly.

The paper has consistently received, and is always grateful for support and enthusiasm from the Headmaster. It is hoped that this magazine or another like it will be continued and improved upon in future years.

O.C.'s REPORT

The unit this year has functioned with a larger than usual proportion of first year cadets due to the number of vacancies which existed at the commencement of the school year. This situation placed increased responsibility upon the senior cadets, particularly the N.C.O.'s and C.U.O.'s, and meant they were faced with a heavy task in preparing the large body of recruits for the Annual Camp in August and Ceremonial Parade in September, I offer my congratulations to the N.C.O.'s and C.U.O.'s for the fine results they achieved, which were evidenced in the unit's successful participation in the Singleton nine-day camp, and by the standard of drill and discipline of the annual Ceremonial Parade held before the assembled school and visitors. Congratulations also go to these first year cadets for their enthusiasm and willingness during a year which contained for them many new and difficult situations and undoubtedly for some. their first taste of real self-discipline. They will form a hard core of trained cadets for the unit next year, and if most remain with the unit, our future success is assured.

Staff Changes

It was with regret that the unit learnt that pressures of added school duties in 1965 combined with a long daily travel to school meant Lt. G. Sims would be forced to withdraw from the unit. For the time given by Lt. Sims in the past to the cadets and his enthusiastic participation in its activities the unit offers its sincere thanks.

The gap thus left in the staffing was able to be filled by Lt. B. Proctor, now training officer and 2I.C. Lt. Proctor comes to us with the experience of having been in command of the cadet unit at Hay War Memorial High School and also holds an active commission in the C.M.F. In the acquisition of such a trained officer we are most fortunate, and Lt. Proctor's influence is already noticeable in the smooth functioning of the unit's training programme. The unit was again benefited by acquiring the services of a third officer this year. Lt. M. Jenkin (a past member of the school unit) has taken over the rather exacting task of running the Q. store. This job requires many hours outside of parade times and Lt. Jenkin has unhesitatingly done just this, so that the Q. store operates quietly and efficiently — a basic need for any unit.

Fifth Year Cadets

To you I extend the unit's gratitude for a job well done, for it is you, with the help of other N.C.O.'s, who must really run the unit and determine the year's success or failure. It is with regret that we see you go, and we all wish you good fortune in the future.

The Band

The school band, organised and trained by Mr. C. Goodchild, has been most generous in giving its full co-operation to the cadet unit. Without the band's support, a function such as the annual Ceremonial Parade would lose much of its spectacle and attraction. For the many hours of practice by the band for this parade and for its participation in it, the cadets are most grateful.

One of the many questions asked concerning the unit is: "What do the cadets do?" I will attempt to answer that question.

Normal parades function on Tuesday afternoons, from 3.00 to 4.30.

The first half-hour is devoted to the opening parade. This is a routine procedure to get the afternoon's activities under way. The company is fallen in, any weekly notices are read, and this is followed by roll call and inspection.

The next hour is divided into two half-hour training periods. These periods may consist of activities ranging from map-reading to drill or combat exercises in the infantry; or may be signalling or band work in the specialists' platoon. The parade is dismissed at 4.30 p.m.

Throughout the year, other activities also occur. They are:

Range days.

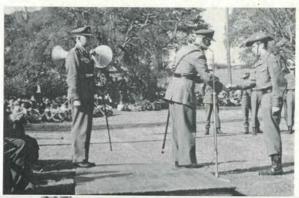

Field days.

Bivouacs.

A visit to the Commando Training Base at Middle Head.

The passing-out parade.
The annual camp at Singleton.
The officers/N.C.O. training courses.

Most of these activities are self-explanatory; hence I will deal only with the last two.

The annual camp lasts nine days. It is held at Singleton Army Camp. The purpose of the camp is to train cadets to live as soldiers. The cadet pays nothing to attend. All transport, food, medical attention and living quarters are free. This is the highlight of the cadet year.

The officers' and N.C.O.s' training courses, held in December at Singleton, are for candidates chosen to attend. These courses consist of ten days of high-pressure training, and conclude with an examination. Those who pass this examination are promoted.

C.S.M. FOSTER.

C.U.O. MATIS.

ONE PLATOON

This year, owing to the large numbers of last year's junior cadets who discontinued their cadet service, there were only sufficient senior cadets to form one platoon. This number was further reduced when junior N.C.O.'s were selected for the other platoons,

However, the platoon was able to overcome this setback and together with the band, led by D/Mjr. Klye, formed a compact, well-trained group. This was shown on the one-day exercise at Holsworthy when the seniors quite creditably demonstrated their field-craft skills to the junior platoons.

As there is only one senior platoon, One Platoon must necessarily include the specialist section, which now consists only of signals. Although we have no radios of our own, this section has been well grounded in basic skills by Sgt. Graham. In the May vocation, Sgt. Graham attended a signals course and finished with a creditable seventh in the State. Congratulations Sgt. Graham!

The Platoon wish to thank Capt. Davis and Lt. Proctor, who, with their military experience and the activities they have arranged, have helped the cadets considerably. No doubt, it will influence the result of this year's "Exercise Holdfast" (at annual camp) which depends upon the standard of training reached by the senior cadets.

TWO PLATOON

This year's Two Platoon consists of the new recruits who have only been enlisted for four weeks. Naturally they are learning the fundamentals of cadet training but have already shown how keen they are and how easily they adapt themselves to the requirements of cadet work. They all realise how much perseverence is needed to place them on a footing with the other first year cadets.

Their keenness may be seen by the fact that not one boy has either missed a parade or been out of uniform. This is a distinct advantage to their instructors.

The platoon consists of 36 cadets, Sgts. Donaldson and Duffy, Corporal Lawrence and Lance-Corporals Warren and Chapman all of whom have contributed to the progress of the platoon with knowledge and enthusiasm.

C.U.O. KENNEDY.

THREE PLATOON

Three Platoon began training early in the year for the various activities which the cadet unit holds during the year. However, owing to bad weather, the planned bivouac had to be called off and a one-day outing substituted. This function was well attended and enjoyed by the cadets of the platoon. Other functions held during the year were a Range Day at Long Bay rifle range, where the cadets fired the rifle and L.M.G. for the first time and a visit to the Commando Unit at Middle Head.

Throughout the year the cadets have also had training in drill, fieldcraft, map reading and weapon handling, which is building up to a peak for the annual camp at Singleton, now eagerly awaited. It is here that the results of their training will actually be put into practice.

C.U.O. GOLDRICK.

FOUR PLATOON

Training for the platoon this year has included lessons in basic drill, the Bren Light Machine Gun, the rifle, fieldcraft, map reading, and an introduction to the hand grenade.

The platoon showed considerable enthusiasm, partly due to the varied programme which included a field day at Holsworthy, a range day at Long Bay rifle range and a visit to the Commando Unit at Middle Head and partly to the capable instruction of Sgts. Isaacs and B. Smith who were later assisted by Cpl. Boorer.

Annual camp, where the platoon will have its first taste of army life, will afford the opportunity to put into action, in realistic conditions, the knowledge and skills gained throughout the year.

Several cadets have displayed Junior N.C.O. potential. In their hands lies the future of the S.H.S.C.U. I trust all will continue their training and wish them every success — remember, the first year is always the hardest.

C.U.O. SYMONDS.

VISIT TO GEORGE'S HEIGHTS

On Tuesday, the 20th July, 1965, sixty cadets were transported by Government buses to the Commando base at George's Heights, Middle Head.

Arriving at the base, the cadets were given a rather lengthy but quite informative talk on the work and requirements of a commando. A qualified commando obtains his "Green Beret" (the symbol of a qualified commando) after passing a series of rigorous tests, preparation for which, takes approximately 10 months. He has to be at the peak of physical fitness; he must be a good parachutist; a crack shot with a number of firearms; an expert cliff climber and a capable underwater diver. The Commanding Officer at the base assured us of an afternoon of action and appreciation, even though the weather was unfavourable.

One thing we saw was a cliff climbing exhibition. After an introductory talk, during which we saw the equipment of a cliff climber, the cadets waited to be taken to the cliff face to watch the demonstration. However, owing to rough seas and gusty winds, the commandos were unable to give the demonstration as was previously planned. Accordingly, they improvised, using the wall of the demonstration room as a cliff and prepared to scale the wall and climb down it.

We then moved to another section of the room, where we saw one of the "Zodiac" inflatable, lightweight canoes employed by the commandos. An extremely sea-worthy craft, it was ideal for the tasks of the commandos: beach assaults, reconnaissance and the transportation of rifles and other equipment.

Finally, at about 3.30 p.m., we left George's Heights after a highly interesting afternoon. Certainly, those who went left the base with a much greater respect for the ways of the commandos and better versed in the testing work, which, for most of them, is their profession.

SGT. J. ISAACS.

WEAPONS DEMONSTRATION

We arrived at Victoria Barracks at 11 o'clock and after waiting, Cpl. Dunn and myself embarked for the trip to the Green Hills area. On arrival we were issued with "battle-bowlers" and were marched to the demonstration area, where we were shown an array of weapons, anti-tank guns, 88 mm. mortars, a 3.5 in. rocket launcher and the new "hush-hush" MAW rocket launcher, grenades, machine guns and many other modern weapons.

We were then assembled at the firing range where we awaited the arrival of Officer Cadets from Duntroon, observers from foreign armies and the "Brass".

Finally they arrived and our attention was directed to a group of soldiers, about two hundred yards in front of us, who, we were informed, would fire a number of anti-tank rockets from an S.L.R. (self loading rifle), and a 3.5" rocket launcher. After firing two rockets each they had "flattened" the targets. Then our attention was diverted to a platoon of 88 mm. mortars which were to fire at a target three thousand yards away. After the target (a large ridge, for those who are sceptical) had been "cleared of the enemy" with about a hundred bombs, they packed up the mortars and carried them away.

We were then shown a small procession of the progress of weapons throughout the ages. At first, a caveman, draped in a bear-skin and carrying a club, sauntered by showing off his hairy legs. The caveman was followed by Robin Hood, who danced around and shot an arrow into the air and then came a 17th century infanteer who unsuccessfully, but bravely, tried to fire his trusty blunderbus. From this moment on, the modern army was in full command.

Then suddenly a soldier sprang up from a weapon pit only a few yards in front of us; he had remained concealed during all of the preceding activities. He fired his self loading 1.62 mm. rifle, at a number of bottles, cans and balloons, and then he left. From the same pit another soldier arose with an M60 machine gun and, after firing a belt of one hundred rounds from different "firing positions", he also left. Next a corporal with an Owen 9 mm. Machine Carbine came behind and "emptied" a full magazine into the targets. As the grand finale of the demonstration, an infantry platoon assembled in front and, on an order, all fired their weapons at once showing their devastating and terrible firepower. This brought an end to the demonstration.

SGT. A. GRAHAM.

ANNUAL CAMP

The S.H.S.C.U. had an unprecedented drop in numbers this year with the result that first formers were recruited before the Annual Camp. Even with these extra recruits the number of cadets at Camp was smaller than it had been the previous year.

Sixty-seven officers and cadets of the S.H.S.C.U. arrived at Singleton late in the afternoon of Wednesday, 1st September. With the promise of 9 full days of lessons, exercises, discipline and the chance to live, work and prove their merit as cadets, these young men looked forward eagerly to a period in their education (no school education is complete unless one has been to Camp!) that they would never forget.

With reveille at 6 o'clock the following morning the camp routine swung into operation. The first of the daily inspections of kit, weapons, personal dress, etc. was held that morning. From that time on, the tents steadily improved, along with the attitude of the cadets towards their gear. With the routine thus established, the training of the cadets started in earnest.

Unlike previous years, the unit was divided into three groups: the second year cadets who specialised in their own particular military activity; the first year cadets who rounded off their year and revised and practised their basic training; and the new First Form recruits who strove hard to assimilate the mountains of knowledge provided for them.

Much to the delight of all the sergeants the first traditional route march was held around the whole camp area on the Thursday night.

In the afternoon of the next day a rifle shoot was held on the 25-yard range. That night a different route march of approximately three miles was undertaken.

Sunday saw the Battalion Church Parade in the morning and the field L.M.G. shoot in the afternoon. Once again most cadets practised correctly what they had been taught and apart from the enjoyment received, the experience gained from the shoot was incalculable. Best results came from a detail comprised of the sergeants, who cut to pieces a figure target standing at 450 yards

As in previous years, the S.H.S.C.U. participated in Exercise Holdjast. This exercise is meant to teach cadets how to occupy a defensive position in trenches at company strength and how to go through one day in the life of an infantryman. The twenty-four hours between Monday and Tuesday mornings was spent in the field. Highlight of the exercise was a simulated air attack by four R.A.A.F. jets repeatedly screaming overhead inches above the trees for about ten minutes. Under the command of C.U.O. Symonds our platoon very successfully planned, staged and executed a Raiding Party with the result that they kidnapped two sentries from under the noses of C.B.C., St. Mary's. Throughout the night, as the platoon sat quietly in their trenches waiting for the enemy to come, they were harassed by the A.R.A. staff (who acted as the enemy). Sydney High can be very proud of the tradition of its unit in fieldcraft. Though the unit was small this year, this tradition was upheld.

Meanwhile back at Camp a compass march was organised for the junior cadets. They too, later in the day, witnessed this display of air power.

On the Tuesday afternoon two sections each of ten men and a fire controller fired on the Field Firing Range. The details once again upheld the reputation of the S.H.S.C.U. Whereas an average for a school is about 18 hits per section, both our sections were above this — the first scored a creditable 25.

The annual county-fair Recruit Test was held the day before leaving and showed the high standard of attainments. The results were very close: Cdt. Fielder obtained first place with 122 out of 150. He was closely followed by Cdt. Foord one point behind. Considering the recruits had only been in the unit six weeks prior to camp, Cadets M. Gerber and Watkins performed surprisingly well to finish ninth and tenth respectively out of the 38 participants. There is certainly good material amongst the juniors!

On one of the last nights in Camp, an unofficial party was held in the Sergeants' tent for all C.U.O.s, Sergeants and invited guests. C.U.O. "Pickles" Kennedy proved to be the "life" of the party.

In retrospect, perhaps the most significant feature of Camp this year was not only the cementing of existing bonds but the formation of new ties. Boys were no longer only names to each other. Camp this year did bring out an excellent team spirit. Basic military training was combined with the development of discipline, self-reliance, the ability to lead and to accept responsibility. Above all, there was a mateship that is not found in any other school activity.

Maitland Boys' High School Exchange Pages

MESSAGE FROM MAITLAND

On behalf of Maitland Boys' High School, the second oldest Boys' High School in the State, I am pleased to extend very cordial greetings to the Headmaster, staff and boys of the oldest High School, Sydney Boys' High School.

Our thanks go to your Headmaster, Mr. M. R. Callaghan, for the suggestion that a link be forged between the two schools per medium of our magazines.

There is another important link between the two schools — a number of our ten "Headmasters" moved from Maitland to take their place at the head of Sydney Boys' High School. Quite recently a friend of mine, who is also an old boy of S.B.H.S., visited our school and noted with pleasure, in our vestibule, the familiar faces of two of the heads of his school, who were also in charge at Maitland Boys' High School.

These are days of change in many respects. The pattern of education in our High Schools has developed a new meaning under the Wyndham Scheme. The way of life of our teenagers, especially in the matter of dress, is developing new proportions. But it is encouraging to find that the boys of our two schools continue to show that school

The late John Waterhouse himself an Old Boy of Sanchie House, the precursor of Maitland High School, had the unique distinction of opening the two oldest High Schools in this State: Sydney Boys' High in October, 1883, as Acting Headmaster, and, as Headmaster, Maitland Boys' High in January, 1884. The only High Schools in the State over 80 years old — except, of course, our "sister" schools.

Since the 1880's, Maitland and Sydney have had much in common: we shared the triumphs and the hardships of the early days; each has an imposing list of distinguished Old Boys, each a list of Rhodes Scholars; names of men such as Waterhouse, Hinder, Saxby, McMullen, Chrismas, Stephens, Hallett, Rae, Brownie, appear in both our stories.

But latterly our traditional associations have been somewhat swamped by the increasing number of new schools, schools less than 10 or 15 years of age, let alone venerable grey-beards of 80—odd!

So I welcome this exchange in the "Record" and the "Magpie" and I hope that it will revive and preserve our kinship of age, tradition and respect.

M.R.C.

spirit and loyalty does not change. We are still proud of our achievements, both academically and on the sporting fields and the supporters and competitors continue to turn out on all occasions in their respective uniforms. The Old Boys' Union of both schools continue to flourish and the members are always happy to get together at least once in each year to talk over their school days and pay tribute to their old schools.

R. J. COCHRANE, Principal, Maitland Boys' High School.

MAITLAND BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL.

A view of the main building.

Drawn by J. Karwacki (1963).

THE SCHOOL

Maitland Boys' High School is one of the two oldest schools in the State and the oldest outside Sydney. It is situated in High Street, East Maitland, and is featured in the school song as "the school on the hill".

On two sides of the school are playing fields and on the right of the main block is "Hinder House", a former residence of the Headmasters, now a hostel named after R. J. "Boss" Hinder, one of the school's most revered headmasters. About a quarter of a mile away, in the "gully" of Cumberland Street, lies the Maitland Girls' High, a focal point for most boys' attentions.

Unlike S.B.H.S. entry is not competitive, but the school has produced many great scholars and statesmen. The school provides a comprehensive general course, but allows for specialisation in Languages, Sciences and Manual Arts.

In 1963 the Russell F. Hodge Memorial Wing was opened to provide extra accommodation and staff facilities and it is now planned to build a further wing at the back of the school to provide for the six-year course.

The school excels in many competitive sports and almost every year it has competitors in Area and Combined High Schools' Swimming and Athletic Carnivals. We have several State champion swimmers, like Rodney See and Wayne Wand. Although Rugby League is a strong sport in the school, we have not succeeded in winning the highly-prized University Shield since 1947.

The school has many social functions, such as the school dances and the annual garden party, where the whole school co-operates to raise money for the Ladies' Auxiliary. For instance, this year at the fête, Fourth Year ran a coffee shop featuring the school's own beat group, the "Remains". On the Manual Arts side, classes are held every Monday evening to promote hobbies amongst the parents and other adults.

There is also the school Cadet Unit which is one of the finest in the State, and the biggest outside Sydney, led by Captain J. Palmer and the school's excellent Cadet Band, trained by Captain B. Ayres. The band participates in many social functions in Maitland and is always on call to play at these functions.

The school also has a superb Library, also named after R. J. Hinder, which is presided over by Mr. R. Ducrou, who has endeavoured and finally succeeded in having a special room fitted for senior students.

M.B.H.S. also has an excellent Debating squad which came second in the Newcastle area inter-school debating competition this year.

The school is represented in the "outside world" by a strong Old Boys' Union, steeped in tradition.

Finally, Maitland Boys' High School surges to the fore, backed by a glorious heritage of fine scholars, who are shining examples to present day students.

The second half of the 1964 season resumed with the match against Shore. Batting first Shore scored 228 and in reply High was 7-127. The match ended in a draw owing to rain on the second day.

The next match was against Riverview. High won the toss and sent Riverview in to bat. The High bowlers proved too strong for Riverview who was all out for 99. High batted and declared at 8-155, with Bob McKay (54) and Chris Levi (35) leading the way. Riverview could only manage 38 in the second innings. This gave High outright victory. Max Jones (4-17 and 4-24) and Peter Godfrey (4-35 and 5-8) accounted for most of the wickets.

The last match was against Grammar. High batted first and scored 176 owing to a fine display of batting by Russ Wilson 99 and

GRAMMAR	Loss 1st Innings	154 to 155	Hoiles 30, Brand 26, King 20, Mock 19, Betts 17, Grover 12.	Osborne 7-44, Grover 2-44.

Kevin King 33. Grammar was dismissed for 150, giving High a first innings lead. However, High made only 72 in the second innings and Grammar scored the 99 runs needed for an outright.

Congratulations to Max Jones on his selection in the G.P.S. 1st XI. Also to Peter Godfrey and Russell Wilson who were selected in the Seconds.

This year all G.P.S. competition matches were played in First Term. The first match was against King's. Batting first on a good wicket, King's scored an even 200. High, however, could only manage 127. Alan Hoiles (46) and Jack Mock (21) both batted well while Trevor Osborne (5-30) and Peter Tyson (2-32) were the most successful bowlers.

The following match resulted in a win for High. Sent in to bat, Riverview scored 160. In reply High was 7-186. Alan Hoiles (61) and Tony Hely (38) figured in a century partnership. Other successful batsmen were David Brandon (21 n.o.) and John Brand (20).

FIRST GRADE.

Back Row: A. Betts, A. Hoiles, A. Hely, D. Brandon, K. Grover, P. Barclay.
Front Row: J. Mock, K. King, Mr. J. Rigby, T. Osborne, Mr. G. Hannan, P. Tyson, J. Brand.

Sitting: S. Hansen (Scorer).

High was defeated in the match against Newington. High batted first and scored 137: A. Hoiles (32), K. Grover (25), K. King (20) and D. Brandon (20). Newington then scored a comfortable 207.

The next match was disappointing for High. Having dismissed St. Joseph's for 120, Ken Grover taking 4-39, the High batsmen were bundled out for only 52.

Shore proved too strong for High in the match at McKay. Shore declared at 8-220. Alan Betts performed well, taking 3 wickets for 46. High could only manage 58 and 7-127.

High batted first in the match against Scots and scored 75. Scots then batted and declared at 7-89, T. Osborne (5-33) and A. Betts (2-13) taking the wickets. In the second innings High scored 121; A. Hoiles (35) and K. Grover (22).

The last game was against Grammar. High batted first and scored 154. Grammar batted slowly and the match looked certain to end in a draw. However, Grammar snatched a last minute victory, being all out for 155. In this match A Hoiles (30), J. Brand (26) and K. King (20) batted well while T. Osborne took 7 wickets for 44.

C.H.S.

Three matches have been played in the C.H.S. competition so far this year. High is in second position behind Randwick having won two matches and drawn one.

The first game was against Fort Street. High batted first and owing to solid batting from Peter Barclay (78), Tony Hely (49) and John Brand (22) was able to declare at 8-180. The match ended in a draw as Fort Street batted out time to remain 8-119 at stumps.

In the second match against Enmore, J. Brand (63), P. Barclay (37), A. Hely (52 n.o.) and J. Mock (48 n.o.) helped High to a total of 2-201 declared. Enmore was dismissed for 96, with T. Osborne (4-23) and P. Tyson (3-21) taking most of the wickets.

The third match was against Ibrox Park. T. Osborne (62), K. King (35) and J. Brand (30) enabled High to declare at 6-191. Ibrox was dismissed for 155 with Ken Grover taking 5-54 in a long spell.

The team would like to thank the coaches, Messrs. Hannan and Rigby for giving their time and encouragement. We would also like to thank our scorer, S. Hansen and also the ladies who prepared the lunches for the G.P.S. matches.

SECOND XI

(G.P.S. RUNNERS-UP)

Team: S. Symonds (capt.), D. White (vice-capt.), R. Beattie, K. Bushby, W. Donaldson, P. Ferguson, G. Glover, G. Ireland, J. Isaacs, I. Kennedy, P. Prentice, M. Price, A. Wilmot.

Coaches: Messrs. J. M. Brand; W. C. Lucan-Roberts.

Tui comitumque sum laudator; i.e. as coach of a team which, re vera, did not exist as such when we met R.N.C. Jervis Bay in February. Our first match, on a most indifferent pitch, saw us defeated (101) by the Navy (160). We were convincingly defeated, too (104) by Fort Street, shortly afterwards, for while our individual performances were clumsy and unpolished, we were also still striving to find cohesion as a team.

The G.P.S. season opened against King's on a soggy McKay pitch. The visitors were economically dismissed for 54, a total which was to be the average for our opponents in the G.P.S. competition.

SECOND GRADE. G.P.S. Runners-Up.

Back Row: W. Donaldson, M. Price, A. Wilmot, P. Ferguson, I. Kennedy, G. Ireland, R. Beattie, J. Isaacs.

Front Row: K. Bushby, D. White, Mr. W. Lucan-Roberts, S. Symonds, Mr. J. Brand, P. Prentice, G. Glover.

With our openers (Symonds, 33; Ireland, 31) strongly established, Beattie (43, including 2 sixes) and Kennedy (22 n.o.) consolidated, enabling a declaration (4-132). King's averted an outright.

At Riverview, St. Ignatius was sent in by High, who in turn had to surpass 78. (Wilmot 6-27; White 3-26). The start was uncertain (4-27), but an entertaining stand by Beattie (24), Kennedy (18) and an invaluable knock by Glover (21) secured us the first innings.

It was in century heat at McKay, that Newington was overwhelmed by White (8 for 6 at one stage) whose analysis reads: 6 overs (3 maidens), 14 runs, 8 wickets. Bushby (50 n.o.) and Symonds (37) in a stand of 73, easily passed the visitors' 31, allowing High to declare at 2-115. Obviously the pitch was not responsible for White's superb performance.

St. Joseph's (43) succumbed to the joint onslaught of White (5-13) and Ferguson (5-30). High only managed to secure a first innings lead of 40 (Kennedy, 22; Beattie, 23). A rally by S.J.C. was thwarted by a record innings knock (Bushby, 42 n.o.; Symonds, 22 n.o.

In the next game we played Scots at McKay. Having lost the toss, High were sent in on a wet wicket. The Scots' onset was spearheaded by a medium pace attack, with a close leg side field. The solid stroke play of Bushby (31) and Glover (20) was supported by Ferguson (16) helped our struggling side to its final 110. At the outset Scots' batting collapsed (3 for 2) on a pitch which had dried out, but they could have forced a draw by dreary batting had it not been for Price (5 for 10).

It was with fear and trembling that we approached the final match at Weigall, in the expectation that we should win the competition. It was this nervousness that did so much to frustrate our high hopes of success.

High won the toss and Grammar was sent in, but the lack of hostility in our pace attack coupled with 6 dropped catches allowed Grammar to reach 101 (Wilmot 4-27). High's reply was a dismal affair in the face of Grammar's determination to retain their grasp. It would have been worse, save for the effort of the Captain (20) and a superb defensive rearguard action by White (34).

It is academic to reflect on possible reasons for our loss, by 1 point (41 points), of the Premiership. Assuredly the game of Cricket was never meant to be played in five hours.

The 2nd XI is indebted to the coach, Mr. Lucan, for its success; he welded the lowly-rated team at the beginning of the year, by hard practice into a highly efficient combination. He showed what can be achieved by thorough application and it is hoped that the junior cricketers will learn from the team's example.

THIRD XI

Team: S. Gerovich (capt.), M. Reid (vice-capt.), M. Lennox, J. Mock, N. McKeand, W. Pryor, W. Halliday, M. Middleton, J. Williams, N. Napier, R. Henming, C. Chapman, B. Wiles, P. Bouris, P. Bowman, W. Sechos.

Coaches: Mr. W. Lucan-Roberts, P. Barclay.

Although Third Grade did not experience a very successful season the team thoroughly enjoyed the games, which were at times very close.

The batting, although brilliant in patches, was never consistent enough to win matches. The success of the batting usually rested on the ability of Gerovich and to some extent that of Reid and Sechos. There were more than useful scores from Second Graders J. Isaacs, W. Donaldson and P. Prentice. One of our great losses was C. Chapman, who after one brilliant innings was promoted to the position of Second Grade scorer.

The bowling was always steady, sometimes even hostile; and if the batting could have followed up on the bowlers' good work, we would have won more matches. The bowling varied from the speed and swerve of Napier and Lennox to the seamers of Gerovich and left-hand spinners of Reid.

The wicket-keeping position was never settled until the final few matches, when Bill Sechos capably took over that honoured spot. All in all, Third Grade proved to be an erratic but hard working team.

The team would like to thank their coaches, Mr. Lucan-Roberts and P. Barclay for their help during the season.

ISA XI

Team: R. Hick (capt.), B. Andrews, C. Kirasis, B. Murray, G. Odze, P. Peyser, W. Selby, D. Taylor, R. Walker, R. Withers.

Coach: Mr. B. Andrews.

The team played well throughout the C.H.S. competition and were third at the conclusion of the first half of the season. In the G.P.S. competition, the team played consistently well, winning three games, drawing one and losing three.

The best batsmen throughout the games were C. Kirasis, 143 runs (average 19) and R. Hick, 214 runs (average 24). The bowling was capably handled by B. Murray who took 35 wickets throughout the season and opening bowler D. Taylor who took 31.

We are all grateful to the way in which our coach Mr. Andrews supervised and helped us throughout the season.

I4A XI

Team: V. Kline (capt.), R. Sleeman (vice-capt.), J. Arrowsmith, R. Bartlett-Taylor, D. Campbell, L. Dunn, P. Falson, D. Lyon, D. Hinds, B. Russell, R. Smith, I. Tabrett.

Coach: Mr. J. A. Higham.

Everything considered 14A's had a luckless season. Although the combination was a well balanced one, there was something missing. Possibly it was because we had so little time to prepare or Contact:

because we just lacked that little bit of incentive which can win or lose a match. Out of ten matches played we lost six and drew two but had well earned wins over Scots and Enmore. The most consistent and attacking batsman was John Arrowsmith.

Bowling honours go to Peter Falson, who did great damage to the batting averages of our opponents although he only bowled for short spells. Fielding generally left much to be desired.

Our thanks to Mr. Higham for the great interest he showed in us.

14B XI

Team: E. Morgan (capt.), R. Piggott (vice-capt.), J. Brabant, K. Breakspear, P. Dymock, P. Johnson, G. Nairn, P. Lofberg, S. Marks, G. Martin, W. Nosworthy, M. Pokorny, M. Upsall, G. West. Coach: S. Gerovich.

The 14B's have had limited success in the G.P.S. matches played this year, having won one match, drawn two and lost four close games. Batting was not the team's strongest department, although a few good scores were registered. The most successful batsmen were E. Morgan, M. Upsall, P. Lofberg and G. Martin, with P. Dymock and K. Breakespear showing promise. The team's bowling proved more successful, with M. Upsall, M. Porkorny and R. Piggott heading the wicket-takers, ably backed up by P. Johnson and W. Nosworthy. The team thanks Sam Gerovich for his patient coaching and helpful advice during the season, which will undoubtedly prove of great assistance in future years.

I3A XI

Team: R. Betts (capt.), B. Chard (vice-capt.), R. Allsop, P. Berghouse, D. Clark, J. Clarke, G. Dunn, D. Fraser, T. Grose, G. Hind, B. Lewis, K. Moon, C. Tremont.

Coach: Mr. F. Gallie.

The 13A's, although a somewhat inexperienced team, had a fairly successful season. They are, so far, undefeated in the C.H.S. competition and have enjoyed two wins, one loss and three draws in G.P.S. encounters.

Bruce Chard was the most successful batsman with scores of 72 n.o. against St. Ignatius, 46 n.o. against Scots, and particularly meritorious, 101 against Enmore. Chard was also the most consistent bowler, his best performances being 6-12, 5-15 and 5-27. Other commendable scores were 56 (R. Betts), 53 (G. Dunn), 38 (T. Grose), 36 (R. Allsop) and 32 (D. Fraser). Undoubtedly the team's weakest point was its fielding and we would like to see an improvement of this match-winning skill in the future.

The team was very capably coached by Mr. Gallie and improved visibly under his guidance.

13B XI

Team: R. Juchau (capt.), P. Bear (vice-capt.), P. Berghouse, P. Castle, R. Christie, L. Cotterill, R. Day, P. Dymock, G. Franklin, G. Gilsenan, A. Johnston, C. King, E. Kritzler, S. Lang, L. Osborne, J. Robinson, P. Wilcox, A. Williamson,

Coach: Mr. F. Gallie.

Front Row: P. Berghouse, T. Grose, R. Betts, Mr. F. Gallie, B. Chard, G. Dunn, J. Clarke.

Ground: C. Tremont. 14A XI.

The 13B's had a mixed season, a win against King's in the first match but then had a bad run, losing to Riverview, Newington and St. Joseph's. The matches against Scots and Shore ended in tense draws, with High, it is felt, in a winning position in both games. The match against Scots was our best. We closed at 1-112 and had our opponents struggling with 8-73 at the close of play. In this game the captain and vice-captain played a prominent part — Philip Bear 63 n.o. and Robert Juchau 4-20.

Some other performances worthy of mention were: Paul Berghouse's wicket-keeping; the bowling of Ross Day, Alan Williamson and Andy Johnston; Glen Gilsenan's 43 against Shore.

This team played in the G.P.S. competition but not in the C.H.S. competition. A large number of players, therefore, was given the chance to represent the school in these games because the number of boys of this age interested in, and schooled at, cricket is quite large.

There is certainly no dearth of potential grade cricketers at this age in this school.

T. OSBORNE, G.P.S. CAPTAIN

Congratulations to Trevor Osborne on his appointment as captain of the Combined G.P.S. First XI. Trevor has led the High XI this year with distinction; apart from his ability as an all-rounder he has a high concept of sportsmanship and a thorough knowledge of the game. He will, without doubt, fill this new role successfully.

FOOTBALL

The football season of 1965 was moderately successful for Sydney High. The open grades, in most cases, proved too strong for their opposition and were rewarded with victories in many of their matches. The Second XV finished co-premiers in the G.P.S. competition and outright premiers in the C.H.S. zone competition, while 5th and 6th grades were unofficial premiers in their G.P.S. matches.

The majority of this year's junior teams, however, did not enjoy the same success as the seniors. The most successful were the 14 Years teams, with the 14D's being undefeated in G.P.S. The decrease in the number of boys trying out for the junior grade is probably responsible for this lack of success. The poor attendance of the boys at the first grade games was also apparent this year. We cannot hope to attain success if we do not get the support of the junior school; firstly, by playing and learning to ensure good open grades for the future; and, secondly, by barracking for the school at the first and second grade fixtures. Junior boys should realise that they gain more from school football than from outside organisations. Playing together with school mates develops team spirit as well as character.

The coaches, as always, have done a marvellous job and have laid strong foundations for the future participation of the boys in the game. They must be thanked very sincerely for their efforts. Also to the ladies who provided the welcome afternoon teas and to the grounds committee go our deepest thanks.

FIRST XV

Team: N. Morgan (captain), J. Harris (vice-captain), T. Allen, G. Dare, C. Dawson, P. Dawson, I. Ford, K. Grover, A. Hoiles, J. Murray, L. Oates, W. Parsons, G. Quick, S. Rubinraut, D. White.

Coach: Mr. N. Ryan.

This year's First XV played a fast, attacking brand of Rugby common to the S.H.S. First Grades of recent years. The light but mobile pack of forwards, capably led by John Harris, gave the backs an even share of possession, which was used to good effect on occasions.

The team finished fifth in the competition, winning four and losing four games. Congratulations go to Ian Ford, who was selected in the combined G.P.S. Second XV, and to Trevor Allen and Neville Morgan, who were selected as reserves.

The time and efforts of our coach, Mr. N. Ryan, deserve special mention. Although comparatively new to the school, he has gained the respect of the boys and is admired by all for his football know-how and coaching attributes.

S.H.S. v. Sydney Grammar School. 12/6/'65.

The G.P.S. season opened on a bright note for High when they defeated Grammar, 24-5, at Weigall. For the greater part of the first half, the game settled into a contest between the two packs of forwards. Some spectacular actions by breakaway Murray in tackling and in beating-down kicks was one redeeming feature of the half, which produced two penalties, one by Dare and the other by Grover.

Seven minutes after half-time, Grover brushed past his opposite number and, after a fine run, passed the ball to White, who scored wide out. 9-0. Dare neatly holed the defence and passed to winger Allen, who raced away for a fine try. Grover converted. 14-0. Ross then scored, after following a kick. 14-5. From a scrum, breakaway Quick crashed over. 19-5. Nev. Morgan ran 20 yards and flicked a pass to Allen, who side-stepped several defenders to score between the posts. 24-5.

S.H.S. v. St. Joseph's College. 19/6/'65.

In a fine display of football, St. Joseph's ran out easy 25-3 winners. From the kick-off, the ball swung deep into High's twenty-five. St. Joseph's were rewarded for their vigorous play with an easy penalty, which Carpenter kicked. From a scrum in centre field, Grover's attempted field goal went just to the left of the upright. Grover then goaled to level the score at 3-3. Exploiting the short kick, Joeys broke through for the first try of the match. 3-8.

From a ruck 40 yards out the College backline moved, with O'Connor splitting the defence to score a fine individual try. 3-11. The score advanced to 3-17 with two more fine penalties by Carpenter. Grover then penetrated to the St. Joseph's twenty-five, but a knock-on halted the movement. From a scrum, breakaway Wong ran to score near the posts. Carpenter converted. 3-22. St. Joseph's went over again when a two-man overlap gave Watson an easy try.

S.H.S. v. The Scots College, 26/6/'65.

In muddy conditions and with two of their regulars out, High gained a creditable 8-3 victory over Scots at McKay. Scots, judiciously kicking overhead, forged their way to the High line. Play then fluctuated for several minutes, with Hoiles and Dare making some penetrating runs. However, the defence held until Morgan kicked ahead and Quick, following through, dived on the ball over the line. Dare converted. 5-0. From the kick-off, the Scots backs tried to penetrate but tigerish tackling by the cover defence contained them. Dare had cleared with some superb line-kicking.

After the half-time break, play swung first into Scots' twenty-five, then into High's. The High back-line then moved into gear, and Allen brought play close to the Scots line. Seizing the ball from the ensuing ruck, Harris capped a hard-working game with a try. 8-0. From a five-yard scrum, Keen barged over to score. 8-3. The slight majority of possession and tight defence gave them the edge over the heavier, less mobile Scots team.

S.H.S. v. Newington College, 3/7/'65.

In a tense, closely-contested match, Newington ran out 3-0 victors over Sydney High at McKay Ground. From a scrum 35 yards from the High line, Hoiles ran 30 yards and kicked to the Newington 10-yard line. The High backs probed the defence, but Newington continually had an overlap of defenders and penetration was impossible. Full-backs Dare and Finau were continually occupied, and seldom made mistakes.

Dare missed with a shot at penalty goal, but from a line-out near half-way Hoiles made a break and got his pass away to White, who ran well before being bundled into touch. Murray, in a desperate effort, seized the ball and dived for the line, but the defence held him back and he was unable to ground the ball. Two Newington players broke through and carried play 50 yards to the High twenty-five. Purcell then burst through on to a loose ball, kicked it over the line and dived on it for a try. 3-0.

S.H.S. v. The King's School. 10/7/'65.

In a fast, exciting match at Parramatta, the King's downed High, 19-12. From a line-out, half Shephard seized the ball and ran through unopposed to score. Nicholls converted. 0-5. Nicholls and Dare then landed penalties to make it 3-11. Hoiles, Grover and Ford all made weaving runs to the King's line, but failed to score. Allen then scored after gathering Dare's attempt at a field goal. 11-6.

From a scrum, Shephard ran the blind and scored unaided. Nicholls converted. 6-16. Nicholls again goaled, to make it 6-19. Dare then landed a penalty. 9-19. Ford made a good run; the backs moved, Grover made the break, passed to White, and Harris, backing up, scored wide out. 12-19.

The King's 19; Sydney High 12.

S.H.S. v. S.C.E.G.S. 24/7/'65.

High convincingly defeated Shore, 4 tries to 2, at Northbridge, with a sparkling exhibition of back-line play, despite a lack of possession. Cadwallader goaled to give Shore a 3-0 lead. Dare then kicked two penalties. 6-3. After a 40-yard run by Allen, all the High backs handled before White scored. Dare converted. 11-3.

Cadwallader crashed through to score wide out. From a quick heel, the High backs moved and Allen scored. 14-6. Murray then crossed over, after Dare had split the defence. The High backs were moving well every time they received the ball. White, however, dislocated his shoulder, and left the field. Pogson scored after some loose play on the High twenty-five. 17-9. Dare again chimed in and side-stepped several defenders to score.

Shore 9; Sydney High 20.

S.H.S. v. St. Ignatius' College. 31/7/'65.

In a scrappy game, High went down to Riverview by 11 points to 6. From the kick-off, Riverview attacked, but bad handling and good cover defence kept them out. With play in High's half, they infringed, and Kirby kicked two penalties. 6-0.

River scored again when Dare interfered with Kirby in a race for a loose ball over the High try-line. 11-0. The High forwards carried play 50 yards upfield. Dare then goaled. 11-2. Dare made some amazing runs through the entire Riverview pack. From a line-out, the High backs handled and Allen, after evading two tackles, scored wide out.

S.H.S. v. The Armidale School. 7/8/'65.

After meeting stiff first-half opposition from Armidale, High ran away to win. 35-3. Grover scored after Hoiles had split the defence. Dare converted. Good forward play enabled Quick and Oates to score. Armidale fought back when Biddle kicked a penalty.

The High back-line dominated play in the second half, with centre Hoiles and winger Allen outstanding. Allen, Ford and Hoiles scored after some smart back-line play. Grover converted two of these. Forwards C. Dawson and P. Dawson then scored with some fine individual efforts.

SECOND XV

(C.H.S. PREMIERS, G.P.S. CO-PREMIERS.)

Team: P. Gray (capt.), S. Fortey (vice-capt.), A. Dale, S. Gerovich, K. Glover, S. Hamilton, A. Johnston, K. King, I. Meech, R. Palmisano, M. Price, B. Sailes, G. Theodore, G. Travers, P. Walker, J. Williams, A. Wilson.

Coach: Mr. N. Ryan.

The Second XV of 1965 was a young team full of the fast, open Rugby in which spectators delight. Through competent coaching this team was moulded into an exciting, match-winning combination, for the Seconds lost only one game this season against opposing 2nd XV sides. The forwards of this team, although not large, formed a well drilled and very mobile pack, dedicated to winning the ball for a fast, elusive backline, who managed to score all the team's points in G.P.S. competition, an indication of the co-operation and unselfishness of the forwards.

The Seconds and their supporters suffered many an anxious moment throughout the season for they rarely had any points on the board before the opposition. Many games were close and two were drawn thus providing excitement for all.

Although the season was a highly successful one injuries were not unknown and only in one of the seven G.P.S. games did the original team play a full game. By far the most serious setback was the loss of captain and inside centre Peter Gray, who was badly hurt in the King's game and, following this, spent two weeks in hospital with lacerated kidneys. Peter will not be able to play any vigorous sport again. The team, coach and supporters wish him happiness for the future. Peter's place as captain was capably filled by the experienced Alex Johnston, who had the unenviable task of inspiring the team in its two hardest matches, that against St. Ignatius and the co-premiers Shore.

In eight games played before the commencement of the G.P.S. competition the Seconds scored 250 points exactly to 37 against. With a makeshift side, they lost to Fort St. 1st XV, 16-19. Their best game was the 14-6 defeat of the Waverley College side. In the first G.P.S. game against Grammar which was plagued with penalties, the team had an encouraging 5-5 draw having been unable to settle down to their accustomed brand of football. The emphasis was on open Rugby for High when they convincingly beat St. Joseph's at McKay the following week. The penetrative ability of the backs was shown to a great extent in a 14-9 win. In bad conditions versus Scots, High became sole competition leaders when their bustling forwards and superior backs had their most comfortable G.P.S. win, the score being 17-3. A slow start was nearly their downfall when Newington was narrowly defeated 6-5, the half-time score being 5-0 in their favour. Scoring two tries to one was not good enough in the game against King's, who defeated S.H.S. 6-9. Anxiety in defence led to the winning penalty goals for the King's School. High were again late starters, being behind 6-0 at half-time.

The competition lead was regained by High in the game against Shore with a great 9-5 win. Both backs and forwards played good football in a hard game.

Perhaps the most memorable game was the last one. In a desperate bid for an outright win in the competition, High played St. Ignatius, also in the running. The 6-6 draw was indicative of a hard game but the early loss of Williams was unfortunate.

The team rounded off a successful season with a most enjoyable trip to Armidale where they received wonderful hospitality.

The players would like to extend their congratulations to fellow premiership winners, Shore. They would also like to thank all those who supported them and the mothers who provided afternoon refreshments.

Foremost in every player's mind, even more than their success, is the debt they owe to their coach, Mr. N. Ryan, who is to be thanked for making a band of somewhat ordinary footballers into the first premiership winning 2nd XV the school has seen in seventeen years, and for making us realise what a valuable thing school spirit is.

THIRD XV

Team: J. Hamilton (capt.), I. Frith (vice-capt.), C. Allsop, J. Adrian, F. Barbuto, M. Brown, P. Bouris, W. Donaldson, G. Georgouras A. Hely, C. Joyce, I. Kennedy, K. King, W. Long, D. Pitt, P. Prentice, J. Sackar, G. Travers.

Coach: Mr. G. Cooney.

This year, Thirds, comprising mainly of Fifth Year boys, started the season well with eight wins out of nine games before the start of G.P.S. A fine performance was given when they were narrowly defeated by St. Pius 1st XV. In the G.P.S. competition the team met with mixed fortunes. The wins against Grammar, Newington and Scots (the second time around) were deserved; but we could only manage a draw with Riverview. When Firsts and Seconds withdrew from the C.H.S. competition, Thirds were promoted to play as First Grade. This promotion literally crippled the team. Only one player played every game in the season — in not one game after that against St. Pius was the team at full strength. I. Kennedy and W. Long joined the team after the promotion of K. King and G. Travers to Seconds midway through the season.

The team is grateful to Mr. Cooney for his time and efforts devoted to them throughout the season.

FOURTH XV

Team: P. Whyte (capt.), R. Rohr (vice-capt.), M. Brown, R. Buckley, J. Burt, R. Henning, M. Lennox, H. Merkur, P. Morris, N. Napier, A. Nicholas, G. Nicholson, N. Nicholson, P. Nosworthy, H. Sacks, P. Tremont, P. Tyson, C. Wood.

Coach: Mr. G. Cooney.

The Fourth Grade had mixed success in this year's G.P.S. competition with three draws with Grammar, Scots and Newington, while all the other games were lost or cancelled. However in the Wednesday C.H.S. competition, Fourths stepped in to take Second Grade's place and came out as premiers after sustaining only one loss. The team was unable to go well in the G.P.S. competition because of numerous injuries and players being promoted, to higher grades. Many of the Fourth Grade players have shown great promise for the coming season with A. Nicholas and Phillip Morris running well in the forwards and Col Wood and John Burt playing some good football in the backs.

Sincere thanks to Mr. Cooney for his time and patience throughout and for giving Fourth Grade a very enjoyable season.

FIFTH XV

Team: B. Smith (capt.), S. Law (vice-capt.), J. Barry, K. Berg, A. Boorer, J. Cook, I. Falson, R. Fairbairn, R. Harper, A. Karipis, I. Kennedy, K. Latona, N. Lum, J. Taylor, M. Wheatley, R. Whittle, P. Wills, A. Wilmot, J. Tyson.

Coach: Mr. J. J. Richardson.

This year's Fifth XV have had a most successful season. The team fared well, playing as Third Grade in the C.H.S.. competition and finished as Zone premiers. Success also came in the G.P.S. competition with the team ending the season as co-premiers, after having lost a game to Shore. Fortunately the team was free from injuries and, after it had settled down, good performances were turned in. The backs excelled in attack and the forwards held their own against the heavier G.P.S. packs.

The team appreciated the encouragement given by Mr. Wills at many of the games and our thanks go to Mr. Richardson for the time and interest he devoted to our training.

SIXTH XV

(UNDEFEATED G.P.S. PREMIERS.)

Team: A. Huxley (capt.), C. Bird (vice-capt.), D. Bloom, J. Brooks, P. Day, D. Goldrick, M. Jaku, A. Lathouris, I. McCrossin (D. McGill), L. Mangel, G. Matis, M. Morozov, P. Nosworthy, I. Prince, R. Radley, R. Wall.

In keeping with the fine tradition of Sydney High Open Grades, this year's Sixth Grade demonstrated its remarkable ability Saturday after Saturday, delighting its hundreds of devoted followers with impressive tackling, running, try-scoring and sheer talent. The amazing total of 230 points to 36 was amassed during the 11-match season, this despite the fact that the number of successful goal kicks failed to reach double figures.

From the initial trial against Cranbrook (won 53-0) to the final match vs. Scots (won 19-0), "The Battling Sixth", as they came to be known, displayed an ease and grace in winning, seldom seen in a schoolboy side. But success did not turn their heads — they remained the same modest, brilliant team throughout, unaffected by the glory they had won and the homage accorded them by all.

And a note to future Sixths — do your best, and strive to uphold the fine reputation we of 1965 have established.

SEVENTH XV

Team: M. Berger (captain), R. Warfield (vice-captain), J. Ferry, A. Johnson, C. Jones, M. Kalfus, G. Lewis, N. McKeand, A. Medway, J. Mock, W. Pakchung, A. Quinlan, J. Quittner, B. Sechos, S. Symonds, C. Welch, B. Wiles, R. Woods.

Coach: B. Duckworth.

The team enjoyed some success throughout the season, winning three and drawing one of the G.P.S. matches. Some of the team were playing grade football for the first time and adapted themselves remarkably well.

The wins over Scots, Shore and Riverview were due to the goal-kicking of captain Berger, supported in this department by Mock, the tight play of second-rowers Warfield and Perry, the work in the loose by Quittner and Pakchung and the penetration of Sechos in the backs.

Thanks go to Brian Duckworth, who organised the team and set it off to a thoroughly enjoyable season.

Coach: Mr. B. McFarland.

Eighth Grade started the season off with a third of its members playing Rugby Union for the first time. Unfortunately their second match was against St. Joseph's — this was their only defeat.

The following week Mr. McFarland agreed to coach them and perhaps the following scores will be an indication of his coaching abilities.

Pre-G.P.S. versus St. Pius, they lost 3-12. About six weeks later they won 48-0 against the same team! The rucking improved greatly and well calculated movements by the centres set up many tries.

The team always strove to play the best possible football and their efforts and particularly those by Mr. McFarland have been rewarded by a very successful season.

THE GENTLEMEN'S XV

Manager: Mr. J. Casev.

The mature element of the school again combined to form a traditional Gentlemen's XV. Because of the terror of other schools concerning Gent's teams, we accepted the rather ignominious title of Ninth Grade. The team, as in past years, indulged in scientific training methods, i.e., walking on and off field, tying bootlaces, etc. Due to these intensive procedures, the Gentlemen were practically undefeated in G.P.S. games.

(C.H.S. ZONE PREMIERS.)

Team: R. Miller (capt.), R. Foley (vice-capt.), J. Austin, W. Bertram, J. Brand, P. Bull, S. Clarke, P. Davies, W. Finnety, T. Fitzgerald, D. Purkiss, R. Robinson, D. Sinclair, M. Smith, M. Wheeler, G. Whitehouse, D. Whyte.

Coaches: Mr. B. McFarland, J. Nicholas, B. O'Meagher.

The team had varied success this year, winning the C.H.S. competition and having one win and a draw in the stronger G.P.S. competition. All round play by both the forwards and backs was impressive, and all players are assured of being considerably improved in the Open Grade competition next year. Much of the success was due to the fine coaching of Mr. McFarland and the team is deeply indebted to him and his student helpers.

The 15B's were reasonably successful during the season being premiers in the C.H.S. competition, with only one loss to Cleveland St. in the second round.

However, the team, usually handicapped in size and weight, had a poor G.P.S. showing-recording no G.P.S. wins. But thanks to the efforts of Mr. McFarland and the experience gained in previous matches the team improved immensely as was shown when playing in an unofficial match against a Scots' 15A team at the end of the season.

The team members would like to take this opportunity in thanking Mr. McFarland, who proved to be a most able and popular coach.

The 15C's failed to settle down during the season owing to lack of match-practice and injuries. Numerous team and positional changes prevented us from doing well in G.P.S. matches, although close, spirited games were played against Newington, Scots and Grammar. The team, however, showed some promise, mostly in patches. The best and fairest award was shared by Terry Uren and Geoff Glover.

The team wishes to thank Sam Gerovich of the Second XV for his help and encouragement in coaching us.

Coaches: D. Pitt and H. Sacks.

The team had a very enjoyable season being ably coached by D. Pitt and H. Sacks of Fifth Year. Although the team did not have great success in the G.P.S. competition the boys were enthusiastic in all their matches. Close games were played against Newington and Scots. The forwards were usually outweighed by their opponents and bad passing hindered the backline. The captain G. Wintle played consistently and R. Tregidgo proved to be very able at fullback. Halfback B. Murray gave good service from the scrums and I. Hamblen worked well in the lineouts.

14A XV

(C.H.S. ZONE PREMIERS.)

Team: P. Bentivoglio (capt.), S. Hamilton (vice-capt.), J. Brabant, N. Confos, L. Dunn, M. Georgouras, R. Hick, C. Kiriazis, P. Lewis, P. Martich, M. Middleton, E. Morgan, S. Prodes, J. Shearer, C. Spencer, C. Whelan.

Coaches: Mr. J. Parker, Jack Mock.

This year's 14A football team has vastly improved since last year when most of them were in the 13A's. With the introduction of seven new players from other teams, the team shows much potential. Led by P. Bentivoglio and assisted by S. Hamilton, the 14A's won four out of the eight G.P.S. games. They won the C.H.S. competition, winning every game.

The success of the team was mainly due to the enthusiastic coaching of Mr. Parker and Jack Mock who gave much valuable time to us.

14B XV

(C.H.S. RUNNERS-UP.)

Team: P. O'Hara (capt.), R. Bartlett-Taylor, I. Broad, G. Burns, A. Cahill, D. Cheetham, W. Evans, M. Fischer, R. Furness, B. Hartwell, R. Hick, D. Higgins, M. Luciano, S. Murchie, R. McCormick, P. Morrison, R. Piggott.

Coaches: Mr. G. Clarke and Mr. K. Monson.

This year's 14B's had mixed success being runners-up in the C.H.S. competition, and winning half of the official G.P.S. games. After being defeated by Grammar, St. Joseph's and Scots the team made a comeback in the last half of the season, to beat Newington, Shore, and the previously undefeated St. Ignatius team.

The team owes a great debt to K. Monson and G. Clarke (both Old Boys of the school) who devoted much of their time to coaching the team.

Coaches: J. Isaacs, G. Ireland.

A bad start at the beginning of the season resulted from a team not being ready. They then defeated Scots, their one and only win. During the season, boys were required for the B team and consequently the team was short. This lasted throughout the season and the others are indebted to boys from the A, B and D teams who played a second game.

The team's thanks are extended to John Isaacs and Greg Ireland who gave up their time in coaching the team.

Coaches: R. Coombs, J. deLeon.

The 14D's proved to be the glamour team of the school, being undefeated in the G.P.S. competition.

The team possessed features quite rare to junior football, those of a speedy, intelligent backline and an extremely mobile, hard hitting forward pack. Added to these qualities was a fierce determination to win each game by the largest possible margin — which we inevitably did.

We wish to thank John deLeon and Bob Coombs for their time and help throughout the season.

14E XV

The team was formed comparatively late in the season, and therefore did not reach its peak as early as desired. Although most of the members of the team are not top-grade footballers, they all played because they enjoyed the game, trained diligently, and showed much promise. The team was able to hold its own in all matches, the lightness of the forward pack being compensated by their courage, and by an able backline.

Coach: Mr. K. Swinson.

The team this year, although a light one, showed a lot of promising potential, performing reasonably well in the C.H.S. competition, in which it finished second. However the higher standard of the G.P.S. games brought out many of the team's faults both in attack and defence, and only two matches were won against St. Joseph's and Armidale. If the team learns to play with more fire and determination it can look forward to much more successful seasons in the future.

We would like to thank Mr. K. Swinson for devoting so much time and energy to coaching us throughout the season.

13B XV

(C.H.S. ZONE PREMIERS.)

Team: G. Walsh (capt.), J. Clarke (vice-capt.), C. Kyd, T. Mc-Donnell, T. Grose, K. Breakspear, P. Burgess, R. Cray, G. Gilsenan, I. Hughes, P. Wall, R. Williamson, C. White, R. Grant, B. Pateman.

Coach: P. duRhone.

The 13B had a reasonably successful season this year. The C.H.S. Zone premiership was won with only one defeat, 0-3 against Cleveland Street.

In G.P.S. we had only two wins recorded. In the matches against Scots and Newington the team played hard and fast, and were unlucky not to win.

I3C XV

Team: P. Uren (capt.), R. Waterfield (vice-capt.), P. Berghouse, B. Bradford, G. Capp, G. Fagg, S. Gell, L. Gilbert, K. Handley, E. Kritzler, C. Miller, W. Nosworthy, G. Parsons, B. Ramsey, S. Rumsey, G. Taylor, C. Goods.

Coaches: G. Martin, C. McMurray.

The 13C's had an unsuccessful G.P.S. season owing to frequent changes in both backs and forwards. This prevented the team from combining as well as it might have done. However, late in the season there was a marked improvement. L. Gilbert and R. Waterfield shared the coaches' awards.

Thanks go to the coaches G. Martin and C. McMurray for the time and energy they spent in training us.

13D XV

Team: A. Pointing (capt.), B. Dymock (vice-capt.), S. Couani, C. Davies, H. Doel, M. Feldman, S. Hansen, G. Hay, D. Horsecraft, S. Jones, P. Logan, G. Martin, C. Pokorny, T. White.

Coaches: P. Wills and R. Lewis.

Although outweighed and outclassed in most G.P.S. games the team maintained its enthusiasm and gained valuable football experience,

Losses due to failure to tackle and lack of teamwork in attack showed that more consistent attendance at practice is essential.

The team sincerely thanks coaches R. Lewis and P. Wills for their patience and encouragement throughout the season.

Coach: Mr. P. Paling.

Throughout the season the team was very inconsistent. Lack of experience and an absence of teamwork were the main factors leading to the team's downfall. Not one game in the G.P.S. competition was won. Amongst the team members are players with great potential.

The team was very capably coached by Mr. Paling and all members are grateful for his helpful advice and assistance throughout the season.

ROWING

At the beginning of the 1964-65 season the Penrith crews moved into camp at Abbotsford for the final and most intensive period of their training. The camp was a great success from all viewpoints and a great deal of useful work was done prior to the move to Penrith for the G.P.S. Regatta.

The addition of a new hot water system and some new boats in the previous year helped the season considerably. There was a good attendance of parents and friends at Open Day which was a great success.

The season was an enjoyable one for both Senior and Junior crews. The school fielded about ten crews in most of the regattas.

309 CASTLEREAGH STREET, SYDNEY.

C. W. MANSFIELD, Secretary.

The Third Four are to be commended for their fine effort on the Nepean where they achieved the only placing by S.H.S. crews. Although the season as a whole was not marked by great success in races, it was certainly a season that will be remembered by all conconcerned as one full of friendly co-operation and team spirit. Some successes were registered in C.H.S. rowing which has developed very well during the last season. The club would like to extend its best wishes to these schools for their future success in this sport.

The club was happy to welcome Mr. G. Cheers as coach to the Third and Fourth Fours and wishes to thank Mr. W. Stevenson and Colonel Duffy for the very fine effort they put into making the season a success. Congratulations to Lindsay Oates who received the award for the Most Improved Rower of the season and to Warwick Duffy who was awarded the prize for the Best "Club Member" during the season 1964-65. Grateful thanks are extended to the parent body and to all those people who have worked so hard at the sheds to help make this a successful season.

The coming year must be one in which S.H.S. comes to the front of G.P.S. rowing. Dr. Longley whom we warmly welcome as the Senior Coach must be assisted by hard work, real effort and absolute co-operation on the part of all rowers. S.H.S. can only rise again in rowing if the boys are willing to give themselves completely to the task.

Coach: Col. D. J. Duffy.

The VIII began training in December, 1964, but was disrupted by the withdrawal of two of last year's members, Tony Morgan and Greg Dare. Replacements were quickly found and the VIII went into camp at Abbotsford and began a stiff training schedule set out by their coach Des Duffy. After gaining third place at the Glebe Regatta the crew was changed again, C. Randall replacing Jeff Nicholson in the (3) seat. The VIII with their new coxswain Rob Harper now commenced their earnest preparation for the Head of the River. Towards the end of February, some internal changes were made throughout the crew, (6) and (7) changing places with (2) and (3). At this stage the VIII were producing some fine training rows under the helpful guidance of Dr. Eric Longley. After a disappointing result in the Drummoyne Regatta Nev Morgan (Stroke) and Allan Nicholson (Bow) exchanged seats.

Following this change the VIII reverted to the orthodox style and were placed a well deserved 3rd in the Maiden Eights and 2nd in the Open Eights at the Leichhardt Regatta. On the Wednesday before the main race the crew moved to Penrith and improved greatly on the calmer water, so it was with confidence and eager anticipation that the crew approached the starting line. Although the result was disappointing the VIII had an enjoyable season.

Our thanks go to Col. Duffy for the time and effort he spent. The crew would also like to thank Phil Madden for the interest he showed and the work that he did. The VIII congratulates the Scots College on their well deserved win.

FIRST IV

J. Brooks (Bow), R. Whitte (2), G. Dare (3), N. Nicholson (Stroke), R. Little (Cox).

Coach: Mr. W. R. J. Stevenson.

It is difficult to write a report on the First IV, as there were several during the season. The first major change arose when two members of the Eight withdrew, and the vacancies were filled by our original crew. We resumed training a week later with a new bow man, John Brooks. Two internal changes followed, and then, four weeks before Penrith, Greg Dare joined us in the (3) seat, after another withdrawal. The crew was finally settled one week before the move to Penrith. Although unplaced in the Yaralla Cup, all members enjoyed the rowing season and much valuable experience was gained.

A special word of praise is due here to our coach, Mr. W. R. J. Stevenson. In the face of many problems, he managed to make fine rowers of the pre-season "rabble", and this is indicative of his skill as a coach.

Racing record of the First IV:

Glebe Regatta: C.H.S. Fours-2nd.

North Shore Regatta: C.H.S. Fours-3rd.

SECOND IV

B. O'Meagher (Bow), M. Morozov (2), N. Montgomery (3), G. Travers (Stroke), C. Wood (Cox).

Coach: Mr. W. R. J. Stevenson.

The relationship between a crew and its coach is all important in rowing, and it can be truly said that the relationship between the Second IV and its coach, Mr. W. R. J. Stevenson, was a very strong bond which made the season of rowing possibly the best time that anyone in the crew has ever had.

In all its races the Second IV seldom failed to gain a place and it was clear from the start that is was a closely woven crew. Each member did his utmost for his fellow crewmen and his coach and on the whole, by the time of Penrith, the crew was as one man striving to gain prestige for his school.

Racing record of the Second IV:

Drummoyne Regatta: C.H.S. IV's—1st (record time). Riverview Regatta: School Regulation IV's (II)—4th.

C.H.S. Regatta: 4th. G.P.S. Regatta: 6th.

Head of the Northern Rivers: 2nd.

JUNIOR CREWS

Junior VIII

I. Harper (Bow), S. Lantos (2), W. Finnerty (3), T. Coleman (4), B. Connor (5), C. Welch (6), D. Foster (7), R. Foley (Stroke), D. Mitchell (Cox).

Coach: Mr. J. Campbell.

Fifth IV

P. Cullen (Bow), D. Whyte (2), D. Bull (3), C. Little (Stroke), J. Mitchell (Cox).

Coaches: Mr. I. Nichols, Mr. T. Gervay.

Sixth IV

S. Prodes (Bow), D. Luxford (2), S. Reid (3), C. Jackson (Stroke), D. Paling (Cox).

Coaches: Mr. I. Nichols, Mr. T. Gervay.

Seventh IV

Coaches: Mr. W. Wagner, Mr. P. Lardner-Smith.

Eighth IV

G. Cheers (Bow), G. Cramon (2), B. Welch (3), B. Warrel (Stroke), J. Taylor (Cox).

Coaches: Mr. W. Wagner, Mr. P. Lardner-Smith..

This year the Junior crews could not be selected until rather late in the season owing to delays in selecting Senior crews. Despite this handicap, the crews trained conscientiously. Results were promising if not particularly impressive.

Although the Junior VIII was not finalised until fairly late, they showed determination under the expert guidance of their coach. Olympic rower, Mr. John Campbell.

The Fifth and Sixth IV's, both coached by Mr. I. Nichols and Mr. T. Gervay, settled down to a vigorous training schedule both on and off the water. At the Riverview Regatta, the Fifth IV proved disappointing, whereas the Sixth IV was unlucky in that it missed its final after gaining 2nd place in the heat. Both crews wish to thank their coaches for their guidance and help during the season.

The Seventh and Eighth IV's had an enjoyable rowing season.

The crews would like to thank their coaches, Mr. P. Lardner-Smith, and Mr. W. Wagner, who were full of encouragement and consistent in their coaching.

THIRD IV

J. L. Taylor (Bow), W. G. Duffy (2), E. R. Ackman (3), A. J. Lathouris (Stroke), R. J. Madden (Cox).

Coach: Mr. G. F. Cheers.

The Third IV this year was composed of members of last year's Junior crews. They began the season with a well-rowed first placing at Glebe Regatta and followed this with placings in races throughout the season. Towards Penrith, the crew showed the strain of many weeks of hard racing and their form deteriorated considerably. At Penrith, they came a close third.

Each member of the crew thanks Mr. Gordon Cheers, for his patient and experienced guidance during the season.

Racing record of the Third IV:

Glebe Regatta: 1st.

Colleagues Regatta: 2nd. Drummoyne Regatta: 2nd. Leichhardt Regatta: 2nd.

C.H.S. Regatta: 4th. G.P.S. Regatta: 3rd.

FOURTH IV

Wally Adamson (Bow), Peter Paling (2), Jeff Puckeridge (3), Ian Meech (Stroke), Doug Blomberg (Cox).

Coach: Mr. G. Cheers.

The Fourth IV this year was a very light crew but made up for their weight disadvantage with enthusiasm and crew spirit. During training they often showed potential. Although striking bad luck at the beginning of the season the crew had fair success in regattas, often racing against Third and Second IV's.

For the first time this year the C.H.S. held a regatta in which the Fourth IV gained third place in the Second IV's race, being beaten by Narwee and Cleveland Street in a close finish (canvas, ½ length). The crew went to Penrith feeling confident of doing well and their first row on the fresh water boosted their confidence, but on the big day they were unfortunately not the best crew and finished fifth in an excitingly close finish.

The crew could not have performed so well during the season if it had not been for the coaching of Mr. Cheers. He gave a great amount of time and effort in coaching, and the crew gives him their sincere thanks for a job well done.

Racing record of the Fourth IV:

Colleagues Regatta: School Regulation IV's (II)-4th.

University Regatta: C.H.S. IV's-4th

Metropolitan Regatta: C.H.S. Second IV's-3rd.

G.P.S. Regatta: 5th.

SWIMMING

The efforts of Sydney Boys' High School swimmers were richly rewarded during the 1965 season, with an overall second placing in the City of Sydney Zone Carnival, and subsequent individual placings at the C.H.S. Carnival. Notable amongst these performances was that of Graham Dunn, who, after numerous wins in the Zone Carnival, went on to be successful in the C.H.S. Butterfly stroke championship in record time. Other creditable finalists were Robert Wav. third in the 16 Years Breaststroke, Colin Whelan, third in the 14 Years Backstroke and Peter Bentivoglio, fifth in the 14 Years Butterfly. A highlight of the season was the G.P.S. Invitation Medley Relay at the School Carnival, which the High team won after a stirring tussle with Shore and Scots, 1965 will be remembered fondly by Graham Dunn as he won the Australian Junior Butterfly title against strong opposition in the championships held in Melbourne. Indeed, Graham and several of our junior swimmers should keep Sydney High's name well to the fore in swimming for several years to come.

On a more sombre note the general response to the school carnival has been very disappointing, with many events being conducted without a full complement of starters. This is a poor attitude from a school ideally situated to swimming facilities during leisure time.

From a health point of view swimming is universally accepted as the best general conditioner of all sports, with particular benefit to the heart and lungs. Asthmatics and allied sufferers can also derive great benefit from active participation, so let's see a more concerted response to our next school carnival. After all, to compete is the thing, not so much to win.

BASKETBALL

Basketball has had a particularly successful season, four of the six teams are so far undefeated, and the 1st Grade is undoubtedly one of the finest the school has produced. Inspired by their captain, Ron Furness, they have not yet been seriously tested by an opposing team, and Furness himself has won selection in the State under 18 team. The junior sides have had mixed success, but the performance of the 13 Years team is especially pleasing and augurs well for the future. Much of the credit for their success must go to the vigorous coaching of Mr. Salmon. Basketball is a most demanding sport, requiring complete physical fitness, a high degree of skill and above all teamwork. Boys who are anxious to play a fast vigorous summer sport are well advised to consider it for next summer.

FIRST GRADE

UNDEFEATED C.H.S. PREMIERS.

Team: Ron Furness (capt.), C. Dawson, P. Dawson, L. Mangel, G. Theodore, J. Williams, S. Woods.

Coach: Mr. L. Ross.

This year's First Grade is possibly the best Sydney High has ever had. Comprising under 18 State representative Ron Furness (capt.), Paul and Chris Dawson, Jeff Williams, Leon Mangel, George Theodore and Steve Woods, the team is to date undefeated in the C.H.S. competition having won two games in which they scored over 100 points.

Tall men Mangel and Theodore supply the team with a great deal of the ball. Backbone of the team are Furness and the Dawsons, who have played together in school and competition basketball for the past two years. Due credit must go to Jeff Williams, top scorer, who thus contributes greatly to his team's victories.

Furness, the Dawson twins, Williams, Mangel and Theodore made the Zone team, and Furness and the Dawsons gained selection in the C.H.S. team.

The team, which included Second Graders Anderson, Bloom and Ford, was placed third in the under 18 State Schoolboy Championships.

First Grade, who have won the competition for the second year in succession, greatly appreciate Mr. Ross' keen and active interest in them.

SECOND GRADE

C.H.S. CO-PREMIERS.

Team: D. Bloom (capt.), D. Byrd, P. Bowman, A. Dale, I. Ford, K. Green, J. Mock, J. Anderson.

This year's Second Grade is living up to the high standard which was set by last year's Seconds who were runners-up to Cleveland Street. They were undefeated till the last game, when Cleveland St. beat them by three points, making them co-premiers.

Much of the team's success is due to D. Bloom's capable leadership and keenness throughout the season. He is well supported by a team evenly balanced in skill and co-ordination. The main strength of the team lies in the ability of its two tall centres K. Green and J. Anderson who have dominated the rebounds throughout the season thus giving

MEDICAL BENEFITS FUND OF AUSTRALIA

HOSPITAL AND MEDICAL BENEFITS

STUDENT DEPENDANTS

The rules of the Medical Benefits Fund of Australia provides a cover for unmarried Student Dependant children who have attained 16 years of age.

These days most parents have insured themselves and their children against the cost of hospital and medical care.

This cover for Student Dependant children will be of inestimable value to parents of school children when considering expenses associated with secondary and tertiary education.

It is noticed many parents hold the mistaken belief that the Medical Benefits Fund does not cover school accidents. It is quite unnecessary for parents to incur additional expense for school accident insurance for hospital and medical care. Without extra payment the parents' family contributions cover not only school accidents but sickness and accidents at home.

Under the Rules all student children over the age of 16 years can be covered by the parents' family rate membership provided the student is not in receipt of income.

To include student children attaining 16 years of age it is necessary to make special application to the Fund Office or local Agent to obtain a Student Dependancy form.

The completed form and parents' membership book should be sent to:

THIRD GRADE

UNDEFEATED C.H.S. PREMIERS.

Team: R. Weiner (capt.), P. Whyte (vice-capt.), N. Ellard, R. Grayson, J. Brown, J. Law, N. Lum, G. McKenna.

Coach: Mr. G. Sims.

This is the first time Sydney High has had a Third Grade (Open) team, an innovation which up to date has proved worthwhile.

The team played its first match on the day of its selection and, with this in view, did remarkably well to win by a comfortable margin. As the season progressed, the team developed a spirit which contributed to its undefeated record. With two schools to play, the team seems set to take out the premiership.

A characteristic of Sydney High School Third Grade matches, was its ability to field a fresh team after each time out. This was due to the unusually large team of ten. Top scorers were Neil Ellard and Rick Grayson, who were ably supported by the rest. Ralph Weiner proved a capable captain.

The members of the team wish to thank their coach Mr. Sims for his encouragement.

Coach: Mr. G. Sims.

Unfortunately the team has not been very successful in the first half of the season; in the six games, one was won, one was drawn and four lost. This has been due mainly to a lack of teamwork, which it is hoped will be rectified, thus giving the team a chance to improve its record. Despite these defeats the players have shown an abundance of spirit and enthusiasm and have played their hardest right to the full time whistle.

The team's sincere thanks go to Mr. Sims for his support and helpful advice during the season and also to Mr. Salmon for his help when Mr. Sims commitments to Third Grade rendered him unable to attend all the games.

14 YEARS

Team: R. Furness (capt.), D. Cheetham, T. Elvy, N. Hurst, B. Jakeman, K. Mackenzie, C. Whelan.

Coach: Mr. D. Salmon.

The 14 Years Grade team has performed well after two early defeats by the highly polished Fort Street team. On those occasions the High team failed to maintain pressure throughout its games. However, wins have replaced defeats — the team is sure to finish high in the competition ladder at the end of the season. Leading scorers are Furness, Jakeman and Whelan.

13 YEARS

Team: P. Paitry (capt.), D. Joffe (vice-capt.), M. Almond, S. Fenton, K. Howland, T. Keen, W. Steele, S. Theodore.

Coach: Mr. D. Salmon.

The 13 Years Grade team has played a number of tense matches, sometimes winning only seconds before the final bell. A feature of its play has been its determination, a will-to-win matched by fine sportsmanship. Leading scorers are Paitry and Joffe.

WATER POLO

FIRST GRADE

Team: W. Parsons (capt.), J. de Leon (vice-capt.), C. Bird, G. Dare, I. Frith, J. Giles, C. Joyce, H. Merkur, J. Murray.

Coach: Mr. C. R. Wegener.

Although the team did not live up to expectations this year we were quite successful, being defeated in only one game. This one game however was just enough to lose us the premiership. The team, ably led by W. Parsons, began to function well after this setback.

The forwards, Bill Parsons, John de Leon, Chris Joyce and Colin Bird breached the defence on innumerable occasions, each player having his share of the goals. The backs, led by John Murray and including John Giles, Harry Merkur and Ian Frith, formed a solid, wall-like defence. Very few goals were scored against them; the goal-keeper Greg Dare, although he had little work to do, did very well when he was needed.

Two players, John de Leon and Bill Parsons, attained a standard high enough to be selected in the two C.H.S teams. The First Grade C.H.S. team, in which John participated as a back, toured to Wagga and was extremely successful in all games played there. The Second Grade C.H.S. team with Bill Parsons as captain defeated Teachers' College at the North Sydney Olympic Pool.

The team would like to thank Mr. Wegener for his time and also for his advice throughout the season.

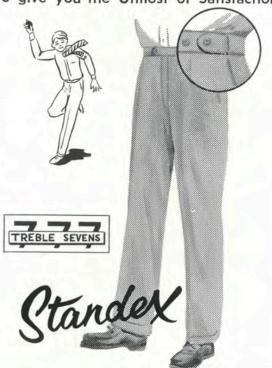

SECOND GRADE

Team: M. Smith (capt.), P. Bentivoglio (vice-capt.), F. Barbuto, L. Bear, C. Brown, M. Brown, R. Dodgson, G. Dunn, A. Lawrence, P. O'Hara, P. Quittner.

Coach: Mr. C. R. Wegener.

The team has met with varied success and seems likely to do well in the C.H.S. zone competition provided systematic training can be maintained. The team has proved itself both in attack and defence Standex TREBLE SEVENS College Slacks.

Coach: Mr C., R. Wegener.

The team started off the season badly, losing most of the early games, but they have shown that they are a spirited team and eager to win. J. Turtle a former Third Grader, 1964, has played well as centre forward, also L. Dunn who has been playing in the backs throughout the season. Newcomers such as K. Handley and S. Gekk are coming regularly to practice and show great promise.

The team would like to thank Mr. Wegener, for his keen interest, and Bob Vadis, an ex-captain of Sydney High First Grade, who has been giving up his Saturday mornings to train us.

ATHLETICS

The athletics season this year started very successfully with many fine performances being recorded at the school carnival. The team then went on to win the C.H.S. Zone Carnival by a considerable margin. However the all-round ability of Riverview in the G.P.S. Carnival proved superior and High was beaten into 3rd place in the Senior Division. Congratulations Riverview!

The most outstanding athlete this year has been Ken Grover who recorded a magnificent sprint double in the 100 and 440 Yards Open Championships at the G.P.S. Carnival. J. Giles has been noteworthy in his efforts with the discus and shot. His discus throw earned him a C.H.S. Open title. Worthy of mention also were our two Open jumpers, A. Williams and M. Morozov, the latter clearing a surprising 5' 10" at G.P.S. Many of our junior athletes have developed into promising senior prospects. A. Brown, L. Forrest and M. Georgouros each had comfortable wins in their events.

Much of the credit of the team's success must go to Mr. Fielding, who devoted so much of his time to the organizing and training of the team as a whole. The team thanks him for his advice and practical assistance throughout the season.

TENNIS

First Grade: N. McKeand (capt.), W. Pryor, J. Anderson, N.

Second Grade: R. Beattie (capt.), K. Green, W. Clayton, D. Grayson.

Coach: Mr. K. Cooper.

Top Row: K. Green, R. Grayson, Bottom Row: G. Deutsch, R. Beattie, W. Clayton.

At the start of the season, First Grade, due to a lack of practice could only manage to win one match in the first round. However, in the second round, they performed exceptionally well, and were beaten only once. This match against Ibrox Park was a see-saw battle throughout and was not decided till the last set, Ibrox Park winning it 6-5 after High had led 3-0. Consequently High lost by one game.

Second Grade, with a strong team, performed well throughout the season, losing only one match. This match against Randwick was closely contested, with Randwick the eventual winners by one game. During the rounds High had two very good wins against the strong Fort Street side and finished C.H.S. Premiers.

All players take this opportunity to thank Mr. Cooper who spent a great deal of time getting both teams to their peak.

Third Grade: G. Odze (capt.), B. Jakeman, N. Nicholls, I. Dickings, R. Walker.

Fourth Grade: A. Price (capt.), S. Lang, G. Hind, D. Campbell, P. Warnecke.

Coach: Mr. K. Cooper.

Third Grade had a very successful season, finishing second in the overall competition table. The team played consistently throughout and lost only two matches, both to Ibrox Park. We were unlucky not to finish co-premiers as the premiers beat us by only two games at our first clash. The team shows much promise and will probably field the back-bone of next year's senior team.

Fourth Grade fared well during the season, winning a large share of their matches. The boys played with great interest and all their matches were closely fought. The team, comprised mainly of newcomers to competitive tennis, gained valuable experience and should prove a good combination in future years.

All the boys would like to thank Mr. Cooper for his help and guidance during the season.

BADGE REGULATIONS

Blazers

Every boy on becoming a financial member of the Union is entitled to wear a blazer with the School crest embroidered on the pocket. No authority is needed.

Sports Pocket

A specially designed sports pocket may be worn by a boy, who in one or more of the following sports, has represented the School in at least one half of the total matches played by his team:—

Athletics: C.H.S. (Zone) or G.P.S. Carnivals; C.H.S. Cross Country (Zone).

Basketball: All grades, C.H.S. Competition.

Cricket: All grades, C.H.S. and G.P.S. matches.

Rifle Shooting: Grades 1 and 2, G.P.S. Competition.

Rowing: All crews representing in official rowing fixtures. Rugby Union: All grades C.H.S. Competition, and/or G.P.S. and other official Saturday matches.

Swimming: C.H.S. (Zone) Carnival.

Tennis: All grades — C.H.S. Competition.

Water Polo: All grades - C.H.S. Competition.

In each case written authority must be obtained from the Secretary of the School Union.

Strips

Strips may be worn by a boy who has:

(a) played in at least one half of the possible C.H.S. and/or G.P.S. Competition matches in either 1st or 2nd Grade in:

Basketball, Rifle Shooting, Cricket, Tennis, Football or Water Polo.

- or (b) been a member of the Rowing VIII, 1st, 2nd, 3rd or 4th IV's (G.P.S. Regatta)
- or (c) represented the School in the Senior, 16 years or 15 years divisions at the Combiend Athletics or Swimming Carnivals
- or (d) represented the Zone in the Senior, 16 years or 15 years divisions of C.H.S. Cross-Country Athletics Championship.

Provided that the boy has, in the opinion of the Master-in-Charge, represented his School in a sportsmanlike manner, and fulfilled all his obligations as a member of a team.

In each case the Master-in-Charge, at the end of the season, will compile a list of boys recommended for the award, and written authority will then be given by the Secretary of the School Union.

Wording of Strips

The strips will be in blue and worded as follows:

Athletics: Athletics (year); C.H.S. Athletics (year).

Basketball: 1st Grade or 2nd Grade (year); C.H.S. Basketball 1st or 2nd Grade (year).

Before any of the above badges and awards may be added to the blazer the requisite authority must be obtained from the Secretary to the School Union.

This will state EXACTLY what is to be placed on the blazer, and may be taken to any reliable firm selected by the applicant.

BLUES AWARDS

- 1. Nominations may be made only by a sub-committee consisting of a maximum number of three boys to the Master-in-Charge of each First Grade sport. These nominations shall be conveyed to the Blues Committee by the Master-in-Charge who may add, but not delete, any names.
- 2. The Blues Committee will consist of the Master-in-Charge of each sport, together with the Secretary of the School Union and the Sportsmaster, who will act as Chairman. The Chairman will have a deliberative as well as a casting vote.

- 3. Each nomination shall be considered separately, and each case shall be judged on its merits.
- 4. The Blues Committee shall make recommendations to the Headmaster on the basis of:
 - (a) Excellence in a branch of sport; in the cases of Cricket and Football a boy must, in the opinion of the Committee, have attained the standard of those selected in the 1st or 2nd C.H.S. or G.PS. representative teams;
 - (b) Sportsmanship.
- 5. The Headmaster, in consultation with the Deputy Headmaster and Sportsmaster, shall consider each recommendation, and, if satisfied as to the boy's conduct and general attitude, shall give his approval.
- 6. An Honour Cap may be awarded to a boy who has shown outstanding merit in a number of sports, providing that such an award is in accordance with the regulations governing the awarding of blues.
- 7. All recommendations made and approved in accordance with clauses 4, 5 and 6 shall be presented to the General Committee as decisions of the Blues Committee and such decision shall be final.

High Honours

REAR-ADMIRAL H. B. FARNCOMB, C.B., D.S.O., M.Y.O.

In all the decades of Sydney High School, there have been many men who have excelled in their respective spheres of activity. Of those who have joined the Armed Services, Rear-Admiral H. B. Farncomb must rank as one of the most illustrious. A year before his retirement he was Admiral Commanding all His Majesty's Australian ships, the ultimate for any Australian who joins the Navy.

Harold Farncomb was at High for two yers (1911-1912) before he decided, because of a "rather strong feeling for the Navy", to enter the R.A.N. College, Geelong, early in 1913 as one of the "first term" midshipmen. Of High his clearest recollection is of his teacher of German, whose lessons usually reverted to the Franco-Prussian War! In December, 1916, he passed out from the College at Jervis Bay, the top of the first term to graduate into the newly formed R.A.N.

REAR-ADMIRAL FARNCOMB.

After serving on H.M.S. "Royal Sovereign" in the Grand Fleet in the North Sea in 1917-1918, he carried out Sub-Lieutenants' courses in 1920, in which he gained first-class passes in all five subjects. He was appointed Captain of H.M.A.S. "Perth" in England in June, 1939, and spent the first two years of the second world war on the ocean trade routes in commerce protection. From June, 1940, he was engaged on H.M.A.S. Canberra in escorting troop convoys and raider hunting in the Indian Ocean and in that ship in March, 1941, he intercepted the German supply ships "Coburg" and "Ketty Brovig" near the Seychelles Islands. In December, 1941, Farncomb took command of H.M.A.S. "Australia" (which, he feels, is the greatest ship in which he served). While serving in her in the Battle of Coral Sea, he was mentioned in despatches; while still on board the "Australia" he took part in the landing at Guadalcanal in Present students of the school will thus be enabled to become acquainted with the achievements as well as the views and recollections of men, themselves former pupils, who have made their mark on the community.

1942. For his work in this general area, he was awarded the D.S.O.

Early in 1944 he proceeded to the United Kingdom. In May he was appointed to command the aircraft-carrier "Attacker" and in this ship took part in the invasion of Southern France in August. Following this, he proceeded to the Aegean Sea where the ship played its role in assaults on German garrisons in the Greek Islands and the Gulf of Salonica and provided air cover during the re-occupation of Athens. He was mentioned in despatches twice for services in these various operations.

After returning to England in November, 1944, Farncomb flew back to the South-West Pacific area and at Manus Island took command as Commodore, 1st Class of the Australian Squadron, flying his Broad Pennant in the "Australia". In her he took part in the invasion of Luzon in January, 1945 (for which he received the C.B.); after the ship was damaged by five direct hits from kamikaze aircraft, Farncomb transferred to the "Shropshire" and later to the "Hobart" serving in these ships in the attack on Corregidor (Manila Bay), the operations against Brunei and Labuan, Balikpapan and Miri in Borneo, and Wewak. Commodore Farncomb was awarded the U.S. Navy Cross and Commander, U.S. Legion of Merit, for his part in these operations.

In August, 1945, he was appointed Commodore Superintendent at Flinder's Depot in Victoria, and in 1946 Commodore Commanding the Fleet. In 1947 he was promoted Rear-Admiral, Commanding His Majesty's Australian Fleet. Rear-Admiral Farncomb considers this appointment to fleet command as the highlight of his career.

A couple of years after his retirement in 1951, he commenced to read Law and was admitted to the Bar of N.S.W. in 1958. He transferred to solicitor in 1963.

Among his many varied interests, Rear-Admiral Farncomb finds education systems among the most interesting. Replying to a question on education in general, he said that he followed the new education system and certainly found it vastly different to the education he received. He feels, however, that too much emphasis is being placed on the sciences, for he considers English and other humanities very important. According to him, this over-emphasis on technological subjects is producing too many half-baked scientists and not enough "fully cooked" ones. He feels that everyone should study a language; for example he studied French and German at school and found the latter most helpful during the war, but he also reminded us of the importance of the classics. He was extremely lucky that Latin was no longer needed for Law when he took it up, but he admits that the other classics, Ancient History and Greek, as well as Archaeology have always interested him.

Finally, Rear-Admiral H. B. Farncomb summed up the discussion: "Unfortunately, I find tradition sadly neglected among the younger generation. Tradition rids one of one's brashness — I consider this a good thing."

Rear-Admiral Farncomb was interviewed by W. Donaldson and J. Isaacs (4A).

High Honours

ALBERT H. PELHAM

Albert H. Pelham is another Old Boy who has brought honour to the name of Sydney High School. It is to men like Mr. Pelham that the school can attribute its wonderful tradition.

Mr. Pelham has had a distinguished career as a teacher, headmaster, lecturer, and later, as Inspector of Classics in New South Wales, and is now in charge of the University Branch of the Department of Education. This office controls, among other things, the award of Commonwealth University Scholarships.

Mr. A. PELHAM.

Born in 1906, Albert Pelham was educated at St. Mary's and at Canterbury before winning a scholarship to the then Mary Ann Street premises of Sydney High School. He was subsequently awarded a bursary. In 1919, he passed the Intermediate Examination obtaining seven "A's". In the 1922 Leaving Certificate Examination, he obtained 1st Class Honours in English, Greek and Latin (topping the Greek Honours List; 2nd in the Latin Honours) and also came top of the Bursary List tenable at the University. On the results of the 1922 Leaving and the 1923 Matriculation Examination, Albert Pelham was awarded the Bowman-Cameron Scholarship for General Proficiency, and the Cooper Scholarship for Classic.

While at High, he played Rugby Union in every grade, both C.H.S. and G.P.S. In 1922, Albert became a prefect, and a member of the School Union Committee. He also played in theatricals, was a sub-editor of "The Record", and a member of the debating team for two years. Albert was the captain of the victorious 1921 G.P.S. team, and of the 1922 team which was "runners-up" to Sydney Grammar.

After leaving High, Albert spent three years at Sydney University (1923-1925), before embarking for England (on a Travelling Cooper Scholarship). An overseas education seemed better suited, for in those days Australian tertiary systems were not as far advanced as they are today. When he left school his only aim in life "was to study what I was interested in . . . Classics". Accordingly, in 1926, he gained a Classical Tripos at Cambridge University. Mr. Pelham regards education overseas in his time as essential but considers it is different now.

When Albert Pelham returned from England, his career led him to a lectureship at Sydney Teaching College, and then to Newcastle High as a Master of Classics. Then, in 1940, he returned to Sydney High, as he puts it, "by chance". There had been in immense change in Sydney Boys' High School. While he was a schoolboy, High was a highly selective school consisting almost entirely of bursars of whom he was one. Although bursars were still prominent in their numbers, Mr. Pelham was rather more impressed in the school's increase in size. "By moving its premises, the school had changed tremendously. From 450 boys at Mary Ann Street, Ultimo, High had become a large school consisting of 800 boys. There was a vast improvement in sport, and general school spirit was extremely high. Some teachers, such as Mr. Towns and Mr. Moore, were still at the school - generally there were enough teachers to form a link between the old and the new. On the whole, the teachers were changing in so far as they were younger and appealed more to the pupils. Sydney High had lost its cosiness, but had gained integration."

Leaving Sydney High for the second time, his teaching career led him to Goulburn High School as Deputy Headmaster and then to Narrandera High as Headmaster. Later he became Inspector of Classics for New South Wales, a position which he held till his present appointment.

Although Albert Pelham left Sydney High so long ago, connections with the school are far from being severed. He belongs to the Old Boys' Union (which he regards as the most effective in the State), and watches football matches "when I get the chance".

"Being in charge of Commonwealth Scholarships, Mr. Pelham has, quite naturally, the excellent opportunity to compare the standards of education in the State, and in particular, at Sydney Boys' High with what they were when he was at school. "Sydney High now has definitely higher standards of education than in my day, since it is now much harder to matriculate; however, fewer boys do superbrilliantly."

Mr. Pelham regards an education in Classics as an "essential", and claims that a person is just not educated unless he has studied Latin or Greek. Therefore, it would not be surprising to learn that he is a Vice-President of the Classical Association of New South Wales, whose aim is to further Classics in this State. He is also the founder of the Arts Association.

As advice to those boys leaving school, Mr. Pelham remarked: "Everybody should strive for a University education, as it can only be an advantage. Once at University, students must be prepared to work on their own — they will seldom find lecturers making concerted efforts to help them as individual students."

Mr. Pelham was interviewed by D. Taylor and R. Beran (4A).

High Honours

R. T. McKAY

When one looks back through the annals of S.H.S., one must always note the most conspicuous and outstanding work done for the school by the late Mr. R. T. McKay. It has been justly claimed that, in terms of material help, Mr. McKay has been one of the school's greatest benefactors. A man of vision and determination, he served the school through the O.B.U. over many years and in many ways. It was due primarily to his untiring efforts that the school possesses the fine sportsground it does today.

Robert Thomas McKay, born at Batlow, N.S.W., in 1867, was enrolled at S.H.S. in April, 1884, and left in December of the same year. After leaving school Mr. McKay studied surveying, passing the Land Surveyor's Examination in 1891. He joined the engineering staff of Department of Public Works in the same year and was trained in design and construction of water supply and sewerage schemes and harbour works. Four years later he was appointed

Mr. R. T. McKAY.

Assistant Engineer for the Water Supply and the next year to the post of Relieving Resident Engineer at Ballina, N.S.W. and later at Newcastle. Thereafter Mc. McKay filled capably a long series of responsible and exacting positions in the Public Service.

Between 1896 and 1902, Mr. McKay was Resident Engineer for Sydney and suburbs sewerage scheme and was responsible for and supervised the construction of extensive works. In 1902-03 he was appointed Principal Officer of the Interstate Royal Commission on the Murray River, established to enquire into the just allotment of the waters of the Murray River and its tributaries among the States of New South Wales, Victoria and South Australia for purposes of water conservation, irrigation and navigation. He was also Engineer and Secretary to the Royal Commission appointed in 1904 to enquire into the practicability of constructing locomotives in N.S.W. In the same year he qualified as Associate Member of the Institute of Civil Engineers, London.

He lectured at Sydney University on water conservation and irrigation and was invited to lecture at a premier's conference on the question of the Murray waters. Between 1905 and 1911 he was a member of the Water Conservation, Irrigation and Drainage Board of N.S.W., and was connected with many irrigation and electric power projects throughout the State.

In 1911 he was appointed Chief Assistant Engineer for the State of Queensland, which position he relinquished in the same year to become Chief Engineer for Geelong Waterworks and Sewerage Trusts. From 1917 to 1922 he was Consulting Engineer to the Commonwealth Government in connection with the bulk handling of wheat. This involved the advances of £3,000,000 to the States of New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia and Western Australia. He was a Commissioner and Deputy President of the Sydney Harbour Trust between 1922 and 1930 and, following his retirement in January, 1936, he entered private practice as a Consulting Engineer.

In his profession, Mr. McKay became one of the foremost engineers in Australia, having associations with many great engineering projects which have played an important part in the development of the country. Throughout his long and distinguished career he was a persistent advocate for the use of the waters of the Snowy River to supplement the flow of the Murrumbidgee. This scheme came to fruition when the Snowy River Hydro-Electric Project was commenced. Although Mr. McKay, who died in 1949, did not see the commencement of this scheme, he knew it had been finally accepted.

It was McKay, when President of the O.B.U. in 1925-1927, who conceived the idea of leasing nineteen acres of swampy land near the western gates of Centennial Park. Mr. McKay succeeded in persuading the government of the time to grant the lease and an agreement was duly signed in which he was named one of the trustees. Mr. McKay now tackled the apparently insuperable task of reclamation of the swamp. It was the time of the economic depression and the problems — especially finance — seemed unconquerable. However, Mr. McKay was not to be deterred. He put the problem to the Unemployment Relief Council which made an initial grant of £7,000 for reclaiming the area. A later grant of £2,200 was also made, again thanks to the efforts of one man who spared no effort in his endeavour to finance the project. For the next four years Mr. McKay made an almost daily inspection of the work, supervising all of its various projects.

Mr. McKay was rewarded for his diligence when the field was named in his honour. In the words of Mr. H. Wiedersehn: "Mr. McKay was a quiet-mannered man but his firm belief that he owed a lot to his old school inspired him to achieve for it the long wanted sportsground of its own. It was my privilege to be associated with Mr. McKay over these years and his patience, consistency of purpose and powers of persuasion left an indelible impression on me. Subsequent generations at High since the construction of the McKay Sportsground owe him much." Indeed Mr. McKay was an example of how much an Old Boy who has a deep love for his school can help in a material way even though he had a demanding Public Service career as well.

THE BEST PART OF OUR LIVES

William Augustus Samuel Beresford dolefully dragged himself into the crowded classroom. His face looked drawn and sullen, the only one among the forty rather boisterous boys of the fourth form at the District High School. With great effort he slowly worked himself into his hard, wooden desk and looked about the classroom blankly.

Still the same rowdy lot. Faver's giving Burran their daily arm-wrestle; as usual Faver's winning. James, the great librarian, holder of authority and collector of all monies in that distant territory, is vividly recounting the events of the previous night's wrestling match. Did Kolowalski and Shintaro beat the "Mighty Goliath" and Dominoe Garabaldi? I'll find out later. He'll kill poor "Tiny" if he demonstrates further. Tyler's giving his usual lecture on our failing school spirit. Must remember to give him a soap-box for his birthday—the flat would be an ideal spot for him to preach. His thoughts were quickly interrupted when his English teacher, Mr. Small, walked in briskly. "Open your 'Macbeth' at page forty-nine. What is your opinion of the soliloquy?"

Beresford painfully opened to the page and stared fixedly at it.

The handle toward my hand? Come, let me clutch thee:
I have thee not yet I see thee still,
Art thou not fatal

Fatal. That was the word that made him stop.

Brother, did I have a fatal afternoon yesterday. I shouldn't have taken Cheryl to the Yoga Demonstration. How could I help if I got tangled up? Still, it must have been humiliating for her to have to untangle my feet. I'll have to send her a gift. Better still, I'll ring her up. What did I learn anyway from that silly demonstration? Meditate, the demonstrator said. I do that every day at school. He said that yoga is supposed to relax you. How can you relax in such an awkward position with your muscles ready to give way? It's like trying to sleep on a bed of nails as those magicians do. There must be a trick to it. If I could sleep on a bed of nails I wouldn't need a back scratcher. At least I've learnt not to try yoga anymore. I hope Cheryl's not mad at me. It's great to have a close friend to whom you can confide. Imagine poor Ponsonby with a girl? Hah. . . .

"Is there anybody who wishes to purchase a Football Programme?"

Uh? Football Programme? Better buy one. If I don't that Classics teacher will be on me like a flash for not having enough school spirit, and I couldn't go through one of his sermons again. What an afternoon I had! Let's hope Cheryl's not mad at me. How could I have helped it? Does she like me? I wonder.

"Beresford! What do you think of Lady Macbeth's manner in the second scene?"

"Well, sir, it would seem to me that Lady Macbeth stands out in the way she twists Macbeth around her little finger."

"Why would you say this?"

"Well, because she thinks Macbeth has no guts to kill a person and so she takes over his mind and uses him as a tool. He does everything she says."

"A very good answer, Beresford."

I'll think I'll take her out. Bowling, maybe? No, that's no good. She'll beat me. Ice skating? I can't skate, anyway. Maybe I'll take her to a wrestling match? Yes. That's it.

"Beresford! How would you prove that the diagonals of a parallelogram bisect each other using co-ordinate geometry?"

"Uh? Yes, Mr. Small. Oh, I mean Mr. Kildare. Well, firstly I would analyse the problem, study it carefully and ascertain the facts. Then I would draw the figure, being very careful not to make a mistake. After I have done this . . . um. What was the question, again, sir?"

"Oh, Beresford. What shall we do with you? Tell him how to prove that the diagonals bisect each other, Jacobs."

At a wrestling match I'd feel at home. Yes. That's it. Look at sloppy Wolfe with his mouth wide open. Catching flies again, I suppose? (Yawn). I'm tired. This school life gets me down. It's so boring. The bell at last? It's been a long time.

"Beresford, come here!"

"Yes, Mr. Kildare?"

"You don't seem to be paying enough attention lately. Perhaps you should move down to the front of the class?"

"I don't think so, sir. It's just that I have been very busy with a number of pressing problems which have taken up a lot of my time."

"Other subjects, eh? Well, don't let your Maths suffer because of your other studies. Humanities aren't the only important ones, you know."

"Yes, Mr. Kildare."

Why doesn't he be as considerate as Mr. Novak? Ah, it looks like another busy day ahead. I've been working too hard. Maybe I should take a couple of days off. That would be ideal. Can't let the world lose a valuable person like me through a heart attack.

I'll have to ease up. A couple of days off would be fine. By the time I'm thirty the Queen will give me an M.B.E. and then I'll do the usual thing and have the greatest honour in sending it back to her. Fancy a person like me receiving the M.B.E. She'll give it to anyone nowadays. First the Beatles, then Mavis Bramston, and now me. They'll have to honour me another way. I shan't accept an M.B.E. What's this? Library already? I'll have to get my pennies ready to give into the fines box. They can't say I don't support the school. Look how much money I've given to the Library! They should install escalators here. Fancy expecting me to walk all the way to the Library! Oh hum (yawn).

TRIGONOMETRY

"Let A, B and C, a triangle be.

Let C equal 90 degrees."

Then pupils take fright, they know what's in sight,

They know they are in stormy seas.

Trigonometry grim from a teacher so dim

And a text-book that has them all vexed.

And the teacher will rave in a voice that is grave,

"I know this will have you perplexed."

"Did you know that BC on this line AB
Is how we find sine angle A?
And the cosine of A is equal, we say,
To AC on what is BA.

"'Tis easy to see that tan A must be
The size of BC on CA.
These values hold true for each angle we do.
Now what do you boys have to say?"

The classroom then fills with dull-witted dills

At the sound of those boring groans

From one who can talk, then scribble with chalk

About nothing—in slow monotones.

And all his talk might make the teacher seem bright,
But we know this is really not true.
'Cause out in the ground, the teacher, we found,
Can't even add up two and two.

J. MITCHELL, 3A.

FOOTBALL

The scrum was played And they had won. A flying tackle, The job was done.

We had possession, They tackled hard; We kept possession, And gained a yard.

The ball was passed, The backline moved. Our strength at the last Had yet to be proved.

"Hold that pill,"
Came the winger's cry.
"We can win it still,
With another try."

Our centre man fell, They were ahead. We heard the bell — Our hopes were dead.

The match was finished, For the game there was praise; Our spirits weren't diminished, There'd be other days.

T. BOOLER, 2B.

IN THE YEARS OF MAN . .

Before the sun has scaled the peaks of time, He said, I will return.

And when the sun was but a candle, brightening, Lighting the dim recesses of frosty gorges, icy from the cold of antiquity

He set off.

It is long, long since his departure;
The land is bleached now, for the sun is Far past its zenith, and the dry dust swirls in the still air.
Still we wait—we can but hope.
There is so little time, so little time.

A. HUXLEY, 5A.

CONFLICT

Headquarters of Red Army Three was situated in the thirtyseventh sector. Seated in one of the many tents that lined the Main Way was Red Army Three's Commissar for Co-ordination. He was engrossed in a thick folder which had been placed on his desk only seconds before.

"More of them," he said to himself; "more of those blasted reports."

For some time now reports had been flowing in from sector twenty-three about the re-appearance of the Coccilians. Only a short time before sector twenty-one had had the same trouble. Here they had been defeated, but not until after a bloody battle, inflicting many losses in the Red Army. The Co-ordinator dreaded sending his faithful troops into another battle.

"Confounded Coccilians," he muttered.

But he had made up his mind: the reports must be followed up. Once he had decided he lost no time. Soon the 100,000 strong army was moving towards sector twenty-three and, as all well knew, possible destruction. The long journey was arduous but the hardy troops pushed on ceaselessly.

Meanwhile the Coccilians, forewarned of the force, were hurriedly fortifying their position. But Red Army Three had moved quicker than the Coccilians expected, and they were taken by surprise. The discovery of the Coccilians had proved just as surprising to the Cocrdinator as it had to the Coccilians. However, he was alert to the situation and he quickly manoeuvred his troops into a commanding position. But the Coccilians would not give up without a fight; he knew this only too well.

Almost as quickly as this thought crossed his mind, the Coccilians attacked. Their long sinewy limbs stretched out to crush Red Army Three in an iron grip but they were ponderous, no match for the agile troops. The battle seemed to rage for an eternity but slowly Red Army Three gained the upper hand. Slowly, but ever so slowly, they pushed the Coccilians back, back until finally victory was theirs.

"That's strange," muttered Dr. Scott as he probed at his patient's arm. "The infection seems to have disappeared overnight."

STORMY SEA

Unbelievable glory,
Titanic might.
The giant wave stumbles beneath the storm,
The cloud passes over to exclude all light,
The sea heaves and turns in writhing pain,
Lightning flashes over a world in turmoil,
The sea bed rocks in agonized fury,
The wave hits the shore with a roar of thunder,
The devil of storms watches in delighted pleasure.

G. RYAN, 2A.

THE SEAGULL

The seagull flew high in the final act of day,
Flying with a calm, cool ease,
Its silhouette breaking the grey clouds
As they sank into the western sky,
Where the sun had reigned
Like a conquering king, only to die,
And see his domain plunged into darkness and silence.

The bird flew on dauntlessly,
Its wings beating, beating the shiny stars
That shone like jewels in a velvet carpet
Rolled over a floor of sea and earth,
Where greed and lust and people's fears
Clouded over the city like blankets of hate.
But in the sky it was different:
Quiet and freedom reigned supreme.

D. GANTMAN, 3D.

NOSES

Many people never see past their noses, and for this reason noses are too often taken for granted — the full virtues and significances of this gristly protrusion often remaining unrealised. What is more, people often show neglect and thoughtlessness for this vital device of nature.

The nose is not just an organ of smell, even though this is its prime purpose, and a most essential one at that. Noses give people sensual pleasure. They enjoy the rich aroma of freshly cooking steak, the fresh tang of gum leaves or of mountain air or the exhilarating tang of salt air — all made possible by their noses; yet taken quite for granted. Even though noses are filters, they do not separate the undesirable from the desirable and everybody experiences, at some time or other, very anxious and uncomfortable moments when he encounters undesirable odours which are faithfully detected. These afflictions however, are often of great importance as they can warn us of such things as fires or leaking gas. Many animals' well-being is largely dependent on the sensitivity of their noses — it is essential in their search for food and water, and to warn them of danger.

Noses need care and attention — their very shape and position demands it. In such a country as Australia, hats — that is, hats with decent-sized brims — ought to be worn, or protecting cream applied, whenever the sun is such as to warrant these precautions. One caution, indeed! Just as the paint on the bonnet, roof and boot surfaces of a car deteriorates quickly because it is exposed to the direct rays of the sun, so do noses which are similarly exposed experience similar wear. Many a neglected Australian nose is unnecessarily red and raw during the summer period.

A person's appearance — nay his very character — is necessarily influenced by this tap-like feature. An instance of this is Bob Hope. He is famed just as much by the quality of his jokes as by the exceptional shape and prominence of his nose. Many a person must marvel at the defiant way nature maintains the position of this particular piece of tough, flexible cartilage. For here, surely, the laws of physics have been disobeyed.

Different races of people have their characteristic noses. Some are barely visible and freckled; others are broad and flat or just repulsively large; many are renowned for a distinctive bending upwards or downwards at the rather awkward angles. But the most important role a nose can play is as a status symbol. This it does with all classes of people. It would almost appear that one's nose changes in accordance with one's status. The lady who struts along wearing an expensive lace dress and leads a pink poodle is not just anybody; it can be seen by looking at her nose! She is a creature of importance highly esteemed, at least that is what her nose is trying to impress on all spectators.

A person just would not be himself if he and his nose had never met. In fact, he might never have been; or might have been, for just that little bit, shorter.

THE AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL TRUST VISITORS' GUIDE TO SYDNEY HIGH SCHOOL

Cunningly concealed behind the facade of a zoo lies Sydney High School, a seat of learning and culture famous in zoological circles throughout the world.

The date of construction of this building has not yet been ascertained, but it is generally assumed to be very ancient, because of the picturesque old cracks placed strategically around the walls, and because of the exquisite old hand-wrought text-books issued; books which have been handed down, generation to generation to generation.

Whenever it was built, the skill and taste of the craftsmen concerned in its construction is shown to fine effect by the simple dignity of its lemon-yellow front door, and by the classic style of the colonnade connecting the two buildings, with its columns built in the grand tradition of the lean-to. When one enters the building, one looks about and wonders at the beauty of the walls, painted in two resplendent shades of brown, symbolising the permanent neutrality of the Education Department.

In the quadrangle stands a statue of Apollo, moulded in what many experts claim to be cement. How romantic!

The pupils' every whim is catered for; for instance, there is the quadrangle, upon which, however, you are not allowed to set foot. Also there is the flat, with its magnificently yellow grass, a superb example of the agronomist's art. It is in these picturesque surroundings of asphalt, garbage tins, moth-eaten grass and concrete that the pupils relax between periods.

Inside the building once more, one wanders about the well-lit corridors, peering into the murky blackness of the well-lit rooms. Over in one corner one perceives the marble fireplace, a purely vestigial apparatus, placed there for the sole purpose of showing to the public the luxury of the surroundings in which the pupils work.

The time has come, however, to leave this fine building, with its neo-primitive style of architecture. One makes a sad exit from the school to picturesque Cleveland Street through a large hole in the fence, since the main gate is permanently padlocked.

PROGRESS

Noisy tractors grind the stubborn dirt, Screeching trucks load up and leave the scene, Workmen trudge about in open shirt, Dust flies up and leaves a brown smoke screen.

Shovels dint and scrape against the rocks, Hungry graders chew the earth like hounds, Dozers roar and shift the stone in blocks, Heavy picks rout boulders from the ground.

D. PALING, 2B.

THE SURFER

He sat astride his board, waiting, peering into the light green horizon for a suitable wave. The water was calm and clear, not a sound marred the silence, save for the screech of a seagull. The surfer was in a world of his own, far away from the hazy, yellow expanse of sand in the distance.

The body jerked; he had spotted something rolling toward him from far out near the murky horizon. First as a gentle ripple, then a small hill and then a foaming wall. The surfer gazed blankly for a split second. A smile lit his face: this was his wave, his reward for a long and patient wait. The water around him trembled, his board rocked like a matchstick in a swirling river. The wave didn't break, but continued its never-ending march: thirty feet! Something whispered assurance as he came to his knees then to his feet. In another world the shore began to fade, evaporate like a mirage as the thin spray showered over him. A snowfall of foam hid his vision.

The board was at a bad angle, the wall steep. Still the surfer battled downward towards the trough. On his left, the swirling mass of white water; on his right not a ripple marred the vertical face. He stalled, took his board up the wall, searching for another plummet down the face. Under his feet, the board bounced and skimmed across the wave. He had the ultimate feeling, perfect control of the giant. The right slide continued, shooting out of the tumbling foam and into the translucent wall of green water. His eyes glittered, his mouth widened into a victory smile. This was his wave, it would last forever.

GROWTH

Day by day
The city grows.
Expansion, construction.
Terrace houses are demolished,
Once a sign of elegance.
Destruction, expansion
Construction of bridges;
Extraordinary bridges
Lofty bridges
Which seem to reach upwards,
Crowding the skyline. But no.
The streets widen, traffic multiplies,
Houses come down — factories rise,
Still there remains Beauty.

E. MORGAN, 2A.

OCTOPUS WORLD

An octopus fairy Brought octopus Mary
Octopus Peter
To casually meet her.

They went dancing and wining
And merrily dining,
Had an octopus wedding.
And soon —
Excited, delighted,
They were pleased they'd united
For now there were three octopi.

S. FENTON, 2B.

THE NEXT ONE

And now he breaks, flashing hooves
And flared nostrils.
A glimpse of terror, dripping flanks
Chill the air.
On he goes, on past the rocks,
Over the creek, up Nansel's track,
Up the gorge
And down again,
All the while
The desperate panting
The breathless galloping
Echo to the stockman's whip.
And the sweat covered speed
Taints the air.

But it's over, the race is run.
Shackled by the searing sun
He stands.
And now they speak of the next one.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM

Mercury; with its boiling deserts, And frozen wastes.

Venus; planet of mystery, Swirling clouds; steaming jungle? foaming seas? Or perhaps a lifeless desert?

Earth; home of life, spinning majestically, Great oceans, cities, forests, And living beings.

Mars; mystery, red deserts, canals, icecaps; Life? creeping vegetation; a three-headed cyclops? Or a fire-breathing dragon?

Tiny hunks of rock, drifting in space; asteroids, Danger to astronauts.

Jupiter: mightiest of them all,
Raging hurricanes, swirling methane;
Asphyxiating ammonia;
No life here.

Saturn; huge, swirling gas, tempests, furious gales; Crowned by the glorious rings; God of beauty; and colour; and death.

Uranus; cold, cold and colder still,

A sea of frozen gases;

The green planet,

Green?

Yes, but not of vegetation,

A cold dead world!

Neptune; colder still.

Ruler of her satellites;

But of nothing else,

With the sun forever beyond her grasp;

A tiny dot in the distance.

Pluto; coldest,
And farthest of them all;
An outcast;
Forgotten; and dead.

All ruled by the Sun,
A tyrant with favourites;
So kind, so merciless.

WHAT I SAW

It's hard to judge what is destroyed With one foul pistol's fire; Yet as I stopped by the dead trooper, Half-buried in the mire

With blood all 'round, blood on brown I asked, "Were you there?" A file of insight rasped my mind; So strange a soul was there

That his and mine as one became;
Astonished, I looked there,
And saw a face: an eager face,
Searching for his share.

I saw a schoolboy, gay and spright
A frivolous time at fishing
I saw him older, striving hard.
Fulfilling an ambition.

Success was his, he quickly rose Right to a top position; I saw him rich, but lonely, now A home was his ambition.

And now a friendship bound with iron
Of troubles seen together;
I saw these allies blown apart
By storms too strong to weather.

I saw emotion, sunshine, bliss,
When in love he did fall;
I saw their parting: tears and rain,
When he went off to war.

Through slush and mud, blood and shot
As soldier he did hoe;
I saw him die a valiant death
With face toward the foe.

In him I saw such things and more Which thrived and were well-fed. But now I looked upon the ground And saw him lying, dead!

SQUARES

What word has such a variety of meanings? What word can convey so many different things to so many different people in so many occupations? To the militarist the square is vastly different from the figure conjured up in the mind of a mathematician.

No better example of quaternity can be found. This plane figure served as the base on which Alexander the Great grew to infamy. His phalanx with its solidity of disciplined soldiers, shields and pointed lances brought the downfall of many majestic Moghuls. Nothing stood in this square's way — nothing, that is, until the Romans shrewdly elongated the base and decided to fight in this distorted shape.

To the mathematician, and in his jargon, it is a quadrilateral with all its sides equal and perpendicular. Many other figures in the world of Euclidean geometry are either based on or are closely related to it: for example, its son the rhombus and its nephews the rectangle and parallelogram. These strange men delight in the square: they can multiply a square number by itself and still come up with the original square number; they can devise problems that they themselves can't solve—take Fermat's "Last Theorem". Can you prove that no whole number of fractions exist so that $x^n + y^n = a^n$, if n is a whole number greater than 2? Well, you will be the first person on this earth ever to have done so. As teachers, I suppose these mathematicians enjoy the experience of watching little boys colouring in their squares.

What of other spheres, other occupations? To the architect, a special square, the "T square" is of vital importance. Even today's soldier dreads the square; he still has to parade on it. To different sportsmen the term is adapted differently: to the golfer, he is even with the card and to the cricketer, he is out in the blue yonder. To the schoolboy the square is a menace. It is here he is summoned in the morning and it is on it, in geometry, that he labours in the afternoon.

A square to the adolescent is anyone who would read such an essay as this for pleasure or write such an essay as this for a school magazine; anyone who would dream of talking about people like Alexander the Great and his tactical formations must be one. And, indeed, so must the mathematician who can ramble off scores of pointless theorems, definitions or formulae in Euclidian or Cartesian geometry. What bores these people must be!

Beware, then, gentle reader. When next you hear of a square make sure that you are not the subject of the conversation.

A PARENT EXPLAINS

I was driving home leisurely at 100 m.p.h. in my newly acquired "Y-type" Jaguar on the super highway, after a hard day's work (of about four hours) at the office. I pulled up outside the fifty-storey apartment and took the elevator to the seventeenth floor where I lived.

"I'm home, dear," I called, Little Andie, just turned six, was the first to greet me. "Hi Daddy," he cried.

"Hello mate." I replied, "How was school today?"

"Oh, awright," he drawled, as he gazed outside the window watching the strong breeze rustling among the tall poplars. "We talked about a few things, but we didn't really do much," he said very half-heartedly.

"Hello Harry," said my wife. "You're home pretty late, aren't you? Had a hard day?

"Oh, it was a bit rough," I replied as I settled into my favourite armchair and asked Andie to bring my slippers to me. Andie came jumping into the room and straight on to my lap.

"Dad, do you know what makes the wind blow?" he said suddenly.

I thought it over for a moment and said:

"Well it seems that a very long time ago, a giant roamed the countryside stealing things from farmers and making a general nuisance of himself. He was very big and mean and loved causing havoc amongst the hard-working farme"

"What does havoc mean, Daddy?" interjected Andie.

"Don't worry about trivial matters, son."

"What does trivial mean, Dad?"

"Now cut that out Andrew, and let me get on with the stor er explanation," I replied, somewhat annoyed as Andrew remained quietly where he was looking rather uninterested as I continued.

"Now where was I? Oh, yes. So, one day the people got a bit fed up with the giant, so they decided to do something about it. They formed a committee of the most respectable people around, who were to decide what measures to take. One of them came up with a brilliant idea.

"'Why not,' he said, 'make the giant a flute, so that he can occupy himself with something other than ruining us all.' And it was so agreed. And each day the giant blew on his flute creating tremendous winds, which is what you can see outside: you know son, the wind whistling in the trees. Ha . . . HA Ha!" I chuckled at my own joke.

After I had recovered from my convulsions, my son said, "Oh come now, Daddy, you don't really expect me to believe such rot do you?"

I was taken aback and didn't know what to say.

Andie continued: "Everyone knows that the ultimate causes of winds are differences of atmospheric density produced by the sun, in its unequal heating of different parts of the earth. These original differences of density give rise to vertical and horizontal currents which constitute the general atmospheric circulation, and determine permanent belts of relatively high and low pressure over the earth's surface."

Enraged, I shouted, "Well if you're such a smarty-pants, why the heck did you ask me in the first place?"

"I just wanted to see what you'd say," he replied, trying to look very innocent.

"Oh don't give me that," I shouted and left the room to cool my embarrassment under a shower.

MAN

Out of the dark,
From nothing, he came:
From monkey to man,
And now reigns supreme.
He made himself up,
Up out of the dark
To rule the world
With strength and with power,
But what when he falls
From his throne,
Back to the dark
From whence he came?

THE SWAN'S REPAST

On the silent deep-blue lake,
A swan swam to and fro.
With eager eye
And head held high
She silently did go
In search of food
For her hungry brood;
For what the waters might reveal,
That would provide their evening meal.
At last a morsel she espied,
Drifting on the evening tide,
Snatched the morsel ere it glide,
Out of reach upon the tide.

A VISION OF OLYMPUS

I sweated out the first few moments;

Down there, in the quiet depths, I seemed to feel Nemesis.

And near a crescent scythe of crimson coral

A small fish turned and fled at my approach.

I brushed through some weed.

And a few tattered ends adhered to me.

Leaving behind their ravaged stems, as if glad to be free;

They did not seem to realise they faced death

As they joyfully followed one another to the bottom,

Indian-file.

I picked up a shell from a slab of rock,

Removing it with a knife.

The creature inside stirred uncomfortably-

It resented my intrusion, and sensed lost security,

Suddenly, I hated this shell, this creature

Which dared to live, to remain alive, in my presence,

Disturbing the deathlike tranquility with its squirmings.

A flick of the blade and all struggles ceased;

The two parts, dying and dead, sank more rapidly than the weed had done.

And I noticed with distaste the sudden movement of

A crab towards me.

It was not enough that life should cease,

It must cease when I so desired.

But, prompted by a feeling of humanity,

I temporarily drowned my ideas of myself as a deity

In the immensity of the water around me-

Yet it was still only at my whim that the crab lived.

Far off, a shark moved along with a lazy

Tail-flick, and I felt unreasoning fear.

He looked old and wise, and by my reckoning

Would soon die anyway:

Already he was encased in a wrinkled shagreen greycoat,

But still, as an authoritarian.

He could not equal me, and I too had the advantage

Of being a god.

"Please don't leave me here alone," he begs,

And I, in my supremacy, seize the festering joints

To which I have bound the strings of Time,

And tear them off, ending his puppet-like dance.

I leave the mangled body to rot,

A sobbing testimony to the temporary vainglory

Of that which is man, not god.

A sudden blast from the furnaces there

Brings the walls to a translucent-red heat,

And the cave shimmers, dances before my eyes

Like the movement of untold skeletons,

Bounding and leaping, vainly groping for the freedom

They can never achieve.

The straws are drawn, and it is their lot

To permanent these timeless grounds,

Bound over with the fallen angels.

Periodically I hear a groan,

And Hades rocks, reverberates with the sneering laughter

Of mortal turned god.

As far as the eye can see, even I,

Hold them in my sway,

And Heaven's curse on me and every one.

"I am the Cavern King, Lord of Doom,"

I say, aloud, that they all might hear,

And ten thousand thousand brainless skulls

Turn sightless eye-cavities upon me,

And wait, wondering.

THE STRAY DOG

He paces the streets,
Forgotten, alone,
Ignored by his owners,
He has no fun.

He struggles to find food,
An occasional bone

He won't have a grave, He'll die in the gutter; But nobody cares, His death doesn't matter.

VOICES

"Enjoying life old man?"

"You live in a mansion old man."

"Still drinking old man?"

"Do you think about it much?"

"Have some whisky - old man."

The voices grew louder; more threatening and derisive — bereft of sympathy. They clutched at the moaning heap by the fire, they lashed at the back under the old coat and snapped across the shielding arm.

"You're a coward old man."

"You filth!"

The voices grabbed savagely at the bundle, so viciously that two jeering forms flitted unnoticed through the flashing fire-light. The echo of the voices, beating in the man's brain, dragged him back — as they were meant to do — to the day that destroyed him, thirty-five years ago.

He drank greedly from the reddish bottle, but not even the power of the cheap liquid could shut out the voices and the past. He recalled with a horrifying intensity the yellow, coarse sands, the dirty-grey rip as it swept the struggling body further through the murderous waves. The body of his wife, the mother of the voices! He recalled, overhead, an awful racing infinity of boiling power. He recalled too, the high-pitched screaming of the same voices — then unbroken — which were now causing the re-dredging of his past.

He quivered at the memory of the appealing, boyish faces, turned up at him: strange faces, distorted by a lack of comprehension, by faith misplaced. They were the faces of his sons — then too young to evade his restraining grasp — but fully old enough to take in and judge the scene and his actions. They had found him guilty that day — disgustingly, unforgiveably guilty. As sons, in the course of time they had left him; as tormentors they kept stubbornly returning.

His mind, be-fuddled by drink, twisted and jumped as he wrestled with his thoughts. How could they understand his fear of death? His fear of two boys left as orphans? How could they understand his queer acceptance of the woman's death. He drank long from the bottle. But this night the voices would not leave him.

The old man's surroundings re-formed out of his insufferable past. The sand-dunes draped like a shadowy shroud as the voices — now seeking, now hateful, beckoning and spurring — drove the pathetic creature towards the pulsating, yellow-white of the expectant sea.

DROVERS

Out in the outback, hot and dusty Living the life so hard Rides the sunburnt drover — Existing, just existing.

Theirs not the life of comfort That's fallen to us, Trekking the old bush trails — Existing, just existing.

But theirs is not to worry Or to care, Theirs the life of freedom All day, every day.

To them the world is simple, No worry of wars. They enjoy simple pleasures, All day, every day.

Now as I think of drovers, Drovers without a care, I'd like to be a drover One day, one day.

WHO KNOWS?

There are big ones, small ones, Huge ones, tiny ones — Some are round and some are square.

There are red ones, green ones, Blue ones, black ones — Some are dark and some are fair.

There are dull ones, shiny ones, New ones, old ones — Made of stone and sticky tar.

There are rough ones, smooth ones, Steel ones, paper ones — But I don't know what they are.

CAMP DIARY

One cannot help but notice Sydney High School Boat Club. It's contrast with the residential background makes it stand out on Abbotsford Point. And yet it fits in quite naturally, with its green roof and long pontoon.

The school flag flutters proudly in the breeze: another season in camp has begun for the rowers.

It's now four weeks since we entered camp — already we have all felt the strain. Long, hard row — tiredness; an indifferent time for the course — censure; a creditable time — approbation. There's praise and disappointment, comradeship and sheer physical weariness. There are new-found friendships that will live long and firmly. And then there's a Club Regatta victory and a new found freshness with it.

But right through there is a feeling, a natural feeling of harmony with life itself. You feel one with nature. You can get up at the dawning and see the beauty of a rising sun; you can go to bed at night and see nature's own city lights. And while on the water, you feel that at last you have found everlasting harmony with your boat, yourself, the water, and the whole world.

Now you're swinging along again. With three hundred miles behind you and there are still two hundred to go.

"Get up you lazy logs," shouts a shattering voice. "Five minutes to get onto the water. Come on!"

It's five forty-five a.m. You're still asleep as you put on your togs and jersey. It's cold. You tumble down the stairs, get your oar and grease the leather. "Hands on the speed-boat!"

"One, two, three . . . up!"

"Ouch! Get off my foot!"

"Hands on!" an enthusiastic stroke yells, and you're becoming one with nature again.

The stroke calls: "Up together, toss! Feel for the edge, lower. Hold her stroke side, get the blades bows. Hold her stroke side; in together bows; fix up. Hold her bows; in stroke side and push off."

The next voice to be heard is that of the cox crying "Touch it, Two. Easy. Fix up and number off from bow when ready." The crew number off in the order of Bow, Two, Three and Stroke.

The cox then yells "Half forward, are you all ready? Row!"

Yes, you're at it again: you, your blade, time and nature.

The coach then asks No. 2 what's wrong. Two replies that he cannot get his finish out and is then advised to relax, to get his hands away faster, not to bury his blade so as not to force his rigger up and make finishing harder . . . "Righto . . . head up river, and we'll do ten firm, ten full, ten light, then ten firm and so on. Take 'em away Coxswain."

"Make this the best course you've done," says your Coach. It's easy for him in his speedboat, you think to yourself.

"Half forward "

And now your rowing blasts off into a new and different world. A world of guts, rowing and pain; and comradeship. You've got to do well even if only for the log in front of you. But that even if determines success or failure. You feel the pain and weariness and want to get out all the way through. But then it's over; and the prickling sensation on your skin tells you you've done well; and the Coach's proud smile tells you so too. It's maddening, punishing yourself for sake of a clock.

Five hundred gone, about fifty to go!

It's all over! It's finished. You didn't win. No, you didn't win, but inside you've got that old feeling. You've tried your hardest, and what's more you've enjoyed the battle. All the way, from November to April you've enjoyed the battle. You're proud!

And now you walk down the path of Sydney High School Boat Club and see the flag fluttering in the breeze. You are going to try again. Now you face another Camp. The tiredness, criticism and joy are ahead of you: but more important — you are going to enjoy it all again!

CREEPING TERROR

The darkness was complete. The old warehouse was cold with the chill of death, but still I crawled on.

The concrete floor was hard and the dust of disuse dried my mouth and throat. On each side the stacks of wooden cases stretched upward, like many skyscrapers, gradually disappearing in the gloom.

The man I was pursuing was an escaped murderer and I knew that only one of us would emerge from the warehouse alive. My knees began to ache from crawling through the labyrinthine passages, but the feel of the cold, hard steel of my revolver in my hand was reassuring.

Suddenly, behind two cases, there was a hurried scurrying as some invisible thing moved quickly. I spun around, staring into the opaque wall before me. My heart was throbbing. A tin can clanged to the floor, then rolled towards me out of the blackness; perspiration trickled down my cheek. I clutched my gun . . . A cat emerged: I sighed deeply and moved on.

Some relief from the pervading darkness was gained from a window at the end of the shed. Through this, from a street-light outside, beamed a ray which sliced a yellow path in the murk.

A course of action occurred to me and I crept quickly but silently to a position near some stacks of cardboard boxes, where, if anyone tried to make the warehouse exit, he would be silhouetted against the window as he passed.

Here I waited, glancing frequently at my watch which seemed to tick much louder than usual, a grotesque smile on its luminous face. As the minutes slowly ticked by, doubts about the success of my plan grew stronger and stronger. Had the killer slipped by already? Was there another exit unknown to me? Was he trying to trap me? These thoughts flashed back and forth through my mind and I had just decided he had evaded my trap when "Meowwwww," the shrill shriek of a cat rang out and echoed back.

"Blasted cat!" growled a voice.

And now against the pane of light a figure emerged.

"Stop! You haven't got a chance." I threatened, but the excitement in my voice wavered.

The dark shadow turned slowly and I could almost see his cold, harsh eyes searching for me in the blackness. The ominous form seemed to have uncertainly.

"Yeah, Copper? Come 'n get me."

An arm swung round quickly; the familiar shape of a gun appeared. Automatically I levelled my revolver; flame spurted from its barrel. A cry of pain; the figure slumped to the floor. Bullets now began whistling past my head; I plunged backwards, a searing pain in my chest, and the stacks of cardboard boxes came crashing down over me

Many muffled giggles woke me and to my surprise there were many smiling faces staring at me. I was dazzled by the brilliant sunshine streaming through the classroom window, but the foreboding shape of the teacher stood over me.

"So! Day-dreaming again, eh?" he accused. "Write me a one and a half page essay on what you day-dream about. And it had better be good."

G. DODD, 3A.

WHY DOES THE WIND BLOW?

The nondescript chap sitting opposite was the one who, in fact, offered the least ordinary and perhaps most acceptable explanation.

"It's all the fault of them H-bombs," he said . "Foulin' up the atmosphere somethin' terrible they are, an' it's no wonder this 'appens. It's only natural."

Outside the window of the slow moving train a gust of wind whipped life into the long, brown grass, and ripples like the bowwave of a motor-launch scurried across their tops. Dry red dust swirled suddenly into the air, and, moved by an invisible hand, drifted several yards, and then sank listlessly from view.

Conversation ceased. The faces of the country folk slipped back into their fixed, worried expressions; rough brown faces born to a rough brown country, from whose womb they had emerged and back into which they would inevitably return; for the Earth-mother is a jealous goddess, and claims her dues with a zeal she lacks in other enterprises.

Outside, a herd of cattle glanced up at the train's approach, tired expressionless eyes gazing wearily at the proof of man's dominance. Apt. Dying cattle and dying men on a dying earth, the very core slowly rotting in each.

"All this dirt and no flamin' water, you'd think you was in Arabia," said the ordinary fellow with a feeble laugh. A surly look from his neighbour caused him to continue in a defensive tone, "Well, I've seen some desert I 'ave, I was in the war yer know. I know what I'm talking about." He cut off abruptly, noting his words' lack of effect. Obviously the others had had enough of this conversation. After all, the weather and such was no longer a topic for idle chatter, the situation was too serious.

The tall, thin fellow in the corner of the carriage had been following the speeches with detached interest, and now, with an effort so obvious it was painful to behold, pondered, cogitated, then finally came up with the gem of information, "These flies're a bloody puisance."

Nobody disagreed. Then again, nobody agreed either except perhaps the flies themselves, who buzzed a little louder and then descended to attack with renewed vigour. At this encouraging response to his enlightening brilliance, the tall chap was prompted to follow up his initial comment with a terse, "Yep, they're worse in 'ere than they are round a pile a sheep's carcasses."

Even in the grimmest of circumstances I have found that the country man can come up with a grimmer, yet more succinct and colourful image than can his city-bred counterpart. Perhaps it is the wider range of experience—I would hesitate to say it was because they are wider read, as this fellow looked only semi-literate. Still, to be unoriginal, you can't tell a book by its cover.

The experiences and sights of the day brought to mind the words of Cowper:

God made the country and man made the town.

What wonder then that health and virtue should most abound,
And least be threatened in the fields and groves.

How remarkably inappropriate. Then, I never did appreciate poetry.

The sterile wind blew constantly outside now, and the sun, reflecting through the window glass, brought a reflection like the glint of blood-red tears to the eyes of the tall thin chap in the corner.

Meetings: Third Thursday in each month at 7.45 p.m.

The Annual General Meeting was held in the Great Hall on Thursday, 18th March, 1965.

This meeting saw the resignation of Mr. J. Levi, President for the past three years. Previous to this he had also occupied the office of Vice-President for three years. Mr. Halliday, in thanking Mr. Levi for his leadership during his term of office, drew attention to the 10 years of dedicated and energetic interest given by both Mr. and Mrs. Levi. Fortunately, we have not lost the benefit of their wisdom and experience as they are still very active in the affairs of the association.

At a subsequent meeting, this association was pleased to confer an Honorary Life Membership on Mr. Roy Coleman. Roy started working for the interests of the school in 1948 and has been prominent in all aspects of our activities since. However, his main interest has been in McKay Grounds. In 1948, these grounds consisted only of two fields. Now, in 1965, we have four fields and a start has been made in preparing a fifth. Many hundreds of hours have been given by Roy in the upkeep and improvement of McKay and the facilities now available there are, we believe, the equal of those of any other school. Both this association and the school have benefited greatly from his interest, and we are very grateful to both Mr. and Mrs. Coleman for what they have accomplished.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, once again, was responsible for an outstanding effort. This association is deeply indebted to the ladies for their untiring efforts in the raising of finance and in the organisation of many of our projects.

Finance

A record expenditure was forecast in our budget this year, and

Sydney Boys' High School Parents & Citizens' Association

Invites you to attend its meetings, held on the third Thursday of each month 7.45 p.m.

W. F. HALLIDAY,

President.

R. B. FORD, Hon. Secretary. 661-1838.

Ladies' Auxiliary

Meets on the Second Wednesday of each month

1.30 p.m.

MRS. L. WILLIAMS,

President.
34-1870.

MRS. P. WILLS, Hon. Secretary. 38-2157.

in 1966 we expect this to be even greater. The implementation of the Wyndham plan is placing a greater burden each year on school finances and this association will always endeavour to do their part.

The Headmaster's Appeal was quite satisfactory, approximately 50% of the parents responding to this appeal. We hope, however, to see this effort surpassed in 1966.

McKay Sports Ground Committee

The P. & C. Association representatives on this committee, Messrs. R. Bird, H. Bell, E. Uren, J. Foord and L. Ringham, were untiring in their efforts to maintain and improve our playing fields, and deserve our congratulations in providing grounds of the highest standard.

A special word of thanks is due to the fathers who attended the working bees held at the grounds and to Reg Bird and his assistants for the organisation necessary on the Saturdays when S.H.S. are host; to other G.P.S. schools. There is a tremendous amount of work to be done on these occasions, and should any parents like to offer asistance they would be warmly welcomed.

Rowing Committee

Prof. J. Morgan, Messrs. F. Randall, A. Blomberg, A. J. Foster and J. Bertram were the P. & C. representatives on this committee, and were very active in maintaining the facilities at Abbotsford and generally in assisting the Rowing Master and the school's rowers.

It is the ever present aim of this committee to continue to add to and improve the amenities at the Boat Shed; all rowers appreciate their efforts in this direction.

Ways and Means Committee

This committee comprises all members of the association and meets on the first Thursday in each month with the object of promoting many profitable social functions during the year. The highlights this year were an evening of wining and dining at the Bistro and a similar function at the Bull 'N Bush. It is very pleasing on such occasions to welcome so many "old" parents who still maintain their interest in the school.

These and other functions held not only add to our funds but also serve the important purpose of allowing our members to meet together in a social atmosphere.

Carnival Fete

This function was once again our major money-making activity, and we are pleased to report that it was again very successful. This success was due to many people—in particular, to the hard working Fete Committee. This committee commences to function shortly after the Annual Meeting in March, and is not able to relax until the fete is over. But this fete would not be possible without the generosity of the companies and the people who contribute goods and money to this cause and of the pupils and the parents who support us on the big day.

Canteen Committee

This committee, under the presidency of Mrs. Bull, has had another very satisfactory year. Although some thirty to forty ladies are active on this committee, any mother who could spare one day a month would be welcomed by Mrs. Bull and her helpers. The canteen also offers a stationery supply service at competitive prices, and it would be to the advantage of parents to remember this at the beginning of the school year.

School Grounds and Maintenance

This year Mr. Les Ringham headed this very active committee, which is concerned with keeping the school grounds and building in good condition. For this purpose, the Department of Education advances only £100 each year, leaving much voluntary labour to be carried out by this committee.

Dance Committee

Under the able leadership of Mr. Tom Duckworth, this committee provided pupils of both the boys' and girls' schools with some excellent nights. These dances are well conducted and strictly supervised, and are very popular with the students. This year the dances are proving a big financial success for the association, but we also feel that we are providing an opportunity for students to enjoy themselves in congenial surroundings.

General

This association recognises its debt to the many parents and friends who have assisted us during 1965.

In particular, we would thank our Headmaster, Mr. Callaghan, and Deputy Headmaster, Mr. Oslington, for their willingness to assist at all times and for their continuing interest in our affairs.

Our thanks also go to the School Secretaries, Mrs. Braithwaite and Mrs. Byrnes, who cheerfuly and efficiently meet our every request. Nothing is ever too much trouble for these wonderful ladies.

Our appreciation is also extended to the Caretaker, Mr. Crocker, for his co-operation at all times.

Without the co-operation of many people and the work freely given by all active members of this association, it would not be possible for our boys to enjoy many of the amenities and the activities which this school provides.

Our sincere thanks, therefore, go to all who have assisted us in any way. The time and effort so willingly given has been well spent in promoting the welfare of the pupils of Sydney High School. R. B. FORD, Hon. Secretary.

W. F. HALLIDAY, President.

LADIES' AUXILIARY OFFICE-BEARERS, 1965

President:

Treasurer:

Secretary:

Mrs. H. Williams.

Mrs. W. Morgan.

Mrs. M. R. Wills.

The Ladies' Auxiliary has had another very happy and successful year under the guidance of our President, Mrs. H. Williams.

The first function of the year was a luncheon to welcome new mothers, followed by the Annual Reunion Night, at which all parents were welcomed.

As usual, our main object has been to raise at least £1.500. to augment the funds raised by the P. & C. Association. It is not difficult to realise how much we need the support of every mother. both at our meetings and at the various functions we hold during the year.

Our fourth Annual Father and Son Dinner, held on 23rd June. was a great success. We were most fortunate to have as our Guest Speaker, Mr. Ken Catchpole, who proved a very popular choice. particularly as the dinner followed the victory over the visiting Springboks on the previous Saturday.

The Combined Auxiliary Ball, held at the Randwick Town Hall on 16th July, was an outstanding success. We are most grateful to the gentlemen who participated in the "Novelty Ballet", which added a very bright and amusing touch to the evening.

An interesting "Indian Luncheon" was held at the school on 27th July, and was attended by one hundred ladies. The curry was prepared by the mothers from special recipes and herbs supplied by Mrs. Flack, who has lived in India for many years. We are most grateful to her for her co-operation in this regard, and in bringing along many souvenirs for us to display at this function.

Other successful functions have been a "Dine and Dance" evening held at the Bistro, and an evening at the "Bull 'N Bush" Restaurant Theatre. It is very pleasing to see so many friends, both old and new. on these occasions.

At the time of writing, there are still many functions to be held. including the Football Luncheon, the Annual Ceremonial Parade. the Annual Fete, and the Fourth Year farewell luncheon to Fifth Year. The P. & C. will arrange a farewell dance to Fifth year, at which the Girls' High School will join us.

The Canteen continues to prosper under the guidance of our new Canteen President, Mrs. L. Bull; Secretary, Mrs. J. Dawson, and Treasurer, Mrs. N. Woodhouse. We are most grateful to the mothers for the voluntary help they give under our very capable supervisor. Mrs. E. Simpson.

We would like to take this opportunity of thanking all the mothers who help us in so many ways-in fact, on every occasion on which we call for their services.

Finally, we thank Mr. M. R. Callaghan, the Headmaster. Mr. C. Oslington, the Deputy Headmaster, and the staff, for their willing help and advice at all times. Also our thanks to Mrs. Byrne and Mrs. Braithwaite, the School Secretaries, for their valued help and cheerful co-operation throughout the year.

Mrs. P. WILLS, Hon. Secretary.

LODGE SYDNEY HIGH SCHOOL, No. 631

Lodge Sydney High School, the first of the School Lodges, was consecrated in 1929 and continues strongly both in spirit and membership.

Wor. Bro. Ray Smee—former Olympic Water Polo player—continued the excellent work which has become an expected feature of our Lodge. At the Installation Meeting of August, Wor. Bro. Ray Smee, in the presence of Right Worshipful Bro. John Campbell, J.G.W.—an Old Boy of the school and member of the Lodge—elevated Wor. Bro. Lyle Davis (1945) to the Chair of the Lodge.

Our Lodge is justifiably proud to have two of its memers, Right Worshipful Bro. Laurie McKay and Right Worshipful Bro. John Campbell, as the present Senior and Junior Grand Wardens, respectively, of United Grand Lodge of N.S.W.

The Lodge meets on second Friday each month at the Castlereagh Street, Temple. Old Boy members of the Craft are always most welcome.

Contact may be made through the Secretary, Bro. Rex Iredale, 28-1518.

Membership

A drive to increase membership to 2,000 members was made this year. It was thought that this goal would be a reasonable one. since more than 10,000 ex-students of the school were known as potential members.

The results of this drive have fallen far short of that which might have been obtained, and reflect poorly upon all those people who have passed through the school during the last 30 years. The need for a large and active membership has never before been so urgent, and it is hoped that Old Boys of the school will realise that they still have an obligation to be associated with the Old Boys' Tinion.

The High Ball

The 1965 High Ball was held at the Round House at the University of New South Wales, and was attended by a record number of members and their friends. The guests of honour were Mr. H. L. Yelland, Director of Secondary Education, and Mrs. Yelland, to whom fourteen debutantes were presented. The ball was a gay occasion and thoroughly enjoyed by all those who were present. Representatives of other Great Public Schools and some of the high schools were entertained in the official party.

Annual Dinner

This year the Annual Dinner was held at the State Ballroom on 30th September. The guest of honour was Mr. John Thornett, Captain of the Australian Rugby Union Team.

The Bulletin

This year an attempt has been made to publish the Bulletin each month and to improve its lay-out, so that topical news could be presented in an interesting manner.

This project has been most successful and many compliments

Now! 3 steps to cut down saturated fats

Step 1

MIRACLE

poly-unsaturated spread on bread, in your cooking, natural tasting, spreads straight from the fridge.

Step 2

MIRACLE

poly-unsaturated Safflower Oil for deep frying, pan frying, and tossed salads.

Step 3

PRAISE

poly-unsaturated Mayonnaise for dressing on cold dishes and a garnish on savouries and sandwiches.

If medical advice says "cut down on saturated fats," this no longer means cutting down on good eating. Here are three steps to let you eat as well as you've ever done — and cut down on saturated fats as you do it. How does it work? By substituting poly-unsaturated fats for the saturated fats in all your present eating and cooking. So, for good health's sake, start the whole family eating poly-unsaturated "Miracle" and "Praise" right away.

Foundation Day Church Service

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor of New South Wales, the Hon. Sir Kenneth Street, was present at the service held at St. James' Church to commemorate the 82nd Anniversary of the Foundation of the School. Reverend J. F. Peter, Supervisor of Religious Broadcasts for the Australian Broadcasting Commission, delivered the sermon, and Reverend Bernard Judd and the Rev. J. R. Henderson said the prayers. The Captains of the Boys' High School and the Girls' High School, Neville Morgan and Isla Sorengon, read the Lessons. After the service, tea was provided by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Old Boys' Union in St. James' Hall.

The High Club

Strong support for the High Club continues, from Old Boys and also business executives of York Street, and enables for the second year a surplus to be shown in the annual financial statement and balance sheet. This is most gratifying to that dedicated number of Old Boys who have tried to include in our heritage a club for the use of Old Boys of Sydney High School.

Membership is your privilege. Do make the most of it.

The Old Boys' Union Centenary Fund

This fund continues to grow and will provide, it is hoped, in 1983, the school centenary year, a substantial capital sum of money to provide a perpetual income for some worthy cause associated with the school.

School History

Progress is taking place in the compilation of the History of Sydney High School, and it is hoped to publish this book early in 1966.

Perce Hallett Tribute

A sun-dial is to be erected as an expression of the great affection held for Mr. P. W. Hallett, a former Deputy Headmaster of the school. Construction has been completed and an opportunity is now awaited to install it permanently and hold a suitable function to mark its donation to the school.

Ladies' Auxiliary

The support of this organisation of dedicated women has never been more vital to the affairs of the Old Boys' Union, and their efforts are deeply appreciated by all members. This Auxiliary meets at 1.30 p.m. on the first Wednesday of each month at the C.E.N.E.F. Building at the corner of Kent and Bathurst Streets, Sydney, and a ready welcome awaits all mothers or wives of Old Boys who would care to join its ranks.

Football Match

After ten years this annual fixture against the school was reestablished and proved a most enjoyable function not only for those who played in the three games on the football field, but also for those who came to watch and cheer.

It is hoped that this will continue now to be a regular feature of the activities of the Old Boys' Union.

Football Club

The O.B.U. Rugby team is known popularly as the "Shobs", and fields teams in the Metropolitan Junior Rugby Union competition.

If you are not an aspirant for grade honours and would like an enjoyable game each week, join the Shobs.

Last football season we won our way to the Grand Final from three divisons and twenty-eight teams.

Supporters perhaps don't outnumber the players, but they are much more vociferous and have a lot of fun.

For Rugby at its best-join the Shobs.

G.P.S.O.B.U. Golf

Hyman Eizenberg led a strong team of Old Boys in the G.P.S.O.B.U. Golf Day held at Manly Golf Club, but could not match it with Shore, who were the ultimate winners in the Teams Event.

Our team included Hyman Eizenberg (Skipper), M. Baker, M. Clayton, T. Edelman, N. Hall, P. Hardacre, R. King and Dr. R. C. Spence.

Many schools were represented at this sporting function, including some interstate and overseas Great Public Schools.

Our congratulations to Shore on their win and our appreciation of the efforts of Hyman Eizenberg for organizing a capable team to represent us in this annual event.

Personal

A. H. Edmonds belongs to the Mary Ann Street vintage (1904-1908) when Mr. Waterhouse was headmaster.

Some years ago he called on Mr. Andrews, then headmaster at Moore Park. He showed him over the school, including the honour roll, on which his name was not included, though he served from Gallipoli to the end in France. Has that omission been rectified?

Eddie was also interested to see that the Old Oarsmen had a gathering on 1st July. Rowing started after his time, but he was the winner of the Sir John See Memorial Cup at Grafton for single sculls in 1914, then went straight into the army and did not see the cup again for forty years when he went to a Jacaranda Festival. The man who holds it outright is Percy See, a descendant of the original Sir John. Percy was born in 1914, the year Eddie won the cup.

Barry McMahon (1951) has been awarded a fellowship to the Colorado School of Mines, where he will study for his Doctor of Science degree. Barry will leave in October and his wife Margaret and son (see Bulletin, September, 1964) will follow in December. In all the couple will be away for three years, and hope to set up as consultants on their return, as Mrs. McMahon (daughter of Old Boy Matt Speedy) has a B.Sc. in Geology.

Michael Brownlee has been in Melbourne for the past two months with a badly broken right leg. Over the plaster is a specially knitted sock, chocolate and blue, naturally. Gordon Pender heard of this and sent down "The High Bulletin" to keep his school spirit up. Surprising the people who have heard of "Sydney High" down in this No Man's Land.

Alb. Mellor (1928) is Commerce Master at Chester Hill High School.

Robert Mellor (1959) graduated in Economics this year with Honours in Statistics and has a senior position in Canberra with the Commonwealth Government.

Just to let you know Old Boy F. Graeme Humphrey (1954) has gone into business—Pharmacy at corner Slade and Hertillan Ave., Bardwell Park.

Graeme and wife Barbara are being congratulated on birth of second daughter—Jillian Ruth Humphrey, born 5th May, 1965.

Congratulations to Lieut. R. A. Slater, R.A.E. (1959) on his recent engagement to Ruth White, of Liverpool.

In Murchison Street, Sylvania, in the past 12 months houses Nos. 1, 2 and 3 have been built by Old Boys previously unknown to each other. No. 1, John Samios (1949); No. 2, Neil Turk (1953) and No. 3, Jim Murphy (1945). Can any Old Boy beat this coincidence?

Miss Diane Castleman, B.Sc., Dip.N.A. and A.C., the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Castleman, was married to Mr. Richard Body, only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Body, at the Dee Why Methodist Church.

All parents of both the bride and groom are ex-pupils of Sydney Boys' and Girls' High Schools.

George Body (about 1910), Mrs. L. Body (nee Hazlewood).

Arthur Castleman (1923), Mrs. Gwenyth Castleman (nee Harvey).

Diane is the grand-daughter of Mr. A. Castleman, M.A., for many years a well-known History Master at Sydney High School.

Walter Avery is on the move again—this time to the satellite city of Elizabeth, where he has settled down and married an English lass. Still with G.M.H., he is now Vehicle Distribution Manager for South Australia.

RO CUTLER

V.C., C.B.E.

GOVERNOR OF NEW SOUTH WALES

Mr. A. R. Cutler.

When the news was received early in November that His Excellency, Mr. A. R. Cutler, V.C., C.B.E., Australian Ambassador to Her Majesty the Queen of the Netherlands has been appointed Governor of New South Wales, all associated with Sydney High School were given a special moment of pride and privilege.

Ro Cutler was of Fifth Year 1934, a crack rifle shot, proud member of the School Cadet Corps and champion swimmer.

"A quiet, unassuming bloke, slogged hard at his studies, good athlete — a staunch friend" was how one of his contemporaries remembered him — and surely these were the basic strengths in a character which has developed to rank among the finest in our land.

Active member of the Old Boys' Union, and the High Club, outstanding school and university sportsman, university graduate and scholar, fine soldier and gentleman, an Australian Ambassador— a man who has mixed with kings and commoners— and a winner of the Victoria Cross, Ro Cutler must surely be today her greatest son.

C. E. RUBIE, President, Sydney High School Old Boys' Union.

The Headmaster has forwarded a telegram to Mr. Cutler warmly congratulating him on his appointment and expressing the pride of the School at the honour conferred on an Old Boy.

Wedding bells soon for Robert Roeder (1959), who is planning to marry Paula Lommon, of Lidcombe. Congratulations to you both and best wishes.

Lieut. Les Francis has returned from Puckapunyal to the A.S.C. at Randwick after four years South of the Border. Welcome home, Les, and hope we see you at the High Club soon.

RECORD

Fifth year Med.-student David Eizenberg (1961) and his brother Laurence (1964) are batting well at Monash Country Club, both playing off a handicap of seven.

Their sister, Rosalind (S.G.H.S.-61 and Bach. Pharm.) was Sydney University Golf Champion, 1963-64.

Both repped for Monash this year—David in the Eric Apperley Shield team and Laurence in the winning Junior Pennant Team.

Congratulations to all of you and especially to Proud Poppa Hyman (S.H.S. 1926). Handicap, five, and President of Monashand Skipper of the O.B.U. Golf Team.

Alan Simons is in London with S.T.C.

Congratulations to Dick Palmisano and Judy Ward on their engagement.

John Agnew is lecturing at Monash University in Chemical Engineering.

Carl Jeffresen is at Adelaide University.

Terry Burke is teaching in New Guinea.

Congratulations to Harold G. Kernshaw (1911-13) on the publication of his Selection of Verses. An autobiographed copy of this little volume is now in the school library.
